City of Coeur d'Alene Leaf-Fest

— Begins November 12th —

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12th, 2020 marks the start of the City of Coeur d'Alene's annual leaf pick-up program. Please be sure to KEEP leaves on your property until Sunday, November 1st. After Sunday the 1st, please rake your leaves and pine needles about one foot away from the gutter/curb line to allow for water drainage. City crews and equipment are limited, so we need your help. Leaves will be picked up only once. Please do not put leaves in the street after city crews have completed your area and do not include bagged leaves, branches, debris or trash.

Pick-up will start south of Sherman Avenue and move north. We expect completion before December 4th. Follow our progress on maps.cdaid.org/leaf

Leaf-Fest Do's & Don'ts

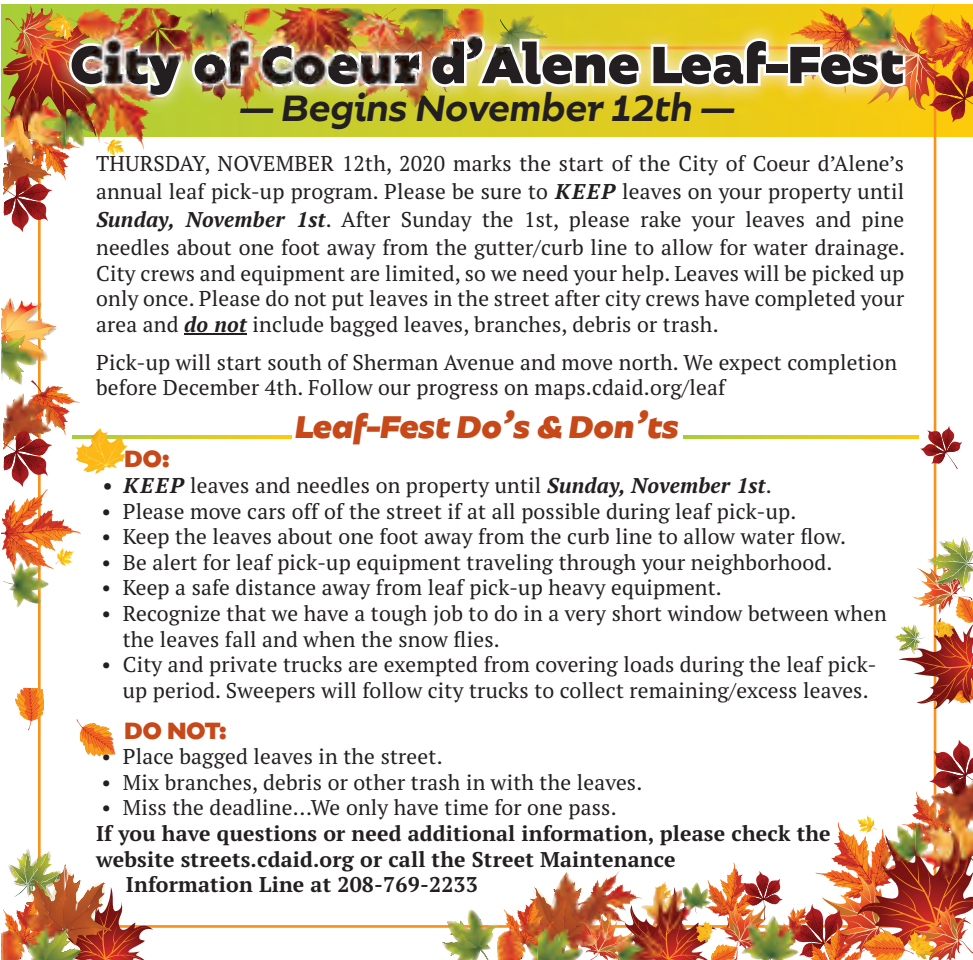

DO:

- KEEP leaves and needles on property until Sunday, November 1st.
- Please move cars off of the street if at all possible during leaf pick-up.
- Keep the leaves about one foot away from the curb line to allow water flow.
- Be alert for leaf pick-up equipment traveling through your neighborhood.
- Keep a safe distance away from leaf pick-up heavy equipment.
- Recognize that we have a tough job to do in a very short window between when the leaves fall and when the snow flies.
- City and private trucks are exempted from covering loads during the leaf pick-up period. Sweepers will follow city trucks to collect remaining/excess leaves.

DO NOT:

- Place bagged leaves in the street.
- Mix branches, debris or other trash in with the leaves.
- Miss the deadline...We only have time for one pass.

If you have questions or need additional information, please check the website streets.cdaid.org or call the Street Maintenance Information Line at 208-769-2233

The Garden Bug

Ranging from Pennsylvania and New Jersey to Ontario, Quebec and the Canadian Maritimes, this shrub is noted for filling the forests with color and for the delicate beauty of each flower. Mass explosions of pink appear in the lower wetlands in May. By mid-June, flowering has moved to the higher-elevation areas of northern New England and Canada, where it is found along woodland trails and mountaintops. Its woody seed pods split in autumn, allowing the winter winds to scatter them.

Know Idaho's Trespassing Laws Before You Go Hunting or Fishing

— Fish and Game —

Hunters, anglers and other sportsmen and women should be aware of Idaho trespass laws before they head into the field. Trespass laws changed in 2018, and here are some basic things to remember:

- You need permission to be on private land.
- It's the responsibility of the hunter/angler to know if they're on private land.
- The laws affecting how landowners must post their property changed in recent years.
- Fines have been stiffened for trespass violations.

"Trespass laws changed in 2018, but the core philosophies have not," said Idaho Fish and Game's Enforcement Bureau Chief Greg Wooten. "It's still the sportsman's responsibility to know when they're on private property and obtain permission to be there."

Hunters, anglers, trappers and other people should know that land is private and they are not allowed without permission if:

- The property is associated with a residence or business;
- Or cultivated;
- Or fenced or enclosed in a way that delineates the private property;
- Or unfenced and uncultivated but is posted with conspicuous "no trespassing" signs or bright orange/fluorescent paint at all property corners and boundaries where the property intersects navigable streams, roads, gates and rights-of-way entering the land and posted in a way that people can see the postings.

Note: if private property adjoins or is contained within public lands, the fence line adjacent to public land should be posted with "no trespassing signs" or bright orange or fluorescent paint at the corners of the fence adjoining public land and at all navigable streams, roads, gates and rights-of-way entering the private land from public land and posted in a way that people can see the postings.

People can use a variety of tools to determine whether they're on public or private lands, including maps, GPS, software (some of which also shows private land ownership), smart phone apps, and more.

Hunters and anglers seeking permission to be on private lands should get written permission from the landowner. A permission form is available on page 2 of the 2019-20 Big Game Season and Rules booklet, and at Fish and Game offices.

Other methods of permission are still legal, but written "is the most solid permission you can have," Wooten said.

Sportsmen and women should also beware of penalties for trespassing. Hunters and anglers have long faced a mandatory one-year revocation of hunting and fishing privileges if they are convicted of trespassing while engaging those activities. There are also steep fines for repeat offenders, and for a person convicted of trespassing three times within a 10-year period, there's a minimum $5000 fine, one to five year license suspension, and they could be charged with a felony.

