3 Activities for Food and Fun in Cooler Weather

Family Features

When the weather cools down, parents begin to look for indoor activities to keep their kids busy and entertained.

Singer, actress and mother Christina Milian feels it’s important to fuel family fun with activities that strike a balance of fun and food, not just for kids but parents, too. One of her go-to spots for family fun and food during the fall and beyond is Chuck E. Cheese’s, along with a few suggestions for indoor activities to help beat boredom during the cooler months.

“Change of seasons is a great time to change up your routine,” Milian said. “Fall offers new opportunities to entertain at home and new foods to feed your little ones. A couple of my go-to at-home activities include building-your-own pizza night or a karaoke party.”

A Build-Your-Own Pizza Night

Trying new recipes with your kids is one way to make the most out of family time at home. With all of the toppings to choose from, a build-your-own pizza night is a simple way to allow kids to have some hands-on fun in the kitchen and taste their own creations.

A Karaoke Party

Karaoke is a simple yet fun way to keep kids entertained while at home. To turn it up a notch, make it into family dance night and encourage your kids to create their own choreographed dance routines to their favorite karaoke songs.

A Night Out for Dinner and Games

With hundreds of locations across the country, a restaurant such as Chuck E. Cheese’s can provide fun for the whole family while offering a menu that features something for every palate; including options like classic pepperoni pizza, salads and wraps. The restaurant also offers games for kids of all ages, and tickets can be redeemed for prizes that bring the fun home.

Flames Gut Central School Building…

This was the headline in the Saturday, December 14, 1927 edition of the Coeur d’Alene Press. Coeur d’Alene’s oldest school building was gutted by fire. The tower and east wing of the building was built in 1921, a second wing was added in 1924. It was believed that the fire was started by spontaneous combustion in the boiler room. The flames burned through the boiler room into the main hall and swirled through the open stairway to the second floor. The total loss was estimated to be about $40,000, plus about $2,000 worth of schoolbooks, a 600-volume library, two pianos and furniture. The school board met at noon the same day to plan for temporary housing for 365 junior high school students. When school opened on January 3, 1928 all the students had classrooms. Eight rooms were rented on the third floor of city hall and some classes were held at the Winton and Sherman schools. Museum of North Idaho

Congress Considers Bill To Enhance Wildlife Conservation

Mike Demick

The Recovering America’s Wildlife Act, a bill introduced December 14 in Congress, will deliver a modern enhancement in how US wildlife and fish conservation is funded before species become more rare and costly to protect if it becomes law.

The bill (HR4647) would redirect $1.3 billion annually in existing royalties from federal lands and waters to be dedicated to the Wildlife Conservation Restoration Program, an authorized sub-account within the long-established Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Restoration Program.

Wildlife conservation has been primarily funded through state fishing, hunting and trapping license fees along with Pittman-Robertson and Dingell-Johnson excise taxes on hunting and fishing equipment. For over 75-years, those programs, under the direction of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, have been successful in protecting, preserving, perpetuating and managing many of Idaho’s wildlife populations.

Not since the enactment of the Pittman-Robertson and Dingell-Johnson acts has there been any opportunity to pass new legislation of such importance to protecting what is every American’s birthright – our great natural heritage. The Recovering America’s Wildlife Act would be one of the most important pieces of conservation legislation in a generation.

Additional funding for proactive strategies that complement existing programs would help the Idaho Fish and Game Commission conserve and manage the full array of Idaho’s fish and wildlife.

Guided by language in the Recovering America’s Wildlife Act legislation, Idaho Fish and Game would use its share of funds to more effectively implement Idaho’s State Wildlife Action Plan – the guiding document that provides the strategic direction for wildlife, non-regulatory, action-based solutions to conserve fish and wildlife with an emphasis on more than 200 species of greatest conservation need. Species in the Plan familiar to Idahoans include the sage-grouse, wolverine and wild steelhead.

“Our nation’s fish and wildlife are among its most valuable resources along with clean air, water, healthy forests and agricultural lands that support all of us,” stated Virgil Moore, director of Idaho Fish and Game and president of the Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies. “Today we find ourselves facing some of the most critical crossroads facing an historic challenge that could alter our children’s and grandchildren’s opportunities to enjoy these resources. By investing in our State Wildlife Action Plans, which serve as roadmaps for restoring and managing the most sensitive and imperiled species, within our state borders, we will be ensuring future generations can enjoy our rich wildlife heritage.”

Adequate, dedicated funding to implement Idaho’s State Wildlife Action Plan will ensure a safer environment for Idaho’s agriculture, timber and other important industries by proactively funding programs that bolster key species, thereby reducing or eliminating the need for federal protection under the Endangered Species Act.

Passage of the Recovering America’s Wildlife Act is supported by the Alliance for America’s Fish and Wildlife, whose purpose is to create a new, cost-efficient funding model for critically needed conservation of our nation’s most precious natural resources, our fish and wildlife.

This effort was built upon a strong partnership created by the Blue Ribbon Panel on Sustaining America’s Diverse Fish and Wildlife Resources, consisting of members representing the outdoor recreation, retail and manufacturing sector, the energy and automotive industries, private landowners, educational institutions, conservation organizations, sportmen’s groups and state and federal fish and wildlife agencies.

