Arithmetic

— Vivian E. Bogardus—

He's teaching her arithmetic because that is his mission.

He kissed her once,
he kissed her twice..
and said now that's addition.

And as he added smack by smack
in silent satisfaction,
she sweetly gave his kisses back..
and said now that's subtraction.

If he's even half a man
he's bound to make her sigh..
and once she learns
her fractions well..
he'll teach her to multiply.

But dad appeared upon the scene that made a quick decision..
He shoved the boy right out the door,
and said now that's division!

Donna's Day

Creative family fun

by Donna Erickson

Saying "Thank You" to Summer

Say, "Thank you." Those two important words are so embedded in us as children that we continue to pass the gesture of politesse to the next generation as part of the social drill.

My mom was no exception. At a young age, she taught me to get in step every year when my great-aunt Miriam sent me a birthday card with crisp $1 bills inside, equaling to my years. Since she lived miles away, I couldn't just "say" thank you. Instead, Mom shared her stationery and showed me how to write, address and stamp a handwritten note to my great-aunt.

Sure, it's easier nowadays to give thanks with an email or a text, but the handwritten word does so much more. Expressing gratitude with pen on paper says something about how the thankful person went out of his or her way to do something extra special. That's why Wendy Brown, former video producer and mom of three, is passionate about handwritten thank-you notes. She started her inspiring blog and unique, online paper goods boutique dedicated to the art of handwriting (www.brownink.com).

At the age of five, her mom gave her personalized stationary, and she was hooked. To this day, her prized possessions are shoeboxes filled with letters to and from family, notes to friends and travel journals. "There has never been a more important time to slow down and relish the power in handwriting and the excitement of receiving a note, especially one that says, 'Thanks,'" she says.

Here are two ideas for doing just that with young kids, as they reflect and write personalized thank-you notes of appreciation to summer camp counselors, coaches, relatives and friends.

- Preschoolers: Set out a piece of paper, fold it in half and let your preschooler stamp or attach stickers of images on the front side of the paper that are symbolic of things they enjoyed doing with the recipients, such as eating ice cream cones, going to the beach or catching fish off a dock. Prompt your child to dictate a thank-you message that you write inside.
- School-age kids: Young school-age kids will have fun choosing and printing out their favorite summer photos from your computer and gluing the small prints on paper. Encourage them to write words around each photo, describing the activities they did together with the person they are thanking. Show them how to sign, address and stamp the envelope.

WHO IS IT THAT DOESN'T want you to study the Bible? Christ or Satan? The Bible says that it is 'Satan who deceives the whole world' (Revelation 12:9). Christ says that the only way to be saved, is through Bible study. 90% of modern day church leaders will only give you what they want you to see. They will never tell you to study the Bible for yourselves. The Bible says that the truth will set you free, and the truth can only be found in complete Bible study, both Old Testament and New Testament. And so Satan will give you every excuse possible to prevent you from Bible study. Tim, 208-217-8942 text only, scriptures

The Squash Tree

As a renter with a small plot, I was amazed one day at something strange in the lilac tree. Upon closer inspection, I saw that the spaghetti squash had made its way up instead of spreading out on the ground. They seem to love it there. Nature is amazing, adaptable and humorous sometimes.

Walleye Fishing On Lake Pend Oreille Continues To Yield Big Rewards For Anglers

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Two lucky anglers each put $1,000 in the bank in May through the Lake Pend Oreille angler incentive program for walleye

The winning continues! During May 2022, two anglers each caught and turned in a reward-tagged walleye from Lake Pend Oreille by participating in the angler incentive program.

Their lucky catches earned each of them a payout of $1,000. Between gas prices and inflation, who doesn't want to get paid that kind of money, especially when the check is won for time spent catching fish!

According to both anglers, the winnings will go toward gas money to catch more fish. Not a bad way to invest the money, if you ask us!

One of the winning walleye was around 16", and the other was around 21"; both were tagged and caught near the railroad bridge outside of Sandpoint.

So you want to try your hand at walleye fishing

Since the angler incentive program began in 2019, the vast majority of reward-tagged walleye have been caught in the northern portion of the lake. So if you're looking to get out and fish for walleye, consider spending some time in that area.

All indicators suggest that walleye fishing is good right now and should get better in the months ahead. The number of heads turned in last month was the highest on record for May since the program began in 2019.

July and August mark the months when the most heads are turned in each year, so get your gear ready, and get out after them this summer – the best is yet to come!

