Flotilla's 60th Anniversary

— Kathleen Goodwin —

Congratulations to the men and women of Flotilla 84 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary on their 60th Anniversary in serving as the uniformed civilian volunteer arm of the United States Coast Guard. Located in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, their primary goal is promoting Recreational Boating Safety which is accomplished by patrolling the waterways, providing courtesy vessel safety checks, teaching public education courses, and participating in safe boating public affairs events. These Volunteer Lifesavers exemplify their core values of honor, respect and devotion to duty and take great pride in each mission they accomplish. To learn more about how you can join the Auxiliary, visit the website at: wow.uscgaux.info/content.php?unit=130-08-04 or contact Kathleen Goodwin at kathleengoodwin@yahoo.com.

Can Spring Be Far?

— Vivian E. Bogardus—

Can spring be far? I heard a robin sing.
Oh cherished bird, what hope you always bring.
The sap is slowly rising in the trees.
There seems to be more warmth in every breeze.
I see sprouts rising from the softened ground.
Now only scattered snow mounds can be found
Where once the drifts of plenty did abound.
It isn't cold enough for ponds to freeze.
Can spring be far?

The earth is now awakening to spring.
The rebirth is a vast and wondrous thing.
Though fickle weather can be such a tease,
When spring arrives, she's always bound to please.
It's to this hope mankind will always cling.

Can spring be far?

NEED A PRIVATE caregiver for in-home elderly care? Most of my caregiving positions have lasted for years. Sadly, my last couple of patients have passed away at the age of 100. I am very experienced in CNA, first aid, CPR and Fundamentals of Caregiving all completed. I have been doing this work for many years and I love my patients. Also have experience in being the lead person who coordinated other caregivers. Can do overnight shifts also. If you are looking for the right fit for your situation, please call me and we can talk. I am responsible, reliable and empathetic. Would like to find a long term Spokane/ CdA position. I have excellent letters of recommendation. Shelie, 208-771-4834

Tips for Landing a Job in the COVID-19 Era

The job hunt after college is exhilarating and emotional while at the same time stressful and exhausting. Adding a global pandemic into the mix threatens to upend the process for the nearly 4 million 2020 graduates.

For recent graduates, the disruption to the hiring and internship experience has brought unexpected challenges and adversity, and tested their ability to persevere.

Some internships have been canceled or pushed back and job offers have been rescinded as companies have frozen hiring to lessen the financial burden brought on by the pandemic. Travel bans are restricting graduates from taking jobs across borders and graduates are faced with fewer job openings and increased competition for those jobs. These are just some of the added roadblocks new graduates are facing in 2020.

At the same time, many companies are pivoting to virtual interviews and networking events and, in some instances, entire internships have gone remote.

With remote jobs and internships comes new challenges for students and grads to overcome. Kristen Wahl, director of the EcoCAR Mobility Challenge and the Advanced Vehicle Technology Competition program at Argonne National Laboratory, has helped thousands of students land jobs post-college during her 20-plus years leading the program.

Here are a few tips from Wahl for landing that first job in the COVID-19 era:

Use the virtual tools at your disposal to network with recruiters. With in-person events off the table this fall, jobseekers need to seek alternative methods for making the connections that previously would have happened at career fairs. Reach out to your network on LinkedIn and other recruiting platforms. Email the professional contacts you've made through industry organizations or extracurricular activities. Pick up the phone and call recruiters to learn more about an open position. It's all about taking the extra step to stand out from the crowd when first impressions are no longer face-to-face.

Take advantage of virtual recruiting fairs and career prep sessions. Is your school hosting a virtual career fair? Is the student organization you're a member of bringing in a guest speaker for a virtual chat? Identify the many opportunities available to connect with potential employers and use them to make connections. To stand out from the crowd, you'll need to be an active participant. Ask questions. Share thoughts. Contribute to the conversation. Don't be afraid to speak up, but also make sure you do your research on the company first.

At EcoCAR, we identified ways to connect students with prospective employers. We quickly ramped up virtual recruiting webinars and career prep sessions, continued facilitating personal introductions and industry mentoring opportunities and revised our recruiting tools to better match talent with relevant positions.

And finally, practice your virtual personal sales pitch and refine your digital professional presence to reflect all you have to offer. Make sure your LinkedIn and portfolio highlight your experiences and skills. Go beyond just sharing your degree information and articulate your value proposition. This includes showcasing your out-of-the-classroom experiences, leadership training, previous internships, as well as describing times you overcame adversity.

