$50,000 REWARD TO ANY person who can show a KJV Bible verse, where Jesus Christ told any person to observe Sunday, in honor of His resurrection. Jesus Christ set up the Seventh-day Sabbath (Saturday) as the sign of loyalty between man and God (Ezekiel 20:12-20) and that God never changes. Satan set up first day of week (Sunday) as his sign of loyalty and disguised it in a religious manner to sell it to people, who are willingly ignorant of what the Bible says, so he has his ministers tell people what to believe (2 Corinthians 11:13-15). There isn't one person in all the Bible that observed Sunday as a day of worship, in honor of Christ's resurrection. God blessed only one day and made it holy and that day was not Sunday. Interesting how April Fools' Day happens in April, the very month that Easter Sunday falls on. The Bible tells us that Satan is the God of this world (2 Corinthians 4:4) and that he has deceived that whole world (Revelation 12:9). So, then the question is: have you become foolish to Satan's deceptions? Tim, 208-217-8942, text only

National Periodic Table Day February 7th

— National Day Calendar —

On February 7th, National Periodic Table Day recognizes the publication of the first table of elements. We also look at how the periodic table has changed through the years.

The periodic table has a long history. It and the discovery of elements impacted science in many ways. Ancient man only knew of a few elements. However, by the 1st century A.D., mankind knew about the elements of gold, silver, copper, iron, lead, tin, mercury, sulfur, and carbon. Over time, we added arsenic, antimony, phosphorus, and zinc to our discoveries. By 1809, there were 47 discovered elements. It was time to organize, and Johann Döbereiner made one of the earliest attempts to do that. He organized the elements in 1817 into groups of three, or triads, based on similar qualities.

John Newlands

On February 7, 1863, English chemist John Newlands published one of the first table of elements. Newlands divided the known 56 elements into 11 groups based on the "Law of Octaves." His table suggested that anyone element will have similar properties to elements eight places before and behind it on the table.

Arranging the elements according to increasing atomic weight, Newlands was one of the first scientists to detect a pattern to the properties of elements. As a result, his table left room for new discoveries. It even predicted future discoveries would complete the table. In fact, Newlands correctly predicted the discovery of Germanium.

Future Discoveries

While parts of Newlands' periodic table contained flaws, so did other later proposed tables. In 1869, chemist Dimitri Mendeleev published a paper developing a new periodic table. Mendeleev's table also arranged the elements based on atomic mass. By this time, science had only identified 60 of the over 100 elements we know today.

As on previous tables, inaccuracies were attributed to some of those elements. While Mendeleev corrected some of these inaccuracies, he didn't correct them all. Mendeleev made assumptions about others causing elements to be placed incorrectly on the table. Like Newlands, Mendeleev also predicted discoveries, and he correctly predicted the properties of five elements and their compounds.

The discoveries throughout Scot William Ramsay's career from 1892 to 1910, along with John William Strutt, Morris Travers, and Frederick Soddy led to the identification of the noble gasses. In 1904, the Nobel Prize was awarded to Ramsay for discovering five elements.

Henry Moseley

Henry Moseley, an experimental physicist, contributed to the development of the modern periodic table. In 1913, Moseley discovered that each element has a specific number of protons. As a result, four new chemical elements were later found, though not during his lifetime.

Since the early 20th century, the periodic table remains largely unchanged. However, the 21st century is still young. Some researchers suggest new approaches to the periodic table while maintaining its integrity as one of the most valuable tools in the science of chemistry. The current table tallies a total of 118 elements.

How To Observe National Periodic Table Day

- Test your knowledge of the periodic table. Celebrate with Periodic Table trivia or challenging each other to name the elements. Take it a step further and name the number of protons in each element.
- Learn more about elements on the periodic table by reading 7 History Making Elements at www.nationaldaycalendar.com/lists/7-history-making-elements.
- Visit www.PeriodicTableDay.org for more information. Use #PeriodicTableDay to post on social media.
- Educators, visit the National Day Calendar Classroom pages for ways to incorporate National Periodic Table Day into your classroom.

National Periodic Table Day History

On February 7, 2016, the first National Periodic Table Day was founded. The day serves to promote the challenges overcome to develop the modern periodic table. Mr. David T. Steineker, author, inventor, and chemistry teacher at Jefferson County Public Schools in Kentucky is inspired by those challenges. He took the initiative to celebrate National Periodic Table Day based upon John Newlands' first table of the elements published on February 7, 1863.