To learn more about the new law, see Fish and Game's 2018 Trespass Law webpage.

MAC Announces Fall 2020 Exhibitions POP Power from Warhol to Koons Leads the Line-up

— Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture —

The Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture is proud to announce its exhibitions for fall 2020 including two shows that commemorate the 75th anniversary of the end of World War II and a third that celebrates the founding of an iconic local organization that same year. The schedule is headlined by POP Power from Warhol to Koons: Masterworks from the Collection of Jordan D. Schnitzer and His Family Foundation, a fast paced journey through five decades of this fun and irreverent style of art.

“We are honored that the MAC could participate in the national tour of POP Power from Warhol to Koons thanks to Portland based collector Jordan Schnitzer,” said Wes Jessup, Executive Director. “This exhibition tells the story of Pop Art starting from its beginning in the 1960s, when artists went against the grain of their predecessors, embracing humor, celebrity and commerce in colorful and dynamic masterpieces. Soup cans, advertisements, and even graffiti informed the aesthetic of many of the artists in this exhibition; they embraced imagery shunned by the more traditional art world.”

The MAC will also present American Inheritance: Unpacking War II, Bomber Boys: Portraits from the Front, and Music Finds a Way: The Spokane Symphony.

Fall 2020 Exhibition Schedule

POP Power from Warhol to Koons, Masterworks from the Collections of Jordan D. Schnitzer and His Family Foundation

Now - January 24, 2021

From Campbell’s Soup to Mickey Mouse, and from comic strips to balloon dogs, POP Power celebrates a perennial movement that revels in the new and the now, celebrity and commodity, and art made accessible for all. Spanning half a century, it expands beyond the ordinary exhibition of Pop art—now a historical movement of the 1960s—and explores the work of Pop artists, such as leaders Andy Warhol and Roy Lichtenstein, next to that of their present-day, Neo-Pop heirs, including powerhouses such as Jeff Koons, Takashi Murakami, and Damien Hirst.

With the creations of Koons and Hirst fetching some of the world’s highest auction prices for works by living artists, the aesthetics and approaches of Pop art have demonstrated a unique adaptability and staying power, in contrast to other major post-World War II movements like Abstract Expressionism or Minimalism.

“The exhibition of Pop Artists speaks to a time and place in our country’s history that was remarkable,” said Jordan D. Schnitzer, President of the Jordan Schnitzer Family Foundation. “I am pleased that the Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture has chosen to exhibit these works.”

Organized by the Taubman Museum of Art, this exhibition provides new insight into contemporary Neo-Pop art, its diverse manifestations, and its grounding in and evolution from original Pop art. It includes many new acquisitions by Schnitzer and his family foundation.

About the Jordan Schnitzer Family Foundation

At age 14, Jordan D. Schnitzer bought his first work of art from his mother’s Portland, Oregon contemporary art gallery, evolving into a lifelong avocation as collector. He began collecting contemporary prints and multiples in earnest in 1988. Today, the collection exceeds 19,000 works and includes many of today’s most important contemporary artists. It has grown to be one of the country’s largest private print collections. He generously lends work from his collection to qualified institutions. The Foundation has organized over 110 exhibitions and has had art exhibited at over 150 museums. Mr. Schnitzer is also President of Harsch Investment Properties, a privately owned real estate investment company based in Portland, Oregon, owning and managing office, multi-tenant industrial, multi-family and retail properties in six western states. For more information about the Jordan Schnitzer Family Foundation, please visit jordanschnitzer.org.

Music Finds a Way: The Spokane Symphony

Now – January 10, 2021

Spokane has earned its fine symphony the hard way, through sacrifice, dedication, talent and risk. Meet the exceptional men and women who have sustained and propelled the Spokane Symphony into its 75th year, and experience the strength and optimism embodied in the world’s most versatile instrument, the violin.

Bomber Boys: Portraits from the Front

Now – May 23, 2021

Featuring a series of candid portraits reproduced from a secret stash of World War II images, ephemera, and a diary from 1945, the exhibition highlights the combat, crew, and camp life of the 445th bomb squadron of the 12th Army Air Corps stationed on Corsica and in Italy (the same outfit featured in Catch-22).

American Inheritance: Unpacking World War II

October 10, 2020 – May 23, 2021

Seventy-five years after the fighting stopped, evidence of the world’s deadliest global conflict can still be found in almost every home, community and aspect of American life. WWII legacies survive in suburban attics, memorialized in public spaces and the ways in which Americans view the world itself. Over the course of their lives, the men, women and children who experienced World War II first-hand passed down the triumphs and terrors that make up our American Inheritance.

2020 marks both the 75th anniversary of the end of World War II, and the emergence of the world’s first major crisis since the summer of 1945 the COVID-19 pandemic. The MAC presents American Inheritance: Unpacking World War II, an exhibition of usable history that figuratively “unpacks” the legacy of an American generation’s response to crisis.

About the Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture

Founded in 1916, the Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture, popularly known as the “MAC,” is a Smithsonian-affiliated museum of regional history, culture and art. The museum’s extensive permanent collection of Plateau Tribal art and artifacts, regional art and historical objects, and its archives reflect the past, present and future of the Inland Northwest. The MAC presents changing exhibitions drawn from its collections, as well as traveling national exhibitions, all designed to educate, entertain, and engage people of all ages.

Due to the COVID19 pandemic, the museum has instituted new procedures to ensure the health and safety of its staff and visitors, including a requirement to purchase tickets online in advance.

Tips for Keeping Your Home Pest-Free this Fall

— Brandpoint —

Autumn is a wonderful time of year - leaves show brilliant colors, there's a refreshing crispness in the air - but, unfortunately, more bugs and rodents are finding their way into your home. As the season changes, insects and other critters are searching for places to hunker down for the cold weather and scoping out new food sources.

A recent survey conducted on behalf of Tomcat found that 73% of consumers said they would do whatever it takes to get rid of rodents. Over 21 million households see rodents in their homes every winter, and more than 60 million households experience insects indoors. Insects and rodents can be a real health hazard, bringing dirt and diseases into your house.

While everyone is spending more time at home, they're also noticing signs of unwanted visitors in their homes more than ever before. According to a recent survey conducted by Ortho, the number one reason consumers moved away from a professional pest service in 2020 was COVID-19. For health and safety reasons, many were just not willing to invite new people inside their homes. Instead, they've opted to try to handle the problem themselves.

Why wait to discover evidence of pests in your home to take action? If you wait until you see one insect or rodent, there are likely many more already lurking in the nooks, crannies - and walls - of your home. The best way to deal with these unwanted intruders is to be proactive, and keep them out of your house in the first place.

To help you better prepare to prevent bugs and rodents from entering your home this fall, Ortho and Tomcat's Gretchen White, Home Pest Scientist, has shared the following tips:

1. Keep your home clean

Inside:

- Clean up food crumbs or spills promptly. Avoid leaving pet food out overnight.
- Store food in containers that can't be chewed through. Especially pet food.
- Use a trash can with a lid in the kitchen.
- Keep pipes and drains in good repair, as bugs and critters also need sources of water.