Recruiters want problem solvers and critical thinkers. They want someone who will pick up a new skill quickly and learn fast. So, instead of looking at the pandemic as a setback on your job search journey, view it as an opportunity to demonstrate you possess these qualities and are right for the job. Good luck!

National German Chocolate Cake Day

— National Today Calendar —

Whether you're running to the kitchen or store to snag your German chocolate cake on National German Chocolate Cake Day, June 11th, we know you're celebrating. The traditionally chocolate cake features rich chocolate layers coated in sweet and nutty pecan frosting — but the dessert isn't actually German! German chocolate cake was named after an English-American named Sam German, creator of a specific baking chocolate at the Baker's Chocolate Company.

History of National German Chocolate Cake Day

German chocolate cake — the fudge-y, nutty, and oh-so-sweet dessert that we all thought was German! The treat is defined by its rich chocolate cake layers, which are stuck together with coconut-pecan frosting and often topped with maraschino cherries. While many Americans think German chocolate originates from Germany, you'd be hard-pressed to find a German who knows of it.

Sam German, an English-American chocolate-maker for The Baker's Chocolate Company, first created his distinct variety of dark baking chocolate in 1852. In his honor, the Baker's Chocolate Company named the creation after him, dubbing it 'Baker's German's Sweet Chocolate.' This sets the stage for the culinary invention of German chocolate cake, and explains the origin misnomer!

German chocolate cake wasn't actually born until around a century later, in 1957. In Dallas, Texas, housewife Mrs. George Clay sent in her cake recipe to be featured as 'Recipe of the Day' on "The Dallas Morning News." She had called it 'German's Chocolate Cake' after the baking chocolate she used. Over time, however, the 's' has been dropped from the recipe.

Unsurprisingly, the recipe took off, spreading mostly through word of mouth. Sales of Baker's Chocolate reportedly increased 73% in a year as bakers scrambled to make more German chocolate cake. The owner of Baker's brand, General Foods, began to distribute the cake recipe to other bakers nationwide. Today, many baking companies still make the decadent dessert!

Yet More Politics! And a Cat!

— Carol Horning Stacey —

Politics have not taken a holiday in Idaho just because the Legislature, after the longest session in history, has finally packed up and gone back home. The fight moves to the courts. The revisions to the Initiative process are challenged in the Idaho Supreme Court which has scheduled a hearing for June 29th. Reclaim Idaho brought the suit, claiming the new rules would make it impossible for Idaho's citizens to gather the signatures necessary to get an Initiative on a General Election ballot.

The Legislators still resent that the voters used the Initiative to expand Medicare, allowing unworthy persons to get medical care. They also want to head off any Initiative that might legalised medical marijuana.

Meanwhile the Bonner County Republican Central Committee is calling on Republican State Senator Jim Woodward to resign. His sin? He tended to side with Republican Governor Brad Little, whose authority a majority of Republican Legislators challenged during the session.

Note that party central committees have no power to remove office holders. Removal can only be done by the Recall process, which requires gathering a lot of registered voter signatures to set a Recall election in action. Should the Bonner GOP go this route, they'll learn how tough it is to gather signatures.

Uncertain of exact definitions, I've been avoiding using the new political vocabulary, but here's a great new word, found in the "Historical Dictionary of Science Fiction" to mean "a cryogenically frozen person; someone in cold sleep, or (occasionally) a frozen corpse." The word is "corpsicle."

With summer expected to be roaring hot this year, there may not be any suitable occasion to use "corpsicle." Just keep it handy for when the Legislature meets in January.

Our new grand-cat is doing well. He arrived as a surprise, since his mother Sylvia, they said, had been spayed, which was figured into the price. Sylvia is a little white cat with brownish ears and a long tail. Small as she is, her pregnancy was not suspected until she presented her family with one tiny white kitten.

Snowball is now four months old, almost as big as his mother. He may have a lot more growing to do. His ears are electric blue and he has a harness to match. He likes to sleep, he loves to play. For his little girl, his arrival turned a dreadful COVID winter into an early spring of delights. There is hope.

F&G Proposes Extending Wolf Hunting and Trapping in Accordance with New State Law

— Fish and Game —

Idaho Fish and Game is seeking public feedback on a proposal to extend wolf hunting and trapping opportunities and enhanced methods of take. The proposed changes relate to Idaho legislative action that will take effect July 1st.