Periodic Table FAQ

- Q. How many elements are on the periodic table?
A. The periodic table includes 118 elements.
- Q. What's the heaviest element on the periodic table?
A. The heaviest element by atomic weight is oganesson (Og), first synthesized in 2002. It is also one of two elements that have the greatest density. The other is iridium (Ir)
- Q. What is the lightest element on the periodic table?
A. Hydrogen (H) is the lightest element on the periodic table.

CHRISTIANS ARE ON probation; did you know that? (1 Peter 4:17) For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begins at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? (4:18) And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and sinner appear? Most people in the Christian world mistakenly think just believing in God/Jesus Christ that they will skip into heaven without going through the investigative judgment process. As it is written in the Bible, it says: My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge and since you reject knowledge, I (Jesus Christ) will reject you. The Bible also states: (Matthew 7:21) Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that does the will of my father which is in heaven. (7:23) And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you, depart from me, you break my law. So, then the question is, what is the will of God? It's found in Ecclesiastes 12:13-14. ## U of I Extension Announces Cabin Fever Series Workshops

— University of Idaho —

OROFINO, Idaho — University of Idaho Extension, Clearwater County, will host its annual Cabin Fever Series Workshops this February, offering two educational evenings designed to help community members build practical home and food skills.

The first session, Home Food Preservation Basics, will be held on Tuesday, February 17th. Participants will learn the fundamentals of safe home food preservation, including an overview of different preservation methods, equipment options, safety considerations, and best practices.

The second workshop, Butchery Basics, is scheduled for Wednesday, February 25th. This session will be led by Dr. Phil Bass, Meat Scientist and faculty member in the University of Idaho's Animal, Veterinary, and Food Sciences Department. Dr. Bass will guide attendees through introductory principles of butchery and meat handling.

Each workshop begins at 5:30pm, with check in starting at 5pm.

Space is limited to 20 participants per evening. Community members are encouraged to register early at bit.ly/clearwater\_events.

An evening of Romance and Purpose

Tickets available now for Habitat's A Glam Sweethearts Ball

— N.I. Habitat for Humanity —

COEUR D'ALENE — Valentine's Day plans are set with Habitat for Humanity of North Idaho's 17th annual "A Glam Sweethearts Ball," an elegant evening combining romance, entertainment and meaningful impact.

The semi-formal event will take place Friday, February 14th, at the Best Western Plus Coeur d'Alene Inn, benefiting Habitat's affordable housing and home repair programs in Kootenai County.

"We've designed the Sweethearts Ball to take the stress out of Valentine's Day planning," said Rebekah Paragamian, volunteer and event coordinator. "It's truly an all-in-one evening — dinner, drinks, sweet treats, flowers, dancing and gift-worthy auctions — all wrapped into one memorable night while supporting a cause that strengthens our community."

The evening begins at 5pm with a cocktail hour and silent auction, followed by a surf-and-turf buffet, live auction, raffles and games. Roses and sweet treats will be available for purchase, and DJ Tripp Rogers will provide music for dancing.

Auction offerings include vacation getaways to places like Maui and the Oregon Coast, hotel and dining packages, designer handbags, artwork, jewelry, baseball collectibles, fishing wall art, quilts and more — making it easy for guests to find the perfect Valentine's gift or let their sweetheart choose one themselves.

Tickets are $85 per person or $680 for a table of eight. A limited number of sponsorship opportunities remain available for businesses or individuals.

"The Sweethearts Ball has become a Valentine's tradition for many in our community," Paragamian said. "We welcome couples, families, friends and even 'galentines' groups who make this event part of their annual celebration."

Proceeds from the event will support Habitat for Humanity of North Idaho's work at Duffield Place, a 21-home affordable housing development currently under construction in Coeur d'Alene.

"The need for affordable housing in Kootenai County has never been greater," said James Casper, executive director. "Nearly four out of five residents can no longer afford a median-priced home, placing homeownership out of reach for many working families."

Duffield Place is being built in phases. Five families moved into completed townhomes in 2025, with additional buildings currently under construction. Four more families are expected to move into new homes this spring.

"Every home we build represents stability, dignity and hope," Casper said. "Everyone who attends the Sweethearts Ball becomes part of that story."

Tickets and event information are available at charityauction.bid/sweetheartsball2026.