WANTED: HARLEY Davidson motorcycle, with sidecar pre-2000, reasonably priced. 208-245-5646

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS. 48" riding mower (with grass catcher bag) $500; Hoveround electric scooter $500; power treadmill $400; grandfather clock $500; woman's dresser with mirror $250; adjustable queen size bed $400; Power Hylift recliner chair $500; bedside commode $20; shower/ bath seat $20; bread machine $20; turkey roaster $10; filing cabinet $10; Kirby vacuum $300. Can be seen at 5314 W. Lowell Ave, Spokane or call 509-842-6638

- Clear out piles of debris, newspapers or cardboard that could be used by rodents for nesting material in garages, attics or basements where rodents might take up residence.

Outside:

- Keep trash containers tightly closed, and store bird food or seeds in sealed containers.
- Check around your home for piles of leaves, debris or wood where insects and rodents can nest.
- Remove any standing water.
- Make sure your chimney is capped.
- Seal any openings in the exterior of your home.
- Cut back any vegetation touching the exterior that pests could climb to gain access to any openings.

2. Block them from entering

Insects:

According to the Ortho survey, the most common pests homeowners try to get rid of are: ants, crawling insects, spiders, flying insect, termites, carpenter ants, and bed bugs.

Unfortunately, it's hard to keep small insects from entering through holes and cracks you may not even see.

One easy solution is to use an indoor barrier product like Ortho Home Defense Max Indoor Insect Barrier against all common household insects. It kills and deters ants, cockroaches, spiders, fleas, ticks, scorpions, beetles, earwigs, silverfish, centipedes, millipedes and more. The fast-drying formula has no fumes and leaves no stains, so you can use it with confidence indoors. People and pets can reenter the space once the product has dried. It spreads easily into cracks, crevices, under appliances and into hard-to-reach places where insects hide. This is the perfect product to use before you even see any insects - putting down a preventative barrier to keep bugs out.

Rodents:

Rats and mice can enter your home through small holes, cracks or crevices - even as small as a dime. Check your home's exterior for holes or cracks and seal with caulk, expanding foam, or weather-stripping depending on the size and where you find the holes. When possible, use these flexible materials in combination with those that rodents can't chew through, such as steel wool, hardware cloth, galvanized sheet metal and cement.

Those measures aren't fool-proof, however. You can also keep rodents from even trying to come inside by spraying potential points of entry like doors, windows, pipes, cracks, crevices and vents with Tomcat Repellents Rodent Repellent Continuous Spray, which uses essential oil technology to give off a smell and taste rodents naturally hate, but is safe to use around kids and pets when used as directed. It's easy to apply, and features a no-stink, long-lasting rain-resistant formula.

Following these tips will help give you peace of mind so you can enjoy your home this fall - and year-round - without the constant worry, annoyance and potential health risks insects and rodents can bring.

Family Caregivers Of Veterans Eligible For Free Professional Help

— NAPS —

The Elizabeth Dole Foundation and U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs have launched an emergency respite care fund for the family caregivers of wounded, ill, and injured veterans. The program, Respite Relief for Military and Veteran Caregivers, will provide non-medical, no-cost, professional home care to veteran caregivers who are struggling during the COVID-19 pandemic. CareLinX, a nationwide professional home care network, helped launch the fund with a donation of $1 million worth of services. Wounded Warrior Project then contributed an additional $1 million to expand the program. The Foundation expects to provide 75,000 hours of care to more than 3000 veteran caregivers.

"The lack of affordable, convenient, professional respite care has always taken a significant toll on the emotional and physical well-being of veteran caregivers," said Steve Schwab, CEO of the Elizabeth Dole Foundation. "Now, due to the increased health risks and limitations created by the pandemic, we are seeing a spike in the need for short-term relief."

Even as states re-open, some of the most critically wounded or ill veterans and their caregivers will have a long journey back to the pre-pandemic world. These veterans often have vulnerable immune systems that require their caregivers to take every precaution against exposure. By asking family and friends to keep their distance, they are losing a vital source of daily support.

"We are grateful to CareLinX and Wounded Warrior Project for helping us respond to this urgent need," Schwab continued. "We hope other organizations also step up, so we can ensure every veteran caregiver suffering during COVID-19 receives the help they need."

The program is rolling out in select regions and will expand nationwide over time. Eligible caregivers can request services that include companionship, grocery shopping, cooking, mobility assistance, transportation, bathing, and other activities of daily living. AARP and Bob Woodruff Foundation have also joined as key collaborators for this effort to help spread the word to military and veteran caregivers. To learn more and apply, visit www.hiddenheroes.org/respite.

Pumpkin Giveaway and Contest at the Library

— CdA Library —

The City of Coeur d'Alene Composting Facility has a bumper crop of pumpkins and the Coeur d'Alene Public Library will give them away Friday, Oct. 16th, beginning at 9am, from the lower parking lot on the McEuen Park side of the building. And patrons are invited to use these pumpkins or their own for a Pumpkin Decorating Contest.

"We really appreciate the Wastewater Department for providing the pumpkins every year," Circulation Manager Tyler McLane. "This is a very unique interdepartmental partnership within the city and something we can all enjoy."

In previous years the library has hosted a Pumpkin Painting Party in the Community Room and invited participants to display their work throughout the building for patrons to vote on as part of a contest. Due to COVID restrictions, that is not possible this year.

The Oct. 16th event will be a drive-through activity. Participants will remain in their vehicles and library staff will hand out the pumpkins. Bagged decorating supplies will also be available. Entry forms for the decorating contest can be downloaded from www.facebook.com/CDALibrary.

To participate in the Pumpkin-decorating contest, participants are asked to submit photos – one entry per person – of their decorated pumpkins to info@cdalibrary.org by Oct. 23rd. Participants are welcome to use their own pumpkins and, unlike previous years, the pumpkins can be carved. Participants are asked to keep their themes family friendly and the library reserves the right to disqualify inappropriate entries.

All entries will be displayed on the library Facebook page where the public can vote on the entries by liking the images until Oct. 30th. Winners will be announced on Oct. 31st. Entries will be voted on in youth, teen, and adult categories.

In order to ensure that the prizes can be claimed, contestants must be local residents able to come to the library. For more information, contact the library at info@cdalibrary.org.

Another Remarkable Cutthroat Trout Breaks Recent Catch-and-Release State Record

— Fish and Game —

Congratulations to Nate Burr of Rexburg on setting a new state record by landing a remarkable 31-inch Yellowstone cutthroat trout. Burr and a fellow angler had been fly fishing the Snake River for three days and looking for big trout without much success. As evening set in on the third day of slow fishing, their luck changed as a huge trout smashed Burr's fly.

Nate grew up in Tetonia and has began his career as a fly-fishing guide at age 18. In recent years, he's focused more on catching larger trout and less on catching big numbers of fish.

"It was one of those brutally slow days," Burr said. "Hunting big trout on streamers means a day on the water can go from zero to 100 in a split second. That was exactly the case with this fish."

After chasing the hooked trout for nearly half a mile downstream in a drift boat, the pair managed to finally scoop the fish with a landing net. After taking a quick photo and reviving the fish, Burr released the huge trout back into the Snake River, securing his name in the record books.

Yellowstone Cutthroat Trout over 30 inches are exceedingly rare - especially in river systems where they do not grow as quickly as in large lakes. Even more remarkable, is that this fish just barely beats the 30.5-inch monster Yellowstone cutthroat trout record set in August by Sam Hix, also from the Snake River.