Senate Bill 1211 recently passed into law and extends wolf hunting and trapping with foothold traps to year-round on private property with landowner permission. The law also expands the legal methods of take for wolves to include methods currently legal in Idaho for taking other wild canines, such as coyotes and foxes, but closed for taking other big game species.

Those expanded methods of take include:

- Weapon restrictions (for hunting big game) do not apply
- Exemption from shooting hours (written permission from the landowner is required on private land, and a permit from the Director of Fish and Game is required on public land, which is consistent with requirements for spotlighting coyotes at night.)
- Hunting wolves over bait is allowed on private land
- Motorized vehicle restrictions for hunting big game do not apply
- Dogs may be used to pursue wolves, and no hound hunter permit is required

These expanded methods do not currently include aerial shooting of wolves, which is subject to the Federal Airborne Hunting Act and not allowed in Idaho. If Idaho should allow aerial hunting of wolves, it would be specific to designated control actions and by permit from the Idaho Department of Agriculture, which is authorized through the Federal Airborne Hunting Act.

While the recent law establishes a year-round foothold trapping season for wolves on private land and provides the ability to allow expanded methods of take, the expectation of the Legislature was for the Fish and Game Commission to set seasons for snaring and expanded methods of take through proclamation.

Fish and Game proposes no change to the wolf snaring seasons currently in place on public and private land, and it also proposes no change to the foothold trapping seasons on public land.

The proposal allows expanded methods of take on private land year-round, provided landowner permission. The proposal also allows expanded methods of take for hunting on public land from Nov. 15th through March 31st in areas with a history of chronic livestock depredation, or where elk herds are below management objectives, including units 4, 4A, 6, 7, 9, 10, 10A, 12, 14, 15, 16, 16A, 17, 18, 19, 20, 20A, 22, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 29, 31, 32, 32A, 33, 34, 35, 36, 36A, 36B, 37, 39, 43, 44, 49, 50, 62, 64, 65, 67.

Wolf hunting and methods of take would remain unchanged from currently established seasons on public land between April 1 through Nov. 14 in those same units. Wolf hunting seasons and methods of take on public land in all other units (those without a history of chronic livestock depredation or that are currently meeting biological management objectives for elk) will also remain unchanged.

A detailed summary of the current and proposed wolf hunting and trapping seasons and rules can be viewed on the public feedback webpage, idfg.idaho.gov/form/public-scoping-idaho-wolf-seasons.

Free Fishing Day is June 12th, and Here's What You Need to Know for a Fun Day of Fishing

— Fish and Game —

Free Fishing Day is June 12th, and anyone can enjoy a day of fishing without a fishing license, but all other rules still apply.

Free Fishing Day is an Idaho tradition that usually includes Fish and Game employees and volunteers bringing fishing gear to various fishing spots and loaning rods, reels and tackle and helping people learn to fish. While Fish and Game staff will not be hosting any events in 2021, it's still a great opportunity for novice anglers to experience some of the wonderful fishing opportunities Idaho has to offer.

If you're new to fishing, or new to fishing in Idaho, the state has thousands of places to fish, and you can catch a variety of species ranging from palm-sized bluegill to 9-foot sturgeon.

Fish and Game also stocks about 30 million fish annually for anglers, which includes millions of trout that are immediately available to catch, as well as millions of young salmon and steelhead destined for the ocean that will later return as adults.

"In the month leading up to Free Fishing Day, Fish and Game hatcheries stocked about 400,000 catchable rainbow trout in waters throughout the state," Fish and Game Hatchery Manager Bryan Grant said.

Catchable-sized trout ranging from about 10 to 13 inches are stocked statewide and in many easily accessible fishing spots, including community ponds, local reservoirs and nearby lakes. Those are all convenient places to go for Free Fishing Day that are close to home and provide a good chance to catch fish.