The best part is that there is currently $100,000 worth of reward-tagged walleye cruising the waters of Lake Pend Oreille.

What it's all about

As great as it is to send anglers home with cash in their pockets, the angler incentive program is really all about keeping walleye at low density. When walleye eat other fish species, particularly kokanee and trout, it threatens the sustainability of the Lake Pend Oreille fishery. This includes the world-class rainbow trout fishery for which Lake Pend Oreille is so well known.

Walleye have been introduced into many waters in the western United States. Time and again this has resulted in negative outcomes for coldwater fish, like trout and kokanee.

If left unchecked and unmanaged in Lake Pend Oreille, walleye could impact the predator-prey balance needed to support kokanee and the variety of predators that feed on them. Ultimately, the long-term health of the Lake Pend Oreille fishery depends on keeping walleye at low density.

To learn more on this topic, watch the 2022 State of the Lake virtual meeting.

Get more information

Idaho Fish and Game biologists provide regular updates on known walleye locations in Lake Pend Oreille to help get anglers and walleyes to cross paths. Make sure to check for walleye location updates on the Panhandle Fish and Game website and Facebook page before heading out on your next walleye outing.

If you're interested in learning more about walleye fishing in Lake Pend Oreille, the walleye incentive program and general information about walleye in the lake, Fish and Game has plenty of resources to help.

- Learn more about how walleye fit into the fisheries make-up of Lake Pend Oreille.

Conservatory Concert Series Coming To Little Carnegie Concert Hall

— Music Conservatory of Sandpoint —

Music is in the air this fall! With the launch of Conservatory Concert Series, newly redesigned Little Carnegie Concert Hall at Music Conservatory of Sandpoint is poised to share exquisite music with music lovers and our community for years to come. Comprising eight performances annually, the series showcases the highest caliber in classical performance by MCS faculty and guest artists.

The inaugural Conservatory Concert Series event, 20th Century French Bijoux for Flute and Piano, takes place on Friday, September 23rd, at 7pm, with Gosia Dauksza and Matthew Goodrich on flute and piano, respectively. In this program, these powerhouse musicians take on some of the most virtuosic and distinctive music composed for these two instruments together. According to Dauksza, the audience will enjoy "a satisfying musical bouquet of innovative and attractive works featuring dazzling cascades, luscious harmonies, and the essence of impressionism and café music, all served up with trademark French gentility."

An Evening in the Gardens of Spain continues the series on Friday, November 4th, at 7pm, presenting Matthew Goodrich with special guest pianist Melody Puller in a dazzling selection of Spanish piano music. The program, highlighting Spain's golden age of piano music at the turn of the twentieth century—with a few surprises along the way—displays the technical wizardry, vivid colors and rhythms, and traditional dances woven into this delightful music. Following his university doctoral research, Goodrich has performed French and Spanish piano repertoire over the past decade throughout the United States. Not to be missed!

Both concerts feature intimate, cabaret-style seating, with a curated selection of French and Spanish wines available for purchase. Seating is limited to 70 seats, and advance tickets are highly recommended. Tickets are available online at sandpoint-conservatory.org/events or may be reserved during business hours at the MCS Office.

The new Little Carnegie Concert Hall, accommodating up to 90 concertgoers, is acoustically optimized to showcase musical talent from around the region, nation, and world. The resonant, intimate performance space inspires future generations of musicians while engaging the public with fabulous performances.

Little Carnegie adorns the ground floor at 110 Main Street, Sandpoint, within a historical building that houses eighteen teaching studios and rehearsal rooms. These spaces support private music study as well as a wide variety of groups including youth choirs, orchestra, contemporary ensembles, and handbell and percussion troupes.

Please stay tuned for our announcement of 2023 Conservatory Concert Series events.

First Responder and Military Appreciation Day Sept. 11 at Farragut Shooting Range

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Fish and Game in the Panhandle is happy to celebrate first responders and military personnel at the Farragut Shooting Range Center on Sept. 11

First responders and military personnel put their lives on the line each and every day for the safety and betterment of us all. In appreciation of their service and sacrifice, Idaho Fish and Game is pleased to honor and celebrate them by hosting a "Hometown Heroes" day.

The event will be held on Sept. 11 at the Farragut Shooting Range Center in Athol. On this day, any first responder (law enforcement, fire and rescue, paramedics, EMTs, etc.) or military personnel (active, reserve, retired or veteran) can come out and enjoy a day of shooting on the range at no cost.