The catch-and-release record program began in 2016 as a way to recognize anglers that wanted to release the trophy fish they caught. You can find a list of records and how to apply on the Idaho State Record Fish Page.

A Surprising Solution for Stress Relief

— Family Features —

From finances and health concerns to lengthy to-do lists, there are numerous sources of strain in the lives of most people.

According to a survey conducted by Wakefield Research, 68 percent of people feel stress on a weekly basis and 32 percent are stressed every day. Women, in particular, are impacted, as 25 percent surveyed reported experiencing stress multiple times a day. However, today there is a surprisingly simple way to relieve stress: flowers.

New research from the University of North Florida's Department of Public Health shows that living with flowers can significantly alleviate daily stress. These findings follow decades of behavioral research studies conducted by researchers at universities including Harvard, Rutgers and Texas A&M that demonstrate flowers' ability to make people happy, strengthen feelings of compassion, foster creativity and even provide boosts of energy.

The study, titled The Impact of Flowers on Perceived Stress Among Women, concludes that adding flowers to indoor environments results in a statistically significant and meaningful reduction in stress.

"There is a growing body of research that illustrates how environmental design positively impacts health," said lead researcher Erin Largo-Wight, Ph.D., associate professor of the University of North Florida's Department of Public Health. "Now it is both intuitive and scientifically known that adding elements of nature, like flowers, to interiors promotes well-being."

The specific results include:

The average reduction in stress among women who received and lived with flowers was minus-5.5 points on the perceived stress questionnaire, a significant statistical decrease in stress.

Flowers are a unique gift with the proven potential to reduce stress among women, likely because flowers provide the opportunity for nature contact, an established health-promoting environmental exposure. Participants who received flowers overwhelmingly reported that flowers improved their moods.

"Our findings are important from a public health perspective because adding flowers to reduce stress does not require tremendous effort to generate a meaningful effect," Largo-Wight said. "When life seems to be in a constant state of frenzy, flowers can provide a much-needed moment of calm."

Where to Place Heaters in Your Home?

— Enzine Articles —

So, winter is coming and the weather has taken the turn towards cold. In the midst of the changing weather, you’ve researched heat pump solutions and have decided to purchase a unit. You’ll need to place your new unit somewhere in the home, but where?

The placement of your heating pump will depend on a few things, though the type of heater is one of the most important factors in determining placement. The layout of your home must also be considered, so you’ll need to find out your options. To help you along the way, let’s go over where to place some common heaters.

Heating Ducts

Central heating may seem complicated, but it is easy to figure out where to place a heating duct. Commonly, ducts are placed inside either the ceiling, wall, or floor. A vent will be placed as well, and do better when they are placed in the floor of your home. However, you may be limited to where you can place furniture to avoid blocking vents in the floor.

Vents provide the best heat when they are placed in areas where household members sit or work. All vents will need to be installed in accordance with state requirements, so it is recommended that you work with a technician.

Permanent Space Heaters

When placing space heaters in the home, especially heaters that emit convective heat, install them in an area where they will not blow directly at or onto a wall. The ideal placement for these heaters is anywhere that allows it to circulate air without being positioned too closely to sitting areas.

Wood heaters are typically placed in an area that is away from couches and other flammable materials but close enough to emit warmth without getting too hot. Specialists in heating for Davenport homes can help you determine where to place units so that the home is kept comfortable and safe.

Portable Heaters

Portable heat pump solutions include portable heaters, which can be placed just about anywhere inside the home. There are some tricks, though, that can be used to make sure that they perform as well as possible. For example, placing them close to the ground allows hot air to rise and warm your space.

Another tip is to ensure that fans on the heater are not blocked by walls and other items, as this can cause them to overheat. Bar heaters should also be kept away from flammable items and materials that may catch on fire. Avoid putting heaters next to open windows, as the air will reduce your heater’s performance.

Being comfortable and warm in your own home is a wonderful feeling. However, it can be daunting when you find yourself constantly cold in the middle of winter no matter how much you bundle up. If you’re considering getting a heat pump, consider where you can place it to get the maximum warmth and comfort. By doing so, you save yourself time wondering where to place it and can be warm and comfy much sooner.

Easy Buttermilk Mashed Sweet Potatoes

— NAPS —

Side dishes are often the best part of a meal, and mashed potatoes are among the top contenders. Here's a very simple take on that old favorite with a modern twist—mashed California sweet potatoes with buttermilk and fresh herbs. The buttermilk provides a hint of tang and the herbs add brightness, making this a versatile dish that offsets a heavy winter meal yet pairs perfectly with lighter springtime or summer fare. Plus, California sweet potatoes are a nice change of pace from regular mashed potatoes—and with more fiber.

Easy-to-Make Buttermilk Mashed California Sweet Potatoes with Fresh Herbs

- 2-1/2 lb orange or yellow-white fleshed sweet potatoes, or a combination, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
- 4 tbsp. butter
- 3/4 cup buttermilk
- 1 tbsp. chopped fresh cilantro
- 1 tbsp. chopped fresh dill
- 1 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley
- 2 tsp. chopped fresh mint
- 1 tsp. salt, or more to taste
- 1 tsp. pepper, or more to taste

Place sweet potatoes in large saucepan or small stockpot, cover with water by 1 inch, and bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce to a simmer; continue to cook until very tender, 6 to 8 minutes. Drain sweet potatoes; return to saucepan. Add butter and mash. Add buttermilk, cilantro, dill, parsley, mint, salt and pepper. Add more salt and pepper to taste and serve.

Creative family fun

Craft-Felted Autumn Acorns

Felting "acorns" using fluffy natural wool is a relaxing and enjoyable fall activity for all ages. It's especially suited for young children who like to get their hands in soapy water to shape and change the structure of the soft wool into dense felted wool balls.

The material used for making the soft balls is called wool roving, available at some craft stores, yarn shops or online (resources below). It is wool that has been cleaned, combed and sometimes dyed. You'll discover that the lovely colors are so inspiring, it's hard to choose favorites.

Use real caps from fallen acorns you've foraged from your yard or on nature walks for these stunning, artful creations. You'll be gluing the felted acorn balls to the caps. For a variation, drill two tiny holes through the acorn cap and thread a string for a felted acorn necklace, make an ornament to hang on a tree branch, or hang several in a windowsill. So many possibilities!

Here's the stuff you need for a 1-inch felted acorn:

- A piece of 2-inch-by-6-inch slightly stretched out wool roving
- Small bowl of hot water with a drop or two of liquid soap

- Hot glue gun or glue suitable for fabrics
- A large acorn cap

Here's the fun, using a hands-on "wet felting" technique:

1. Roll up the first inch or so of the wool, then twist slightly and continue rolling it into a tight ball. Smooth the loose end over the ball. It will be about the size of a large cotton ball, but will become half the size as fibers eventually mesh.

2. Wet the ball with the soapy water. Toss it back and forth from hand to hand over the bowl while occasionally dipping it in the soapy water. (The soap changes the pH of the wool, and helps the fibers to open. The hotter the water, the faster it felts.) Be gentle, and continue rolling it around in your hand. You might want to elongate the ball shape to match the original acorn size as you move it around.