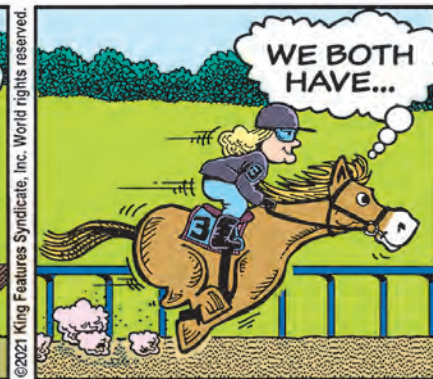

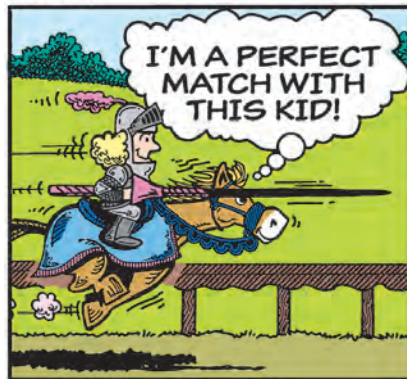

If you don't have fishing gear, it's fairly inexpensive to get started. You can get a basic rod/reel combo for about $25, and the only tackle you need at first is a few hooks, weights, bobbers and bait, which will cost only a few bucks more. It's tough to beat live worms for bait because nearly all fish will eat them, but if you don't want to deal with squirming live worms, there are many other bait options, and lures, flies and other tackle give you even more options.

If you're unsure how to rig a rod for fishing, Fish and Game provides simple instructions on its Learn to Fish webpage. For information about bag limits and other rules, see the 2019-21 Idaho Fishing Seasons and Rules booklet, which is available in a printed booklet at Fish and Game offices and many license vendors and sporting goods stores.

Fishing is a fun family activity, and easy for kids to learn. Remember when taking young kids out to make sure they wear lifejackets and bring lots of snacks, a hat and sunscreen. Be patient with kids and enjoy your time outdoors with them, even if the kids decide they'd rather explore nature or do something other than fishing.

If you're wondering where to fish, you can start by checking out the hatchery stocking highlights from May and June, which feature waters in each of Fish and Game's seven regions. You can also find a fishing spot, as well information on when it was last stocked, by to going to Fish and Game's Fishing Planner.

Unique Land Auction in Caldwell Could Generate at Least $6 Million with Competitive Bids

— Idaho Department Lands —

Two side-by-side endowment land agriculture parcels amounting to 282 acres sit mostly unused adjacent to Caldwell's Vallivue High School and Middle School. The parcels are in the direct path of growth in one of the fastest-growing counties in Idaho. Please the attached map.

Endowment lands are unique: At statehood, Idaho was granted endowment land for the sole purpose of financially supporting specific institutions. The parcels up for auction were designated to benefit the University of Idaho and are managed by the Idaho Department of Lands.

Reason for the auction: The University of Idaho has leased the parcels for agricultural purposes since the 1940s, but the University would rather have the property auctioned for residential development to generate greater revenue. The State Board of Land Commissioners agreed to the auction after determining that it would bring the highest financial return to the beneficiary.

"This proposal makes sense because right now the land is no longer supporting the University's research facility and the revenue generated from the farm lease is nominal," said Josh Purkiss, Idaho Department of Lands Real Estate Services Bureau Chief. "With the current high demand for land, and the prime development nature of these parcels, this has the potential to be a very exciting auction for the endowment beneficiaries."

Auction details: Both parcels are designated for low-density residential use in the City of Caldwell's Future Land Use Map. Bidders must have $250,000 per parcel in cashier checks to qualify to bid at the auction. It will be held Friday, June 11, 2021 at 12:30pm at the Marriot Courtyard, located at 1789 South Eagle Road in Meridian, Idaho. Details can be found at Corbett Bottles Real Estate Marketing.

Keeping Paws Cool in Summer Heat

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: We're now in the full grip of summer. Please remind your readers to be careful walking their dogs on the hot pavement, because it can burn the pads of their paws. — Debra L., Baltimore

DEAR DEBRA: Absolutely! Folks, even dogs that love being in the outdoors are vulnerable to injury from the hot pavement, and from heat in general. Here are a few tips for keeping pets safe during the summer:

— Take pets outside early in the morning, before it gets very hot, or after sunset.

— Before walking dogs on the sidewalk, place the back of your hand on the pavement for 7 to 10 seconds. If it's too hot to keep your hand pressed to it, it's too hot for your dog's paws. Walk on a grassy area, instead.

— If you must walk your dog on pavement (you live in the city, for example), place booties on your dog's paws to protect them.

— Make sure your pet has plenty of cool, clean water to drink, even if it spends all day indoors.

— Don't let your pet out in the backyard unless there's a shady, open-air spot for it to rest.

A blog post at Vets Now breaks down the details. Even when the air temperature is below 80 F, asphalt on the street can reach 125 F, especially on sunny days with little wind. That's hot enough to cause severe skin burns, even on dogs' seemingly tough pads. Brick and concrete pavement are only slightly cooler.