Ironstone Ceramics

If you're familiar with 19th-century ceramics, you probably know about ironstone. It was first made by English potter Miles Mason, who sold Chinese export porcelain and decided to make his own replacements for broken dishes. To make these replacements, he created a ceramic using slag from processing iron, which his son patented as ironstone in 1813. Heavy, durable and hard to chip, it was clearly different from porcelain, but quickly became a favorite for tableware. Many other potteries began making ironstone, especially in the Staffordshire district of England. Albion Pottery, also known as Bourne & Leigh, active from about 1892 to 1941, was one of them.

The platter shown here, which sold for $95 at Du-Mouchelles, is an example of their ironstone. The pattern's name, "Chinese," evokes Mason's original intention of making dishes to use with Chinese porcelain. Many popular ironstone patterns imitated East Asian designs. This Albion Pottery platter includes a landscape with buildings and a bridge with a figure, reminiscent of Nanking china or the design that inspired the famous Blue Willow pattern. A close look at the platter's border shows geometric patterns like the ones found on Chinese porcelain.

Q: I have a child's chair shaped like a hand-carved bear cub that looks like a Black Forest piece but I'm not sure. Can you tell me, and what it is worth? How old, too?

A: Black Forest furniture was first made in the late 1800s. Several wood carving schools were established in Switzerland and southern Germany by then. Wooden furniture and figurines carved into the shapes of local animals like deer, bears and wolves were popular souvenirs. Walnut and linden woods were frequently used. Carving shops were often run by families. One of the most famous was the Trauffer family of Switzerland. Three generations of Trauffers made Black Forest furniture from the 1880s to the 1950s. Check your chair for a maker's signature. Black Forest furniture production declined by the 1960s because it was going out of fashion. However, it came back into fashion in the 1980s; since then, reproduction pieces have been made outside Germany and Switzerland. Authentic Black Forest furniture from about 1880 to 1950 sells for high prices. Pieces with bears have sold for about $300 to over $3,000 at recent auctions. Pieces with large animal figures as part of the structure, like a table that appears to be held up by its bear-shaped supports or chairs like yours where the bear makes up the chair's back, seat and arms, tend to sell for more. Bears are the most common animal seen in Black Forest furniture, so pieces that feature other animals can get even higher prices.

TIP: To whiten stained ironstone, soak it, completely submerged, for a week. Then heat it in a pre-heated electric oven at 250 degrees for 20 minutes.

Pets of the Week: McNulty and Gus

— Better Together Animal Alliance —

Meet McNulty! This eight-year-old gentleman is an absolute prize; not the biggest talker, but what he lacks in words, he makes up for in affection. Mellowing out in a warm pile of blankets with his friends is his favorite activity. If you want to join him, all he asks is that he stays inside due to having been declawed before he came to us. He may also not be the biggest fan of dogs, but as long as he's the center of attention and has his safe places to hide out in, he should do perfectly fine. Swing by BTAA to meet this lovely creamsicle-colored fellow!

Meet Gus! Gus is a friendly and easygoing 2-year-old boy weighing around 60 pounds. He has a playful, happy personality and truly enjoys being around people. Whether it's soaking up attention, going for a run, or engaging in a fun play session, Gus is always excited to be part of the fun. He adores adults and children alike and has shown himself to be a loving, social companion. Gus has experience around other dogs and has done well with them, making him a great candidate for a home with canine friends. While he doesn't have any known experience with cats, he continues to show curiosity and enthusiasm for new environments. Gus would thrive in a home that can provide him with plenty of attention, playtime, and daily enrichment. Come by and spend some time getting to know Gus—you may just find your new best friend!

Pets of the Week: Marley and Blossom

— Companions Animal Center —

Marley is a sweet 5-year-old female Black Mouth Cur with a gentle, loving personality. She's past the high-energy puppy stage and enjoys a balanced lifestyle—happy to go for walks and spend time with her people, but also content to relax and enjoy quiet moments. Marley is looking for a home where she can feel safe, loved, and part of the family.

Blossom is an absolutely beautiful 15-year-old female cat who has recently come into our care. She is a very anxious girl and spent much of her time hiding in her previous home, as she can be easily overwhelmed by her surroundings. With the right care, love, and patience, Blossom has the potential to slowly come out of her shell and gain confidence.