3. Rinse the ball in cold clear water. Gently squeeze out water. Let dry overnight.

4. Glue acorn cap to the felted ball.

Note: If you wish to paint the acorn cap, do so before attaching to the felt ball. Online resources: livingfelt.com and joann.com.

Bird Hunters Encouraged to Donate Their Wings

— Fish and Game —

With many upland game bird seasons open or opening soon, the Idaho Department of Fish and Game is asking hunters to donate a fully feathered wing for each bird they harvest.

Because juvenile and adult birds molt their wing feathers differently, biologists can use this information to estimate chick production that year. For sage grouse, biologists can even tell if an adult female successfully produced chicks that year. In addition, the percentage of juveniles and adults wings collected can provide information on production rates. All of this information can help determine the status of various game bird populations and helps Fish and Game improve management.

Hunters can provide wings from harvested upland birds to Fish and Game in a variety of ways. They can drop their wings off at department-run check stations or in "wing barrels" located at popular access routes throughout the hunting season.

Unfortunately, check stations and wing barrels sometimes miss grouse hunters in more remote areas of the state. Fish and Game uses a mail-in wing program to target those hunters that may not pass by a check station or wing barrel. About 2500 hunters who purchased a Sage/sharp-tailed grouse permit will receive a packet in the mail with specific directions and a pre-paid return envelope.

Sage-grouse and sharp-tailed grouse hunters who did not receive a mail-in wing envelope and are unable to locate a wing barrel site, but still wish to participate, should contact their nearest regional Fish and Game office for more information.

Hunters and anyone else heading into the backcountry are advised to check with Forest Service ranger district offices or county sheriffs' offices in their hunt area before heading out. Fire updates can be found online at: inciweb.nwcc.gov/?state=16.

Additional fire information is available on Fish and Game's Fire Information webpage, and the Fish and Game Hunt Planner Map Center at: idfg.idaho.gov/ifwis/huntplanner/mapcenter/. To display fire information on the hunt planner map, click "Turn Layers On/Off," select "Wildfires & Closure Related Layers," and check the boxes next to "Active Fire Report" and "Fire Emergency Closure Areas."

Fish and Game generally doesn't close hunts or change seasons in response to fire restrictions. Most fires do not affect an entire controlled hunt unit or elk zone for the entire duration of the hunt, so hunters have the option of hunting a different portion of the hunt area that is not affected by fires or after the fire is out.

Hunters can also hunt later in the season (if the season is still open) or exchange general tags to hunt in a different area in which tags are available, such as uncapped elk zones, or capped elk zones that are not yet sold out.

Typically, a tag must be exchanged prior to that tag's season opener, although regional Fish and Game offices will on rare occasion extend deadlines for exchanging a tag when there are extenuating circumstances for a specific hunt.

Resident hunters with controlled hunt tags may exchange them for general season tags before the controlled hunt begins, but controlled hunt fees would not be refunded.

Nonresident hunters may not exchange a controlled hunt tag because the nonresident limit of general hunt tags has sold out for 2020.

Fish and Game may consider requests for rain checks or refunds, but typically only in a situation where all access to a controlled hunt area or an elk zone is blocked by fire or fire closures for the duration of a hunt.

Resolve to Better the Lives of Animals

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Every year, I make a resolution to care for my pets. At one time I had two dogs, Sadie and Shadow, a cat named Harley and a sassy budgie named Petey. They've each passed on as the years went by, and finally in September, Harley crossed the rainbow bridge, the last of my pets to go. It's been a sad time, but I am looking forward to the new year nonetheless.

I don't plan to go out and get a new pet, not just yet. But I am going to make life better for other animals as best I can. To that end, my resolutions include: Spending one afternoon a week volunteering at the local animal shelter; donating money to organizations that help rehabilitate injured wildlife; and taking care of friends' pets when they need help.

These may be pretty simple resolutions compared with others', but it's the best I can do right now. I hope you like my story! — Jane V., Dothan, Alabama

DEAR JANE: I think your resolutions are fantastic, and they will keep you busier than you think. Giving our time and energy to care for other beings can bring us some amazing rewards. It's also a wonderful way to celebrate the lives of your beloved pets, and can help as you move through your grief at their loss.

I hope my readers feel the same way, and that as the year closes, they are resolving to make the lives of animals better in some small way during the coming year. Here's wishing a happy New Year to all of my readers!

Outdoor Activities For the Family

— Gary Pearson —

Spending time outdoors enjoying family activities with your children is one of the best ways to pass a day. There are fun family outdoor activities that you can take part in year round. Doing things with your children in this way offers unique opportunities to communicate and reconnect while also having fun.

Planning fun family outdoor activities takes a little preparation. It's best to talk with your family and find out which activities they would enjoy, then plan outings accordingly. Medical conditions have to be a consideration also. A child with allergies probably won't enjoy a walk in the woods as much as the rest of the family. You have to take everything into account so the whole family enjoys the activity.

There are quite a few outdoor activities to choose from. Here are some you might want to consider:

- Boating: If you do have a family member with allergies, you might consider boating as an outdoor family activity. With boating you don't have tree and flower allergens to deal with.
- Hiking: Going for a hike is a great outdoor activity for the whole family. You can take traditional hikes in the woods of your local state parks, go to military parks and use the hike as an educational tool, or even go to botanical gardens and caves for day hikes. Hiking is an activity that you can partake in most any time of the year if your state doesn't have bad winters. Just make sure you and your children have the appropriate clothing and gear.
- Swimming: A day spent swimming at the lake is probably the ultimate fun family outdoor activity. Children love splashing around in the water, and going to the lake is usually a fairly inexpensive activity which is good for your wallet.
- Fishing: Get the kids and the fishing gear together and head out to catch the big one. Fishing is a sport that everyone can enjoy. They even have pink fishing poles for little girls these days to make them more interested in the activity. Fishing offers great opportunities for reconnecting for the whole family. Sitting on the creek bank, or in the boat, waiting for the fish to bite, is the perfect time to ask about each other's day.
- Skiing: During the winter months the family can go skiing together. Everyone can start out on the bunny slopes together while they learn the ropes. Being on top of the mountain and looking out at the vast horizon and beauty surrounding you is one of the best feelings in the world.

Those are just a few ideas to get you started. There are numerous outdoor activities that families can enjoy. Being together is the most important thing. Spending time doing fun family outdoor activities will improve relationships, develop bonds that last a lifetime, and keep everyone active. Make outdoor family activities a part of your life.

Leif Erikson Day

— National Day Calendar —

On October 9th, Nordic communities worldwide will celebrate Leif Erikson Day – remembering the explorer credited with bringing the first Nordic people to America around the year 1000. The holiday has been adopted by a variety of states throughout the 20th century and represents a celebration of Norwegian explorers, the spirit of discovery, and the contributions of Norwegians in America. It's a great opportunity to tuck in for a plate of herring and read up on your history of discovery!

Leif Erikson was likely born in Iceland around 970 or 980, son of Erik the Red and Thjodhild, and distant relative of the explorer who was said to have discovered Iceland. He was a true Viking from the start and had two brothers and a sister. His father was banished from Iceland and went to Greenland to establish the first permanent settlement there in 986.