So don't leave it to chance. Take control of your pet's comfort and safety this summer by making sure they are protected from heat-related injuries.

Send your tips, comments or questions to ask@pawscorner.com.

F&G Provides Millions of Acres of Access for Hunting

— Fish and Game —

Hunting season is here, and a question commonly asked is “where can I go hunting?” There’s a lot of good answers to that question in Idaho, starting with nearly two-thirds of the state is public land, and most of it is open for hunting.

Idaho Fish and Game also provides more access for sportsmen and women. The department owns, manages and keeps open to the public about 370,000 acres at its wildlife management areas, and provides literally millions more acres through its various agreements and lease programs with various state and private lands.

Money for access comes from multiple Fish and Game funds, including Fish and Game’s access/depredation fee that requires a $5 surcharge for residents and a $10 surcharge for nonresidents when they buy their first annual license of the year.

All told, the agreements and leases provide statewide access to excellent wildlife habitat and places for people to hunt, fish, trap and enjoy other wildlife-based recreation.

“These demonstrate Fish and Game’s continued commitment to putting money from the access/depredation fee to good use and provide hunters, anglers and trappers with access to private and endowment lands while compensating landowners for their support of those activities,” said Sal Palazzolo, Fish and Game’s Private Lands/ Farm Bill Program Coordinator.

Here are some of Fish and Game’s programs that support public access:

Wildlife Management Areas

Fish and Game has 31 Wildlife Management Areas totaling about 370,000 acres and located in six of its seven regions. WMAs range from 275 to 85,000 acres and address specific priorities based upon the needs of wildlife in the surrounding area.

Fish and Game’s WMAs provide lots opportunities for hunting, fishing, trapping and other wildlife recreation. Some WMAs are in wetland or grassland/sage areas to provide important habitat for waterfowl and upland birds and other wildlife. While others, such as Craig Mountain near Lewiston, Tex Creek near Idaho Falls, and Boise River near Boise, offer tens of thousands of acres of mixed habitats and elevations inhabited by a variety of big game animals, small game and upland birds.

Fish and Game’s pheasant stocking program also includes WMAs, giving hunters the opportunity to pursue a popular quarry that otherwise usually requires a person to have access to private lands in order to find pheasants. You can learn more about each one on the WMA webpage.

Access Yes!

This access program is a revolving collection of properties where Fish and Game leases land from private owners to provide public access. Each property may be managed differently, so it’s important for the user to do a little homework and know the rules for each property. Hunters should be aware some properties require landowner notification, and others have restrictions on how many people can use the property at once, so some advanced notice may be required to hunt on these parcels. You can see the full list of properties and details on the Access Yes! webpage.

Through this program, Fish and Game typically provides about 350,000 acres annually, as well as a legal means to cross private property to reach hundreds of thousands of acres of public land that might be otherwise difficult to access.

Access Yes! properties are unique because they’re selected annually by panels of sportsmen throughout the state, who sift through applications submitted by landowners and select the leases that give sportsmen and women the best value for their money.

Because these properties may change annually, hunters should beware that properties they used in the past may no longer be enrolled. People can see the maps of Access Yes! properties on Fish and Game’s website, and also pick up printed booklets at regional offices that show Access Yes! locations and guidelines to use the property.

Idaho Endowment Lands

In 2018, the Idaho Fish and Game Commission and Idaho State Board of Land Commissioner approved an agreement to continue public access for hunting, fishing, trapping and other wildlife-based recreation on about 2.3 million acres of state endowment lands.

More than 96 percent of endowment lands are accessible by foot, watercraft or vehicle. You can view accessible endowment lands on Fish and Game’s Hunt Planner Map Center.

While most Idaho endowment lands have traditionally been open to the public, endowment lands are managed to provide revenue, typically from timber sales and grazing leases, to fund for public schools, universities and state hospitals.

Fish and Game’s payments to the Department of Lands ensure those lands remain open to public access for hunting, fishing, trapping and other recreation. In other states, state-owned lands have been closed, or leased to private parties for hunting access. Fish and Game renews the lease annually and gets credit for in-kind, law-enforcement services provided by Fish and Game conservation officers on endowment lands.