Lennie loves to play, whether it's with you or his toys, and he will keep you entertained for as long as you want. He would be a fantastic addition to any home, spreading love and happiness with his affectionate nature and playful spirit. Lennie truly deserves a loving home where he can show just how much love he has to give. Prepare yourself for endless snuggles and joy when you welcome Lennie into your life.

Thanks to Cheri's generous sponsorship, Tamarack's adoption fee is waived for an approved home, giving this special boy a better chance at finding his forever family! Meet Tamarack, an energetic and curious youngster. He sees life as one big adventure, whether he's racing around the yard, chasing toys, or exploring his surroundings. Despite a difficult start, Tamarack is blossoming at the rescue center, showing his playful nature and gaining confidence. He's ready for a loving home where he can form a deep bond and discover the world's goodness. If you seek a joyful, resilient companion, Tamarack may be the one.

supervised children as well. She's very quiet and clean and doesn't test fences.

Hazel is a 4 yr old spayed female Border Collie/Kelpie cross. She is a very Smart and obedient girl. She's completely housebroken. She gets along great with other dogs that are not too rambunctious, she's a gentle player, and she's fine with cats. I imagine she would be fine with calm, kind, considerate, well time, and snuggling, as much as he likes being outdoors exploring the Great Pacific Northwest with his human!

Henry is a 1 yearr old 100 lb. purebred Bloodhound. He is actually quite obedient for a hound dog! He is quiet most of the time and very housebroken. Gets along great with other dogs and plays well in group situations. He gives the cats a little Chase, but he doesn't mean them any harm. I'm sure! He could be taught not to do that. He will require a secure 6-ft fence, as he is a tester. He absolutely loves his couch

Please email Idahocoondog@yahoo.com or search for Second Chance. Pet Rescue, Hayden ID on www.petfinder.com for more info and an adoption application.

Animal Talk

— Vivian Bogardus —

I spoke to a zebra
in Zebraneeze,
To bears and giraffes and
Five chimpanzees.

I spoke to a hippo,
BIG as you please!
I chatted with cheetahs,
and talked to birds.

I learned to talk all the Animal words.
I even conversed with Buffalo herds!

I just love to visit
The local zoo.
I talk and I talk, till
My lips are blue.

It's fun to make sounds like Animals do!

Fruitland Angler Catches New State Record Rainbow Trout At Dworshak Reservoir

— Idaho Fish & Game —

On Jan. 13, while many of Idaho's anglers were breaking out the tape measure to check ice thicknesses and temperature gauges, one angler at Dworshak Reservoir had his tape measure out for a different reason.

Todd Phillips of Fruitland was taking advantage of some breaks in the cloudy weather while fishing at Dworshak Reservoir near Orofino. At one point, his rod tip bent violently towards the water, and after several minutes, he landed a trout the size of a Chinook salmon.

Now, most anglers will agree, any time a rainbow trout takes two hands to hold up, it's worthy of a day's highlight reel. But this one turned out to be a new Idaho certified weight record. Phillips' fish came in at 20.03 pounds. The Dworshak giant edged the former record by a mere .03 pounds. Congratulations on the new spot atop the Idaho state record books!

Women Physicians Day February 3rd

— National Day Calendar —

On February 3rd, honor the path that female doctors have paved since 1849 as we recognize National Women Physicians Day.

This day marks the birthday of Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman to receive a medical degree in the United States in 1849. Dr. Blackwell initiated the movement that helped women gain entry and equality in the field of medicine.

If society will not admit of a woman's free development, then society must be remodeled. ~ Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell

The day celebrates the courage of Elizabeth Blackwell and the accomplishments of female physicians everywhere. At the same time, the day strives to bring improvements to the workplace for the growing number of women physicians entering the field of medicine.

While the number of women doctors gradually increased in the last two decades, 2016 statistics show 35% of physicians are women. A study published in JAMA Internal Medicine last year revealed that women doctors earn on average 8% less than their male counterparts. That discrepancy, along with nearly a third of women physicians reporting sexual harassment in the workplace and a large majority experiencing gender bias. Clearly, there is still work to be done.

National Women Physicians Day recognizes the strides made by generations of women doctors. The observance also recognizes that we must strike a balance that allows women to succeed professionally while supporting a family. Join National Women Physicians Day in celebrating these accomplishments and supporting women physicians as colleagues, friends, family, and doctors.