Leif, however, apparently had enough of the extreme cold. He and his crew traveled to Norway in 999, where he was converted to Christianity and given the mission of introducing Christianity to Greenland. This was essential to his legend, as it was during this journey to Greenland, 500 years before Columbus would sail the ocean blue, that he was apparently blown off-course to what he called "Vinland." Hint – it's North America!

The New World to Leif is Eastern Canada to us, but that didn't stop him from naming it "Vinland," after all of the vines and grapes that covered the land. His crew built a settlement there for visitors and spent the winter in their undiscovered territory. Come Spring, Leif's crew loaded their ship with grapes and timber and headed back to Greenland.

Nothing is known of his death, which was presumably in Greenland. However, his legacy has lived on for centuries. As word of his travels spread, other Norwegian explorers made the journey to Vinland, even making contact with the indigenous people. Norse settlements peppered Vinland, though they did not last. The Norwegian people were earning a reputation for these journeys, which spread toward Europe rapidly – some believe even Christopher Columbus had heard about it.

Norwegian people identify themselves and their culture with the courageous and intrepid explorations of Leif Erikson. As they immigrated in droves to the United States, statues of Leif Erikson began to crop up, and Scandinavian communities, particularly in the Midwest, still define themselves by his spirit and legacy today!

Find a Grill to Fit Your Style

— Family Features —

Whether you're ready for a grilling marathon or want an easy way to elevate each meal, there's an outdoor grill to fit your style. Beyond your eating habits and schedule, understanding the many styles of outdoor grills and the benefits of each is crucial to choosing the right one for you.

Get started on your next grilling adventure with advice and tips from chef Jason Morse, Ace Hardware grilling expert and owner and executive chef of 5280 Culinary, about some of the most popular options that can help you turn up the heat.

The Everyday Grill

If you're always on the go and looking for fast and easy meals that go from prep to plate within 30 minutes, a gas grill may be perfect for you. Gas grills offer fast heat up times, higher temperatures and faster cooking. You can prepare your proteins while the grill heats up and have dinner on the table in next to no time.

Even if you're still a grill master-in-training, natural and propane gas grills are practically foolproof. They're quick to ignite, require less cleanup after cooking and they're versatile enough to allow for searing, smoking, plank, rotisserie and indirect grilling. Temperature control knobs offer heat control for even cooking and many models also include built-in thermometers to help ensure your food is perfectly cooked every time.

Hot and fast is what a gas grill delivers, and an option like the Weber Genesis II E-325 Liquid Propane Grill features an exclusive grilling engine, three powerful burners, a grill handle light, enclosed grill cabinet for storage and smart technology compatibility.

Time for Wood-Fired Fun

Wood-fired flavor takes time to create, but you can slice a little off the wait time with a wood pellet grill. These grills have shorter heat up times, medium-to-high temperatures and enhance the food with wood flavor. Wood pellet grills are also good add-on choices for pit bosses and first-timers alike since they can be used to reverse sear or add smoke prior to searing.

Pellet grills cook foods a bit differently than other types of grills. They use wood pellets as fuel, which adds a distinct flavor profile to your foods. Adjusting the type of hardwood pellets (such as apple, hickory, mesquite or oak) allows you to create a range of different flavors.

An option like the Traeger Ironwood 885 with Pellet Sensor can take your craft to the next level. This grill features a drivetrain designed for fast heating along with a super smoke mode, large capacity (10 chickens, seven racks of ribs or nine pork butts) and technology that lets you keep track of progress without standing over the grill.

Weekend Warrior Charcoal

Charcoal can add depth to the flavors brought about by grilling your food. While this grill type takes a little more time to get the fire established, it is a practical choice for large groups and ideal for an afternoon to kick back and enjoy the process. Charcoal grills are some of the most economical options, but still provide a traditional grilling experience perfect for classics like juicy steaks or backyard favorites like burgers and dogs with flavors that can make nearly everyone happy.

Charcoal briquettes or lump charcoal provide the fuel, heat and smoky flavor this kind of grilling is known for by cooking low and slow or on high heat for searing. While there are plenty of different charcoal grills to choose from, one popular option is The Big Green Egg XL. It's a high-quality, versatile and easy-to-use outdoor cooker, offering a variety of cooking methods from traditional grilling and smoking to baking and roasting as well as precise temperature control and an efficient design to make lighting the charcoal simple.

With its selection of gas, charcoal and smoker grills and grilling accessories that can help turn your cooker into a wood-fired pizza oven, charcoal wok station or smashburger grill, a retailer like Ace Hardware is a one-stop-shop for all your outdoor cooking needs. You can also up your grilling game with rib racks, chicken thrones, Planchas (griddles) and more. Visit acehardware.com or your local store to find the perfect grill and accessories.

5 Tips for Creating a Low-Maintenance Home

— Family Features —

Because most people are spending more time at home than usual, ensuring your living spaces are clean and uncluttered can make being home more comfortable and enjoyable. However, not everyone has the time, or desire, to devote to constant maintenance.

A shift toward less work around the house just takes some prep work and smart tools.

Organize and declutter. Working your way around stacks of things you don't use frequently, or need at all, can make it difficult to keep your home tidy. Cut back on the clutter by sorting items into categories such as things you use often, those you rarely use and things you don't need any longer. Donate what you don't need then work on organizing the rest. Invest in drawers, shelves and storage bins to ensure everything has a place, and only leave out the items you use frequently.

Automate your cleaning. You can simplify your chores by putting technology to work for you. One example is an all-in-one robotic vacuum cleaner and floor mop that keep floors clean so you don't have to think about it, such as the Deebot T5 from Ecovacs. Its patented OZMO Mopping System allows it to vacuum and mop simultaneously, removing up to 99% of bacteria without any harsh chemicals. It smartly maps your home with laser technology, and the automatic carpet detection feature avoids carpet when mopping to keep it from getting wet. You can even schedule cleanings from your phone.

Manage paper. It can be easy to allow mail, magazines and other paper to pile up. To help manage the influx, create an "inbox" in a convenient location and put mail and paperwork there all week. Designate one day each week to sort, take action, shred and dispose of mail and other paper you've collected.

Create a labeling system. The hassle of finding and remembering where you put extra linens, wading through a cluttered spice rack or locating the hammer can be unnecessary stressors. Consider investing in a label maker to help make it easier to keep organized and find the things you're looking for when you need them.

Use time wisely. Devoting a small amount of time to daily maintenance is key. If a task takes just a few minutes to do - like scheduling your robot vacuum to clean or putting dishes in the dishwasher - do it as needed. Then, every day, spend 10-15 minutes tidying up and putting things away so they don't pile up and lead to more time-consuming chores. A low-maintenance home can free your time for more living.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT 2020 EDITION

Get Your Home Ready for Work and School this Winter

— Family Features —

Although preparing your home for winter is a fairly consistent process year-to-year, many homes have seen significantly more use this year due to COVID-19 restrictions. If your home will serve as your office or school throughout the winter months, it's important to address issues that may have been noticed but tolerable during winters past.

Consider these tips from the experts at the National Association of the Remodeling Industry to help ensure your home is ready before winter weather strikes.