Endowment lands are working lands that provide vital revenue, and hunters are reminded that fire season typically lasts into fall, so some fire restrictions may occur during hunting season. If campfires are allowed where you plan to hunt, make sure your campfire is cool to the touch before leaving so you do not start a wildfire. Also, protect state lands from damage by keeping off-highway vehicles on established roads and designated trails.

Hunters are also reminded free camping is allowed on state endowment lands for no more than 14 consecutive days. If you would like to camp longer than 14 consecutive days, contact a Department of Lands office to find out if a permit can be obtained.

Large tracts corporate timberland leases

Fish and Game has partnered with timber companies to provide public access to their lands. Currently, Fish and Game has a contract with PotlatchDeltic to provide public access to 567,002 acres of private land for hunting, fishing, trapping, wildlife viewing, hiking, and recreational travel on open full-sized roads. People should beware these are working timberlands, and some areas may be closed for logging activities and other work. Some restrictions apply, such as additional permits are needed for camping and ATV/OHV use. People can see specific rules through these links.

A separate lease includes more than 300,000 acres belonging to the North Idaho Forest Group in Bonner, Boundary, Benewah, Shoshone and Kootenai counties that include Stimson Lumber Co., Hancock Forest Management and Molpus Woodlands Group and others.

Five principles for responsible land use

Whether you’re on public land or private land (with permission), consider these guiding principles for being a responsible user:

- Treat all lands with respect. Leave them as good or better than you found them.
- It’s your responsibility to know whose land you’re on, and follow the rules for that property.
- Be careful with fire, and respect burn restrictions when they’re in effect. Never leave a burning or smoldering campfire. It should always be completely extinguished.
- Do not damage roads and trails, and abide by travel restrictions, such as closed roads, nonmotorized trail restrictions, vehicle restrictions, camping restrictions, etc.
- If you see someone damage lands, or violate travel restrictions, be a good witness. Get a vehicle license number, vehicle description, or other information. Report them to the county sheriff’s office, or other law enforcement agency. Avoid a direct confrontation with the violator.

Fish and Game Seeks Angler Input on Salmon/Steelhead Changes for 2022-24

— Fish and Game —

Anglers who fish in Idaho's Clearwater Region are encouraged to participate in a survey about potential changes to salmon and steelhead fishing seasons for 2022-24. Fish and Game is asking for public comment on potential changes to season and limits for fall Chinook salmon, coho salmon and steelhead in the Clearwater, Snake and lower Salmon rivers. Results from the survey will be considered by the Fish and Game Commission in November when they set fall salmon and steelhead fishing seasons and limits for the next three years.

"Angler surveys like this are one of many steps we take when considering changes to fishing rules. It's one way we can help ensure our fisheries program is providing what anglers want," said Lance Hebdon, Fish and Game's Anadromous Fishery Manager.

Starting now until June 16th anglers can comment on these proposal options in three ways:

Anglers who bought a salmon or steelhead permit during the last five years and provided their email address will receive an email invitation to the online survey on June 1st.

Anglers who don't receive an email survey can take the survey on the Fish and Game website: <https://idfg.idaho.gov/comment>

Anglers can attend a public meeting to listen to presentations about each of the proposals, ask questions, and provide feedback.

Public meetings will begin at 6pm Pacific Daylight Time at:

- Lewiston: June 16th, Idaho Fish and Game Office, 3316 16th Street.
- Orofino: June 17th, Best Western Lodge At River's Edge, 615 Main Street.

The surveys will be available starting now and will close on June 16th. Results from angler surveys are important to help fishery managers understand angler preference and help shape fishing seasons for the next three years.

Writers Competition Winners Announced

— CdA Library —

The winners in the 2021 Julie Meier Writers Competition at the Coeur d'Alene Public Library were notified of their placements in late May. In its 32nd year, the competition is for fiction and nonfiction prose of 2000 words or less with age groups from kindergarten to adult. The late Julie Meier, for whom the competition was named in 2018, created the program to encourage writing excellence and to recognizes talented writers. Prize money - $100 for first, $50 for second, and $25 for third - is provided through grants from the Friends of the Coeur d'Alene Public Library, and the Coeur d'Alene Public Library Foundation.

The competition is judged by professional writers and editors, educators, and by library employees. The library is forever grateful for all of the dedication of our judges and the creativity of our contestants.

The number of entries was reduced this year. In categories where there were three or fewer entries, they were judged on their merit and scored as they would normally would have been. All entries in the competition, winning or not, are bound into books that are added to the library's collection. These books can be viewed in the History Room at the library.