While there, they can also enjoy a free lunch, on us! So if you are a first responder or military personnel, grab your favorite firearms, your bow or both, and mark Sept. 11 on your calendar!

If you've never been to the range before, it features year-round public access to 50, 100, and 200-yard ranges plus trap and archery shooting.

Please contact the Panhandle Regional office at (208) 769-1414 with any questions.

Follow us on the Panhandle Region Facebook page for regular updates and news.

Upland Game Bird Enhancement Program Projects Access Guide Available Online

— Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks —

The upland game bird season is less than one month away, and hunters will soon be able to refer to the Projects Access Guide, published annually by Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks' Upland Game Bird Enhancement Program (UGBEP).

Beginning Aug. 15, hunters can view and download the new guide and maps online. Click UGBEP Projects Access Guide.

The guide contains all active projects administered through the UGBEP including Open Fields, habitat management leases, food and cover plots, CRP enhancements, shelterbelts and grazing systems. These project types are located in all FWP regions and designed to enhance upland game bird habitats on lands open to free upland game bird hunting when permission to hunt is secured.

The guide includes tables listing all habitat projects and maps that depict locations of private and public land projects enrolled in the UGBEP. Tables provide hunters with project-specific information such as project location, acres and the method to contact landowners for permission. FWP reminds hunters to obtain landowner permission before hunting private lands.

Printed access guides will be available at FWP headquarters and regional offices in late August. Hunters can also request a copy of the access guide via FWP's website. FWP will begin mailing guides to hunters the week of Aug. 15.

Due to current dry conditions and high fire danger throughout Montana, hunters may encounter UGBEP project closures or restrictions. Hunters can check the Projects Access Guide online for current information.

Through partnerships formed with private landowners, government agencies or conservation organizations, UGBEP has a current enrollment of 473 active projects, enhancing over 330,000 acres of game bird habitat while providing nearly 800,000 acres of access for upland game bird hunting. Hunters taking advantage of these projects and some of the amazing upland game bird hunting they offer should consider extending a thank you to the landowners. This partnership in creating upland game bird habitat and offering public access is an excellent opportunity.

For more information, contact Debbie Hohler, UGBEP coordinator, at: 406-444-5674, or by e-mail: dhohler@mt.gov.

Salmon Sliders

This recipe is a fun and creative way to use up leftover wine. These bite-sized sandwiches also make a great party snack to complement your favorite bottle.

- 6 hot dog buns, toasted
- 1 pound skinless salmon, cut into chunks
- 2 green onions, chopped
- 3/4 cup wine
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1/3 cup mayonnaise, for sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

1. In food processor, pulse 2 toasted hot dog buns into crumbs; transfer to bowl. Pulse salmon until chopped.

2. Mix with crumbs, green onions, 1/4 cup wine, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, salt and pepper. Form into 12 patties.

3. Bake on foil-lined pan in 425 F oven 10 minutes or until cooked through. In saucepan, boil 1/2 cup wine on high until reduced by half, stirring; chill slightly.

4. Toast 4 more buns, cut into thirds. Whisk wine into 1/3 cup mayonnaise; serve with patties on buns. Makes 12 sliders.

2022 Big Game Hunting Forecast Southwest Montana-Part 1 of 2

— Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks —

The Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission adopted several changes to this year's hunting regulations. In some areas, hunting districts were combined or reconfigured to create fewer, larger districts. Hunters should read the regulations and become thoroughly familiar with these new boundaries and the regulations and license opportunities for them.

Last winter was fairly mild, which means good winter survival for big game in many areas. This spring also had good precipitation, producing quality forage across many areas, so big game animals will likely be in good body condition this year. However, fawn recruitment for deer and pronghorn in some areas is diminished this year due to lingering impacts of extreme drought conditions last year.

Fire danger remains high throughout the region, so be aware of fire restrictions, road and campground closures, and other regulations that may go into effect to reduce wildfires. Keep motorized vehicles on roads, and don't park over dry fuels. Contact the applicable land management agency for updates on area closures or fire restrictions. Some Block Management areas are also closed or restricted due to fire danger. Visit fwp.mt.gov to see what rules are in place for Block Management properties.

White-tailed deer numbers remain strong in many parts of southwest Montana. They are typically associated with agricultural and private lands at lower elevations, where permission is required for access.