Improve Indoor Air Quality

Beyond proper physical and structural considerations of winter preparations, the increased daily usage of your home naturally increases the importance of indoor air quality. Since windows and doors will likely be closed more often, moisture levels within your home can be significantly affected. Use a humidifier, if necessary, to maintain a relative humidity between 45-50%, which is healthier and can feel more comfortable. It can also keep wooden doors and windows functioning properly and wood furniture and floors looking good.

Get Your Furnace Checked

To keep your furnace from failing when you need it most, get it inspected by a professional before you need to rely on it to heat your home in the dead of winter. If you're not leaving the house and turning down the thermostat each day, this will be especially important this year. Regular tune-ups can prolong your furnace's life, help prevent carbon monoxide leaks and ensure your unit is working at maximum efficiency. If a whole-house humidifier is included as part of the heating system, also inspect the humidifier and replace the element, if necessary.

Seal Leaks Around Windows and Doors

Air infiltration is one of the largest culprits of reductions in a home's efficiency. Small air leaks can add up to significant heat loss and a corresponding increase in energy consumption. If replacing window screens with storm windows and installing a storm door on your house isn't realistic, increase energy efficiency by sealing gaps around window and door moldings with caulk to help keep heat from escaping. If any pipes or ducts travel through an exterior wall of your home, you can also use caulking and weather-stripping to help block potential entry points for cold air.

Check Your Gutters

Improper drainage away from the home is one of the biggest causes of water leaking into basements and crawlspaces. Gutters and downspouts have the single purpose of routing water away from your home to help prevent damage to your foundation. Once leaves have fallen and before the first snow, ensure your gutters are properly secured and clear of debris. Clogged gutters can lead to improper drainage and potential overflow, ice damming or other water-related issues. Also adjust downspouts so they direct water at least 5 feet from the house to help minimize the possibility of water run-off back toward the foundation.

Prep the Plumbing

When water freezes, it expands. Any residual water in pipes that is exposed to freezing temperatures, including interior lines located in exterior walls or unheated areas, can burst. Start by disconnecting hoses and shutting off exterior faucets, draining any water that remains in them and storing hoses indoors to prevent cracks. Drain any other pipes, valves or in-ground sprinklers that may be exposed to the elements and, for an extra layer of protection, wrap water spigots with covers to prevent damage. Sometimes a simple trick like keeping a cabinet door cracked open to allow warm air into the space can prevent frozen pipes.

Efforts to Reduce Wildfire Risk and Epidemics of Forest Disease Has a New Coordinator

— Idaho Department of Lands —

More than 6 million acres of Idaho's forestlands are designated as "high risk" for potential catastrophic wildfire and insect and disease outbreaks. This week, Ara Andrea becomes the new coordinator for the group effort known as "Shared Stewardship" to address these issues with federal, state, and private land managers.

Idaho's Shared Stewardship Initiative efforts emerged as a result of collaboration between the State of Idaho and the USDA Forest Service in 2018. The initiative analyzes how to best focus federal and state resources on critically needed treatments in at-risk forests across ownership boundaries.

By strategizing with the working members of Governor Little's Shared Stewardship Advisory Group, one of Andrea's top priorities is to collect and convey meaningful accomplishment metrics to show leaders and the general public how Idaho is making improvements in forest management.

"My primary goal is to implement wildfire risk-reducing treatments through strong partnerships, close collaboration, and participatory leadership," said Andrea. "Building on past collaborative efforts and taking the next step to an 'all hands, all lands' approach is how I see our threatened forests becoming more resilient to fire and disease."

Andrea was hired by the Idaho Department of Lands (IDL) as the statewide coordinator of the Shared Stewardship Initiative in Idaho and starts her new position today. For the last four years, Andrea has been IDL's Forestry Assistance Bureau Chief, and for three years prior, was IDL's Technical Services Bureau Chief. She is excited to assume this liaison role to strengthen relationships between the agencies, organizations and landowners that will work together to get these needed management activities completed on the ground.

Simple Tips to Repair Leaks in Your Roof

— Ezine Articles —

If you need to repair your roof leaks, we have some simple but important tips for you. It's important that you locate and fix the leaks in order to prevent your roof wood from further damage. Read on to find out more.

Identify the Roof Leaks

Fixing roof leaks is much easier than locating one as leaks tend to develop away from the original spot. However, it's better that you detect roof leaks as soon as you can. Once identified, you can fix the repairs yourself or look for a good professional. Given below are some tips that help you look for the leaks.

- Take a closer look at your attic interior and roof exterior for the purpose of inspection.
- Look for a hole between the sturdy hardwoods.
- Look for loose nails and inspect the tiles
- Look for the causes of cracks, gaps, and holes during the day. If you are using an external light, make sure you check everything properly. The flashlight should be bright enough.
- Take a look at the walls and the ceilings for any watermark.

Tips to detect Difficult Roof Leaks

- After a rain, get a powerful flashlight and get inside the attic to examine it. Don't step through the ceiling though. If there is no rain, drop water on your roof to cause an artificial leak.
- Now, take a closer look at the rafters and roof decking above the wet point
- Find out if there are any wet spots or stains up the roof decking or rafters
- Mark the position of the leak on your roof

Solutions for a Small Leak

- After the detection of the leakage source, you may want to take steps to fix it without wasting time. Although you may need professional help to fix some repairs, minor leaks can be fixed with DIY methods. Follow the tips given below.
- You can use a special primer and patch to fix small holes in your roof
- Fix your asphalt shingles or they may cause rainwater penetration, which may cause further damage
- Unlike regular asphalts, laminated shingles are much broader and may require longer fasteners or nails for better security
- Ideally, it's better to fix the leaks when it's raining as you will find it harder to detect the leaks once it stops raining.
- It's easy to repair weather-stripped dormers and walls as needed. However, if there is a missing or rotten siding, you may have to install a new piece.

Home Insurance and Roof Leaks

In some cases, your home insurance may provide coverage for your roof repairs, such as missing shingles after a heavy snowstorm or wind storm. In other words, if the damage is caused by an unavoidable event, your insurance provider may provide you with compensation. However, if the loss occurred due to your own negligence, you won't be able to turn to your insurance provider. For instance, if you don't take the steps to maintain your roof, you may not get compensation.

10 Backyard DIY Projects You Could Start Today

— Article City —

Science shows us that creative projects and outlets help us manage our stress. Finding the time to create something unique and useful in your backyard is the perfect stress-relieving DIY project for you to tackle today!

We have put together a fantastic list of the top 10 best DIY projects for your backyard. From zen gardens to entertainment stations these projects are guaranteed to put a smile on your face. Let's take a look!

1. Edible Gardens

You can turn your backyard into your private grocery store with the addition of an edible garden. Start small by adding a raised garden bed in an area of your backyard that receives ample sunlight.

When choosing what to grow you will want to have a variety of herbs and vegetables, however, if you are new to gardening start with easy to grow crops such as cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, etc. as these will be easier to manage.

Plan your garden out before starting to help you decide how many crops you will be planting and what varieties. Be sure to invest in good soil so your plants grow strong and big, and don't forget to purchase some good gardening gloves as well!

2. Outdoor Bar

An outdoor bar is a fun way to create an entertainment station for your friends and family. For this DIY project, you can either buy a bar stand that is already put together or you can give building a custom bar a try. This service area will be the perfect spot to host parties and backyard BBQs.