HOW TO OBSERVE NATIONAL WOMEN PHYSICIANS DAY

On February 3rd we are asking not only the medical community, but also our larger community of patients, families, and the public to celebrate National Women Physicians Day in hospitals and clinics, medical schools, and on social media. We are in an exciting time for medicine. We are connecting virtually and creating a collective voice that can be used to create positive changes for physicians and patients alike. Use #IAMBLACKWELL, #WomensDocsInspire and #NWPD to share on social media.

NATIONAL WOMEN PHYSICIANS DAY HISTORY

In an effort to raise awareness of the importance of a physician-led healthcare team and female physicians' roles in medicine, Physician Moms Group and Medelita founded February 3rd as National Women Physicians Day. Physician Moms Group successfully celebrated the first National Women Physicians Day on February 3, 2016.

The Registrar at National Day Calendar® declared the observance in 2017.

About Physician Moms Group

Physician Moms Group (PMG) was founded in November 2014 by Dr. Hala Sabry to bring together women physicians, who are also parents, to collaborate and support each other while sharing their medical expertise in an open forum. The PMG's mission is to provide resources, a platform to network, and an opportunity to share information with like-minded individuals. The PMG network includes over 65,000 women physicians of all specialties across the globe. For more information, visit www.mypmg.org and follow them on Twitter @PhysicianMomsGp.

Women Physicians FAQ

Q. Who are some other notable women physicians from history?

A. There are many notable women physicians we could mention here, but we'll start with:

Rebecca Lee Crumpler (February 8, 1831 - March 9, 1895) - She became the first African-American woman to become a medical doctor in the United States.

Mary Edwards Walker (November 26, 1832 - February 21, 1919) - During the American Civil War, Walker served as the first female U.S. Army surgeon. She would earn the Medal of Honor, the only woman to receive the honor.

Virginia Apgar June 7, 1909 - August 7, 1974) - Anyone who has given birth in the last 70 years likely is familiar with the Apgar Score. Virginia Apgar developed the score to assess the health of newborn children within a minute of birth.

Montana Fish and Wildlife Conservation Trust Seeking Trust Manager

— Montana Fish & Wildlife —

HELENA – The Joint State-Federal Board of the Montana Fish and Wildlife Conservation Trust is seeking proposals for qualified organizations to serve as its next trust manager.

This position is critical to the long-term stewardship of a permanent public trust established under the Canyon Ferry Act, with more than $32 million in assets dedicated to land conservation, habitat restoration, and public access enhancement across Montana.

The Joint State-Federal Board of the Montana Fish and Wildlife Conservation Trust was established by the U.S. Congress in 1998, funded by proceeds from the sale of cabin sites on Canyon Ferry Reservoir that had previously been leased from the federal government. The agencies represented on the Trust are the Bureau of Land Management, Bureau of Reclamation, Forest Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks.

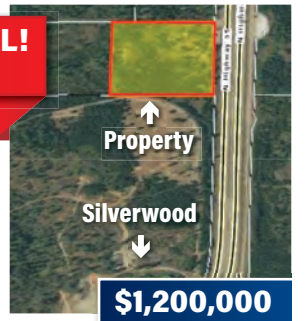

The trust manager will oversee investment management, disbursement administration, and a range of administrative functions. The request for proposals (RFP) period is open through March 2. Proposals must demonstrate strong fiduciary experience, investment expertise, and a commitment to conservation values.

Interested organizations can request the full RFP or submit questions by contacting board member Tom Darrington at tdarrington@blm.gov. For more information on the RFP, visit: <https://mtconservationtrust.org/>

Applications For Spring Turkey Controlled Hunts Open Feb. 1

— Idaho Fish & Game —

Hunters can see a full list of the 2026 spring turkey controlled hunts below. The updated seasons and rules booklets will be posted in early February.

Turkey hunters looking to apply for 2026 spring controlled turkey hunts can apply from Feb. 1 to March 1. See the full list of 2026 spring controlled hunts below.