The winners for 2021 Fiction are as follows:

- Grade K-2: First, Henleigh Otto, 'The Little Cat,' Second, Abigail Tetzlaff, 'Unitron Adventures,'
- Grade 3-5: First, Ryder Pimentel, 'Jack and Lily,' Second, Kyler Otto, 'The Adventure of a Minecraft Pig,' Third, Alyssa Harrison, 'Finding Forgiveness,'
- Grade 6-8: First, Elijah Harrison, 'Don't Hate Your Enemies, Levi,' Second, Millie Nichols 'Tell-Tale Heart Retell,' Third, Mariah Winde, 'A winning Goal,'
- Grade 9-12: First, Elizabeth McComas, 'Don and Me, Little Sister Muvi,' Second, Isaiah Harrison, 'Bad Eggs,' Third, Thomas Hersey, 'Socrates on Campus,'
- Adult-19+: First, Alahna Harrison, 'Sanguis Primus,' Second, Taylor Kowalski, 'Some Things Can't Be Fixed,' Third, Vicki Wilson, 'The Legend of the Blue Blaze,'

The winners for 2021 Non-Fiction are as follows:

- Grade 6-8: First, John Paul Hersey, 'It's a Crazy Day in Our Neighbor,' Second, Emma Hersey, 'The Way I Remember It,' Third, Emmy Pimentel, 'The Truth,'
- Grade 9-12: First, Kamryn Wixom, 'Millions of Lies,' Second, Adison Harrison, 'The Night of the Country Vampire,' Third, Hannah Cummings, 'A Girl's Story,'
- Adult 19+: First, Mike Randles, 'The Need to Win,' Second, Isaac Harrison, 'If the Cats had Stayed,' Third, Rebecca Lacock, 'The Way of the Storm,'

Increase in Funds for Fresh Fruits and Vegetables Coming to Families Enrolled in WIC

— Panhandle Health District —

Participants in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) will see a temporary increase in their June through September benefits for the purchase of fresh fruits and vegetables.

"Our district serves around 6000 WIC participants, so this additional benefit will positively impact many families in our area," said Kim Young, Nutrition Services and Health Promotion Program Manager for Panhandle Health District. "The positive impact doesn't stop there; additional dollars in our community benefit local grocers and the economy."

Idaho received $2.4 million from the federal American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 to boost the benefit for WIC participants by more than three times the current amount for up to four months to provide additional relief during this difficult time. The additional money will also increase revenue for Idaho's WIC-authorized grocery retailers.

The benefit allows program participants to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables as part of their WIC food package. Under normal circumstances, the monthly benefit is $9 per child and $11 for pregnant, postpartum, and breastfeeding women. The American Rescue Plan allows state agencies to temporarily provide up to $35 per month for women and children.

WIC provides nutritious supplemental foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables, milk, eggs, cheese, whole grains, cereal, juice, beans, peanut butter, infant formula and infant foods at no cost to qualified families. WIC services also include health screenings, nutrition counseling, breastfeeding information and support, help from registered dietitians, and referrals to community services.

The average Idahoan enrolled in WIC receives approximately $45 of healthy foods per month. There are currently about 31,000 people per month receiving Idaho WIC assistance.

To apply for WIC or for more information about WIC in your area, go to signupwic.com, contact PHD's local WIC office at 208-415-5130, or visit PHD's website <https://panhandlehealthdistrict.org/wic/>.

The Art Spirit Gallery to Host Confluence/Influence

— The Art Spirit Gallery —

The Art Spirit Gallery is excited to host Confluence/Influence, a unique exhibition highlighting collaborative works by Wood Artists of Moscow. According to artist Jill Kyong, whose innovative idea fueled the show theme, the goal of this creative endeavor was to build relationships and encourage untraditional artistic collaboration where the voice of each artist was not compromised but still build relationships. Two artists who had not previously worked together were paired to complete a project. "Each artist started a project, and then, at some point, switched pieces with their partner, who completed the project with their own design and aesthetic and with no influence or suggestions from the initial creator. Original artists relinquished control and had to trust their partners to do something great. Participating artists include Virgil Aurand, George Canney, Ben Carpenter, Megan Cherry, Jim Christiansen, Geoff Crimmins, Ed Krumpe, Jill Kyong, Kristin LeVier, Stephanie Miller, Trish Sanderson, Alix Stevens, George Tanner, Amelia Trejo, Keith Welsh, and Damon. Other featured artists include multi-media artist Sheila Evans, painters Shelle Lindholm and Ryan Molenkamp, ceramicist James Tingey, and collage artist Lorelle Rau.