Finding the perfect Valentine’s Day gift has been a challenge. Whether you’ve been dating for a year or have just met your love, there’s no guarantee that your gift will be loved. If you’re still feeling nervous, read on to find a gift that’s sure to please anyone on your list!

A spark in their eye. According to the survey, the majority of women consider jewelry to be the most coveted gift, yet 77 percent normally receive flowers or chocolate. Ask. If you’re out of ideas or inspiration, ask your beloved what she enjoyed most. That’s not to say you must forget the element of surprise. What's important is that you do something meaningful in her life.

For a pet owner: the gift of pure love, home and furry friend. A baby male house cat, 4 months old, $600. A female house cat, 6 months old, $600. Cat tags, 509-270-0014, Clearwater, ID.

Now or later: let’s talk about gifts of a different kind. Whether you’re looking for a high-end piece of jewelry or a simple token of your love, there’s something for everyone on your list. Here are a few ideas to get you started:

1. A handcrafted ring from PANDORA, featuring their latest collection of petite charms and pendants. These pieces can be personalized to suit any taste.
2. A large, hand-knitted blanket from Etsy, featuring a variety of colors and patterns. A perfect gift for someone who loves to stay warm.
3. A subscription to a monthly magazine or book service, allowing your recipient to choose from a wide variety of options.
4. A custom-made piece of art, such as a painting or a piece of pottery. Your loved one will cherish the thought and effort you put into creating something unique.

Remember that the most important thing is to show your love and appreciation. Choose a gift that reflects your relationship and the person you love. Happy Valentine’s Day!
Colson Whitehead will Speak At U Of I

University of Idaho

Colson Whitehead, winner of the 2017 Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award for his novel “The Underground Railroad,” will give the keynote address Monday, Feb. 12, as part of the University of Idaho’s Black History Month Celebration. Whitehead’s talk, “Revisiting the Underground Railroad,” will begin at 7 p.m. Feb. 12 in the International Ballroom of the Bruce M. Pitman Center, 710 Decker Ave., Moscow. A question-and-answer session and book signing will follow. The event is free.

We are thrilled that Mr. Whitehead will illuminate themes central to the Underground Railroad, faculty and community members,” said Kenton Bird, a faculty member in the U of I School of Journalism and Mass Communication. “It is truly exciting to have such a great visitor. The talk is supported by the Idaho Humanities Council and several university offices and academic departments.

“The Underground Railroad” chronicles the adventures of Cora, a teenage slave, as she seeks freedom in the South in the years before the Civil War. Historically, the Underground Railroad was a network of secret routes and safe houses, or “stations,” through which fugitive slaves escaped to freedom in the northern states and Canada. In Whitehead’s novel, engineers and conductors operate a secret system of underground tracks and tunnels for this purpose.

A panel of U of I faculty members will put the book into context during a discussion on “The Underground Railroad in Literature and American Society,” at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 8, in the College of Law courtroom, 711 S. Rayburn Way. The panel comprises Kristin Halitamer, assistant professor of sociology and director of U of I’s minor in Africana studies; Dale Grader, professor of history; and John Anderson, assistant professor of English and Aman McLeod, assistant professor of political science and affiliate faculty in the College of Law.

In addition to his talk, Whitehead is the author of “The Noble Hustle,” “Zone One,” “Sag Harbor,” “The Intuitionist,” “Apex Hides the Hurt” and “John Henry Days,” which was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize. A resident of New York City, Whitehead has received a MacArthur Fellowship, a Guggenheim Fellowship, and a fellowship at the University of Houston, Columbia University, Brooklyn College, Hunter College, New York University, and the University of Pennsylvania. Whitehead was a writer-in-residence at Vassar College, the University of Richmond and the University of Wyoming.

Whitehead’s lecture is sponsored by the Office of the Provost and Executive Vice President, the Rumford Lecture Series, the Office of Equity and Diversity, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, the Department of History and Sociology and Anthropology in the College of Letters, Arts and Social Sciences, and the Lat赤 County Human Rights Task Force. His lecture is made possible by a grant from the Idaho Humanities Council, the state-based affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Additional events during Black History Month at U of I are listed at https://www.uidaho.edu/diversity/diva/ems/events/black-history.
Across The Divide: Free Performance

Coeur d'Alene Summer Theatre

With book and lyrics by Jadd Davis and Aimee Paxton and music by Henry McNulty, ACROSS THE DIVIDE is an original, educational musical that takes a present-day look at the Lewis and Clark Expedition through the eyes of a contemporary, middle school student. Themes addressed within the show are local history, anti-bullying, the nature of family, the nature of friendship, and the value of getting outside.

Sponsored by Syringa Networks and The Ovation Company, this one-night-only performance of Coeur d’Alene Summer Theatre’s school tour show ACROSS THE DIVIDE is free to the public! Come on out on Thursday, February 8 to the CDA Library Community Room, enjoy the show at 7pm, and stay afterwards for a talkback with the cast about this form of professional “edu-tainment” theatre.