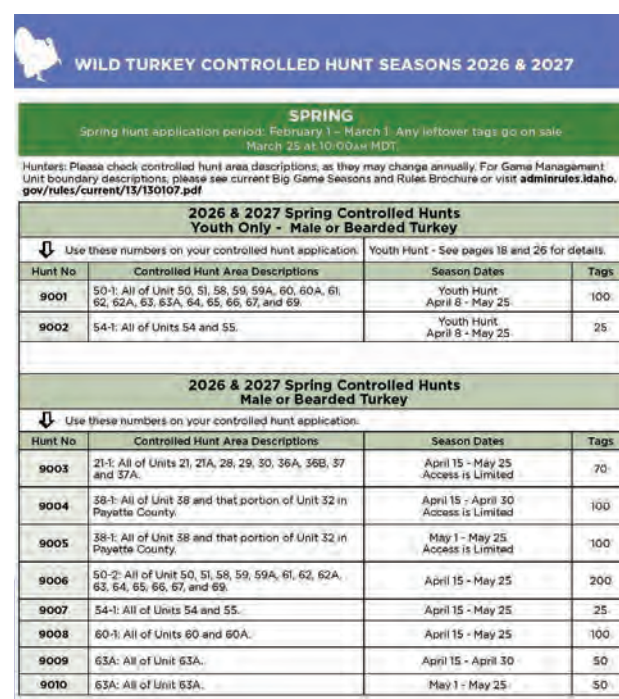

NOTE: During the January 2026 Commission meeting (watch below), the Idaho Fish and Game Commission approved the 2026-2027 Upland Game, Turkey, and Furbearer seasons and rules, including changes to existing spring turkey controlled hunts. The full seasons and rules booklet will be posted online in early February and available at local license vendors in late February or early March.

Hunters must have a 2026 hunting license in order to apply for controlled hunts, and there is a non-refundable application fee of $6.25 for residents and $18 for nonresidents.

Controlled hunt applications for spring 2026 turkey close on March 1. Successful spring turkey applicants will be notified no later than March 20. Hunters with a valid email address on file will be notified of their status via email. Any leftover tags for spring turkey controlled hunts go on sale April 1.

HOW TO APPLY

- Online: Hunters can apply through their online profile at GoOutdoorsIdaho.com.

- In-person: Applications can be submitted at any license vendor location or at a Fish and Game office.
- Telephone: Applications can be placed over the phone by calling 1 (800) 554-8685.

Controlled hunts are hunts with a limited number of tags allocated by a random drawing, unlike a general season hunt, which allows hunters to purchase tags over the counter. Controlled hunts are often desirable because of location and timing, and success rates are usually higher than general season hunts.

Controlled hunt tags are valid in the controlled hunt for which a hunter was drawn or in any open general hunt during the calendar year for which the tag is valid. See pages 24-25 for the list of controlled hunts. A turkey hunter may only harvest one bird per controlled hunt tag.

Junior hunters must be between the ages of 10 and 17 to participate in controlled youth hunts, but a 9-year-old may buy a junior license to apply for a controlled hunt, provided the hunter is 10 years old at the time of the hunt they are applying for.

'Lactose Intolerance' Proves To Be A Casein Sensitivity

DEAR DR. ROACH: My wife believed that she had lactose intolerance. After some tests, it was found that she was sensitive to casein rather than lactose. Are there other things in cow's milk besides lactose and casein that people are sensitive to? -- K.A.

ANSWER: There are three main components of cow's milk that can lead people to having a bad reaction.

Lactose is a type of compound sugar called a "disaccharide," which includes two separate single sugars ("monosaccharides") -- glucose and galactose -- that are connected by a chemical bond. This chemical bond is broken by a specific enzyme called lactase. Deficiency is rare in children but common in adults, especially in people with ancestry from Asia and Africa, as well as Native Americans.

Without the ability to break lactose into its component monosaccharides, a person is likely to get abdominal cramps, gas and diarrhea if they consume lactose. This is because lactose passes into the colon, where colonic bacteria will digest the lactose and produce gas (as well as discomfort). There is a wide variety in the amount that people need to consume to have symptoms, with some people being exquisitely sensitive and others needing a fair amount of it to develop symptoms.

Milk allergies are different. Eighty percent of adults with cow's milk allergies are women. Cow's milk allergies are most commonly due to the protein casein

(the "curds" of the nursery rhyme) but may also be due to whey protein. People who are allergic to whey protein often have less symptoms if the protein is heated or cooked (for example, milk in baked goods) or if it is changed by digestive enzymes, as in yogurt.

Cow's milk allergies can have various symptoms. They can be serious and cause anaphylaxis, a life-threatening allergic reaction. But they may also cause symptoms that people might not recognize as a food allergy, such as skin changes, symptoms of the mouth and esophagus, and food- and exercise-associated anaphylaxis. Some people develop eosinophilic esophagitis, which can resemble gastroesophageal reflux disease; this causes heartburn that doesn't respond to the usual treatments.