White-tailed deer continue to expand in hunting districts in the Dillon area, but harvest opportunity will remain almost exclusively on private lands. Hunters are encouraged to submit CWD samples from whitetails taken in this area, especially west of Interstate 15.

As a result of two seasons of CWD management hunts and CWD mortality, there's been a substantial reduction—about 75 percent—in white-tailed deer numbers in the Ruby Valley between Sheridan and Twin Bridges. However, hunters should still find many opportunities to harvest whitetails, which will be found primarily on private lands and agricultural areas. Hunters will have to secure permission to hunt white-tailed deer in these areas. CWD continues to be present across the Ruby watershed.

Whitetail harvests were below average in the Madison area in 2021 and within average for the Bozeman area. Winter survival from last season should be good this year.

Mule deer recruitment in the Helena area was up this spring compared to last year with good winter survival, though overall numbers are still low.

Except for HD 392 where mule deer numbers seem to be increasing, mule deer numbers continue to be down to some extent on national forest lands in the Townsend district. Mule deer numbers on private land vary but may be overabundant in some localized areas, especially in agricultural areas.

Mule deer populations in HDs 319, 340, 350 and 370 appear to be on a downward trend. The regulation in HD 340 has changed from either-sex mule deer to buck mule deer only on the general license and a limited number of B licenses. HD 319 is now a limited draw permit for mule deer bucks, along with a limited number of B licenses; therefore, hunters cannot hunt mule deer in HD 319 unless they have either this permit or a B license specific to HD 319. Mule deer populations in HD 321 (formerly 321 and 334) appear steady although very low density. These populations use the Big Hole for summer range then migrate out of the valley by early November. The regulation for this district has been liberalized to allow either-sex mule deer harvest on the general deer license.

Mule deer populations in HD 331 have seen growth over the past decade. However, survey efforts suggest declines over the past two years. These declines coincide with low fawn recruitment, which was likely influenced by drought conditions. Mule deer numbers in HD 329 appear to be holding steady, with some growth over the past 10 years. HD 302 has seen strong buck-to-doe ratios but is likely experiencing lower fawn recruitment due to drought. HD 303 is a special permit area where overall population numbers appear to be growing over the past 10 years but with lower recent fawn recruitment. Permit holders should expect to see good buck numbers but finding a trophy buck may take considerable effort.

In the Sheridan area, a measurable reduction in mule deer was observed relative to last year. Mule deer numbers here have come down to a point where they were about four years ago. This was influenced primarily by extremely low fawn survival through last winter due to extreme drought over the past two years. It's expected that hunters will observe fewer mule deer than they have over the past two years, but harvest opportunities will continue this season.

Most districts in the Bozeman area are within or above objective for mule deer, with good winter survival from last season.

Total mule deer numbers in the Livingston area observed during spring surveys were near 10- and 20-year averages in the Brackett Creek trend area (HD 393) but were below average in the Gardiner trend area (HD 313). As part of the regulation simplification effort during the 2022-2023 biennial season setting, the portion of HD 393 which allowed either-sex harvest with a general license was eliminated. That district now has an antlered buck regulation throughout.

A Bug-Out Bag for Pets

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: As the U.S. enters the most active period of the year for hurricanes, it's important to make sure we're prepared in case a storm strikes. My husband and I have prepared a backpack for each of us and a duffel bag with supplies for our dog and cat. We can grab these three bags on our way out the door if we have to evacuate to a safer area. Please share this tip with your readers: Preparing a bug-out bag for your pets is important no matter what part of the country you live in. -- Carl in Fort Lauderdale, Florida

DEAR CARL: That's fantastic advice, and thank you for sharing it. Keeping a bug-out bag ready for yourself and your pets can spell the difference between comfort and disaster.

Find a comprehensive guide to preparing pets for disasters at ready.gov/pets. It offers additional recommendations like microchipping pets in case they get separated from you.

Prepare a bug-out bag for each pet. If you use a single large duffel like Carl and his husband, separate each pet's supplies with a piece of cardboard or in different packing cubes. Items should include:

- Food and treats. Include enough for three days.
- Sanitation supplies. A small bag of cat litter, waste pickup bags and pee pads.
- First aid kit and medications. Include a seven-day supply; accessing medicine may be much harder than finding more food for pets.
- Essential records. Make copies of records like vaccinations. Store them in a waterproof bag and include a photo of yourself and your pets.
- Extra collar, leash and ID tags.
- Toys and bedding. These provide comfort and familiarity for pets