Consider things like seating and ice and beverage storage when creating the space. Adding the appropriate outdoor lighting will help the area feel more inviting for you and your guests.

3. Gazebo

A Gazebo is a beautiful structure that will add beauty as well as functionality to your backyard. You can use your Gazebo to host outdoor dinners or turn it in do an outdoor studio. If your yard gets a lot of sun a Gazebo is the perfect structure to get relief from the heat.

Another option to the traditional Gazebo is an open-air Gazebo. This style of shade structure allows for some sun and rain to come through making it a good option for those who wish to keep plants growing inside of the structure.

4. Zen Garden

Creating a zen garden in your backyard is a beautiful way to create a meditative and relaxing space. The components of a zen garden are meant to inspire tranquility and appreciation for the beauty of nature. Before you get started on your garden you will need the following items:

- white gravel
- Metal rake
- Wooden zen rake
- Variety of rocks in all shapes and sizes
- Landscaping plants
- Gloves
- Shovel
- String and string level

These items are essential to building your zen paradise. Once your garden is built you can use it to find relaxation and meditate. The act of raking the garden is meant to bring peace or zen to your state of mind which makes this DIY project beautiful and helpful!

5. Backyard Fountain

A backyard fountain is a great way to upgrade the aesthetic of your space. The sound of the flowing water is relaxing and will attract birds to your yard for great wildlife viewing. Before you start, consider the size and shape of the fountain.

Depending on the size of your yard it might be a good option to do an above ground DIY option for your fountain by creating a fountain that flows into a galvanized tub or a DIY fountain box. These above-ground options are simple and inexpensive to create and easy to maintain.

6. Privacy Fence

A privacy fence can make your backyard feel like a secluded oasis if done correctly. When planning a privacy fence consider things like material, color, and size. There are a variety of options to choose from when installing your fence that are already pre-stained and ready to install.

If you are feeling extra creative you could try making your fence by buying the raw materials and then customizing the color and shape to your liking. No matter which route you choose the adding privacy will be a great luxury.

7. Update Lighting

The right lighting in your backyard can turn it into a paradise retreat. Consider using a variety of light sources in your backyard to layer the lighting.

For example, along the pathways in your yard use ground stake lights to illuminate the path. In areas where you entertain consider hanging string lighting above the area to create depth and add soft lighting. Outdoor candles are another great source of mood lighting that can also be beneficial for managing those summer pests like mosquitos.

8. Landscaping

Updating the landscaping in your backyard is an essential DIY project for anyone looking to give their yard a facelift. You can start by clearing out any built-up brush or leaves that have accumulated in the yard. Then diligently weed all flower and garden beds.

Once you have weeded and cleaned up the space then you can decide on planting ornamental plants like rose bushes or vibrant lavender. Consider edging your flower beds and framing them with stone or wooden frames for a polished look.

9. Patio

If your yard doesn't have a patio already then consider installing one. A patio can be used as a relaxing outdoor area, outdoor dining room, area for potted plants, etc. the options are endless!

Consider the material you would like to use for the base such as concrete or wooden decking. Once your patio is finished you can begin to decorate with outdoor furniture and ornate plants to create an aesthetic in the area. To add shade to the area a retractable canopy is another simple DIY project that can turn your patio into an outdoor sanctuary.

10. Sheds

Gone are the days of the old paint-chipped sheds that were eyesores to our backyards! If your shed is looking a little worse for wear it is time to give it a makeover.

To start sand the shed down to remove any rough edges or flaking paint. Then access any areas that need repair such as broken boards, holes in the roof, broken doors, etc. Next, you will need to choose a color of paint or stain for your shed and get painting!

Sleep at the Nursing Home

— Vivian E. Bogardus —

Lord, he sleeps.
And I watch
Sitting so near
My heart hangs at half mast.

He sleeps a lot, these days.
At times I doze off myself.
I wake to gaze upon his face
Yet he is unaware in his slumber.
Like a living photograph in 3D.

He wakes as I go to leave and he cries.

I rush back to embrace him in tears.

But before long he is back asleep.

So I head back out the door.

I am so exhausted.

I will welcome sleep.

And he will sleep

not to wake

one day

soon.

Public Asked to Help Protect Endowment Lands this Hunting Season

— Idaho Department of Lands —

More than 96% of endowment land in Idaho is accessible by foot, watercraft or vehicle, with about 2.3 million acres available for hunting or other recreation.

Endowment land is different than public land: These lands are scattered across the state and are managed by the Idaho Department of Lands (IDL). The lands generate revenue, typically from timber sales and grazing leases, and help fund public schools, universities and state hospitals. In 2018 an agreement was made with Idaho Fish and Game to provide financial support for public access for hunting, fishing, and other wildlife-based recreation on endowment land. Fish and Game's payments to IDL helps ensure those lands remain open, but responsible use by the public is critical.

Help Preserve Access

- If you park near a gate, make sure there is room for emergency vehicles to pass.
- Help IDL keep the land productive by honoring closures and not making "new" trails.
- Reduce erosion by treading lightly on the land and avoiding muddy roads and trails.
- To reduce impacts to the land, keep Off-Highway Vehicles on established roads and trails.
- Dead animals should be disposed of away from streams and camping areas.
- Please take your trash home with you.
- Removing locks or destroying locked gates may result in further closures.

If you use a warming fire, please put it out so it is cool to the touch before you leave. Wildfires are expensive and you are responsible for the bill if you start one. This year human-caused fires are responsible for 91% of acres burned on forests protected by IDL Fire Management.

IDL continues to provide access through trail construction and mitigation projects to guide recreation. Some areas may be temporarily closed to enable the effective operation of revenue-generating activities, to protect the public, and seasonal roads and trails. New signs are posted on endowment land to help with navigation and show rules and contact information. Maps of endowment land can also be found at <https://www.idl.idaho.gov/about-us/recreating-on-endowment-lands/>.

Beware: That Buck or Bull Standing Near the Road May Not Be What You Think It Is

— Fish and Game —

That buck or bull standing next to the road might be a tempting target, but it could be a very costly mistake. Idaho Fish and Game conservation officers deploy “artificial simulated animals” during hunting season to catch law-breaking hunters.

Commonly called ASAs, they are life-like copies of deer, elk and other game species that look and act like the real thing.

“Officers watch the animal and respond if someone violates the law,” said Fish and Game Chief of Enforcement Greg Wooten. “This tool is extremely important in our effort to curtail illegal activity that is otherwise undetectable.”

Simulated animals are typically used in areas where there’s a history of spotlighting, trespassing and road hunting.

“This is similar to other law enforcement agencies watching an intersection based on reports of frequent instances of failing to stop at a stop sign, or monitoring speed compliance using radar,” Wooten said.

Anyone found guilty of shooting an artificial animal may lose his or her license, face a fine up to $1000 and a possible jail sentence of up to six months. There is also a $50 minimum restitution penalty for shooting an ASA to help maintain the decoys.

That’s not all, officers can also cite people for shooting from a road, trespassing, shooting from a motorized vehicle, and other related infractions that can increase penalties and fines.

Although they’re not really an animal, judges across the country have upheld the use of ASAs. Judges and prosecutors typically treat ASA cases the same as shooting real animals. More than 48 states and several Canadian provinces have been using artificial animals since the late 1980s.