This is only a brief overview of a complicated topic that generally requires an expert in allergy and immunology to help diagnose and manage the condition.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have a "trigger thumb." My thumb no longer bends at the middle joint and hurts. Exercise doesn't seem to work. I tried physical therapy, too, without results. -- A.M.

ANSWER: Stenosing flexor tenosynovitis, aka trigger finger, is a common issue that I see very frequently in my clinical practice. Symptoms usually start with some "catching" or locking of the fingers while flexing and extending one or more of them. This may progress to discomfort or pain, and it can progress to the point where a finger or thumb is locked in place and needs to be bent by the other hand.

Initial treatment includes rest and anti-inflammatories. Some experts use a splint to reduce the trauma from repetitive movement in the pulley system of the hand. If conservative treatment isn't effective, most hand experts will try an injection of a steroid into the area of the pulley and tendon. Surgery is an option if two or three injections haven't solved the problem.

Working Out Which Plant-Based Milk Substitute Is Healthiest

DEAR DR. ROACH: Everyone in my family, except for me, has converted to using almond milk instead of cow's milk. I just saw something on the internet stating that almond milk is possibly the worst plant-based milk substitute. I trust your opinion and research. Can you please educate me on what is best? Are plant-based milks really better than cow's milk, and which plant-based milk is best? -- D.G.

ANSWER: When trying to compare plant-based milk substitutes with each other and with animal milks in their health impact, it's important to look at what each of them have in terms of macronutrients and micronutrients.

Cow's milk, like other animal milks, contains macronutrients like protein, sugars and fats, as well as micronutrients like calcium. (Most cow's milk is fortified with vitamin D.) While most North Americans consume adequate protein, many people try to increase their protein intake through cow's milk.

Similarly, although the data are mixed, most experts agree that saturated fat, which is found in cow's milk, increases heart disease risk. (Cow's milk can be whole, low-fat, reduced fat or skim, varying in their percentages of overall fat.) However, cow's milk contains beneficial fats like conjugated linoleic acid and methyl-branched-chain fatty acids. Most North Americans consume much more simple sugar than what is optimal with cow's milk.

Almond milk has much less protein than cow's milk (1 gram versus 8 grams), and the quality of the protein based on the amount of essential amino acids is less. Soy milk is much higher in protein than almond milk -- almost as much as cow's milk, about 7 grams. Coconut milk has almost none.

However, almond and soy milk have no saturated fat (or almost none) and more monounsaturated fats. Coconut milk has about the same amount of saturated fat as cow's milk. Almond, soy and coconut milks are typically fortified with calcium to match what is found in cow's milk, but the calcium in plant milks is not absorbed as well.

Almond milk can be bought unsweetened or sweetened with typically 7-8 grams of sugar per cup, compared to 12 grams per cup in cow's milk. Cow's milk has multiple other micronutrients naturally, while plant-based milk is fortified with vitamin A and D.

So, is your family right that almond milk is the worst? No, I don't think so. In my opinion, the nonexistent protein and high saturated fat content of coconut milk makes it the least acceptable from a health perspective. Soy and almond milk seem like the better alternatives, but neither of them is really comparable to cow's milk in terms of other micronutrients.

The choice of almond versus soy milk is not clear from a health perspective, so your taste preference should be your guide. In all cases of plant-based milks, I recommend unsweetened and unflavored products.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I get regular pedicures. I never go for gel, but I often use a bright color. When the polish comes off, almost every single one of my nails is quite mottled with brown and white spots. Of course, I thought about not wearing polish and allowing the new nails to slowly grow out, but I can't stand the look of my toes.

I know this is just a cosmetic problem. My pedicurist seems to know nothing about it. The real question is, what causes such gross discoloration in some people but not in other others? -- N.W.

ANSWER: I'll bet you have keratin granules, which represent damage to the nail. They are often described to be chalky white and happen in many people if nail polish is left on for too long (more than 7-10 days). Experts recommend an acetone-free remover when it's time to remove them. You can also use a base coat to protect the nail. Let the nails go without polish periodically.

Fortunately, keratin granules are not dangerous and will grow out. They can be mistaken for toenail fungus, so your regular doctor or a dermatologist can help if these tips don't stop them from developing.