The show opens June 11th and runs through July 3rd. Images are available online at www.theartspiritgallery.com/exhibitions.

About the Featured Artists

Sheila Evans- Spokane, WA

Shelia Evans works in a variety of mediums, including vitreous enamel, oil painting, and pastel. Animal welfare and the environment are two of the artist's greatest passions. The series for this exhibition celebrates Sheila's fascination with and appreciation of birding during the monotony of the COVID lockdown. Sheila received a BFA from Gonzaga University and has been featured by The Art Spirit Gallery since 2009.

Shelle Lindholm – Whitefish, MT

Shelle Lindholm finds inspiration from depicting wildlife right outside her studio door, which is nestled at the edge of the woods in the Flathead Valley. Her colorful work created with layers acrylic and wax reflects the rugged elegance of the West and the enchanting pleasures of living in Montana. Shelle earned a BFA from Stephens College and has been featured in dozens of exhibitions throughout Montana and Idaho. The Art Spirit Gallery has proudly shown her work since 2015.

Ryan Molenkamp – Seattle, WA

Ryan Molenkamp's new body of work is largely informed by his interest in landscape, geology, and development. He earned a BFA at Western Washington University and has been published in various regional magazines. His work is part of several public and private collections, including the Microsoft Art Collection, Swedish Art Collection, Washington State Arts Commission, and the City of Seattle Art Collection. The Art Spirit Gallery is honored to welcome Ryan and his work in this exhibition.

James Tingey – Joseph, OR

James Tingey is a studio potter whose work explores ideas of utility, process, material, and landscape. James earned an MFA with a concentration in ceramics. The Art Spirit Gallery has proudly represented his work since 2016.

Lorelle Rau – Boise, ID

Contemporary college artist Lorelle Rau uses cut paper and appropriated imagery to investigate concepts ranging from nature and place to personal experience. The artist's harmonious compositions piece together snippets of found paper to capture graceful linear vistas and abstract scenes that coordinate color, texture, and shape with balanced intention. She earned degrees Arts Administration, Art Management, and Studio Art. The Art Spirit Gallery is honored to showcase Lorelle's work.

During the Spring Wildlife Baby Boom, Young Animals are Better Off Left Alone

— Fish and Game —

Spring is here, and so is the peak of baby wildlife season. People are bound to see young wildlife when they venture outdoors during the spring and early summer, and there is a pretty good chance that they will see a baby animal that appears to be alone, with mom nowhere in sight.

While a well-intentioned human's first instinct might be to rescue these cute, cuddly and seemingly helpless creatures, Fish and Game officials have a simple suggestion to people who discover baby animals that appear to be abandoned: The best thing you can do for them is to leave them be.

Every spring, Fish and Game receives calls from well intentioned humans who have "rescued" baby animals that they assume have been lost, abandoned or orphaned. While these people typically mean well, they are often doing more damage than good when they intervene, and typically, mom was not far away to begin with.

Animal parents will periodically leave their young for an extended period of time for a myriad of reasons, whether it's to search for food, to rest, or to divert attention from their vulnerable offspring, especially if they sense danger. When it comes to wildlife babies, wildlife mothers know best.

Mammals such as deer, elk, and pronghorn routinely leave their young in a secure location, moving off to feed and returning later - sometimes several hours later - to quickly feed their young and leave again. The young animals know instinctively to remain still in the places their mother left them.

As baby birds mature, they often leave the nest in their efforts to hone their flying skills. Adult birds continue to feed their offspring until such time that the young birds can survive on their own, even if they fall out of the nest.

If you find a baby bird, duckling, deer fawn or other critter, the best approach is to leave it undisturbed. Then if you wish, contact your nearest Fish and Game office. Fish and Game employees are happy to take calls about apparently orphaned or injured animals, answer questions, and when necessary, retrieve animals.

In addition, do not plan to raise wild animals on your own. Young wild animals require special care and feeding that is beyond what the average household is prepared to manage. Additionally, possession of most species of wildlife taken from the wild is illegal in Idaho.

In the spring when wildlife baby boom is at its peak, you may have the good fortune to observe a nest of birds or a litter of young mammals with no adult in sight. Enjoy the sight, but remember it is best to leave young wildlife alone.
