SWEDISH PANCAKES Makes 12 pancakes

- 1 cup flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups milk, or 1-1/2 cups milk and 1/2 cup half and half (optional)
- 3 eggs
- 1/4 cup butter, melted and cooled, plus butter for cooking.

In a medium bowl, combine all of the ingredients with a whisk until smooth. Do not overbeat. For each pancake, lightly butter griddle or large skillet; heat over medium-high heat. When quite hot, pour 1/3 cup of the batter into skillet. Swirl it around so that it forms a thin 8- to 9-inch layer on the bottom of the pan.

Cook until the pancake is golden brown on the bottom (lift up a corner to check the color) and small bubbles are visible on the top. This happens quickly. Flip with a narrow spatula and cook until lightly brown on the other side.

Set on a plate and fold in half, or quarters, if you wish. Serve hot with traditional lingonberry, strawberry or raspberry preserves. Top with a dusting of confectioners' sugar.

CBDC= MOB! (Revelation 13:15-17) I always wondered how the 'Mark of the Beast' was going to be enforced on you, the average american individual. Where you cannot buy anything, that goes against Sunday observance. But then recently, the issue of the CBDC has made it possible to enforce every person to comply with the agenda that is in place. Have you never noticed that as soon as Covid 19 pandemic came about, censorship came into play at the very same time? Covid 19 started out as voluntary vaccines, then turned rapidly into mandates. People are easy to control when they are willingly ignorant of the facts. Tim 208-217-8942, text

Data Shows Increasing Numbers Of Walleye At Lower Granite Dam

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Walleye have spread throughout the Columbia River basin following an unauthorized introduction to Lake Roosevelt in the mid-20th century. These fish have remained downstream of Idaho's salmon and steelhead rivers until recently. Data collected at the Lower Granite Dam adult fish trap has shown that walleye have been moving through the fish ladder and likely passing over this dam since at least 2016 (2016=2; 2017=11; 2018=49; 2019=20; 2020=45; 2021=75).

The adult fish trap is located halfway up the fish ladder and allows biologists to trap and handle a portion of fish moving through the ladder. Because the adult trap collects only a portion of fish moving up the ladder, these numbers represent a fraction of what has actually passed upstream of the dam over the last handful of years. We estimate that 160 walleye in 2020 and 294 in 2021 passed over Lower Granite Dam, and passage in 2022 is shaping up to be the largest yet. Additionally, anglers are encountering walleye in Idaho's anadromous waters with increasing frequency, including one fish caught over 80 miles up the Salmon River near the town of Riggins.

Walleye predation on young salmon and steelhead

Walleye are effective and opportunistic predators that will prey on emigrating salmon and steelhead smolts. Juvenile salmonids in Idaho rivers and streams are already affected through predation by native and non-native birds and fishes, and as more walleye continue to move and colonize upstream of Lower Granite, predation rates will continue to rise. Researchers downriver have estimated that the average walleye eats around 2.5 smolts per day in the spring (McMichael and James 2017), and that non-native predators, including walleye, might be eating up to 17% of certain populations of juvenile emigrants (Harnish et al. 2014). This scale of mortality can reduce adult returns.

Walleye identification

Angling encounters with walleye will only increase as more of these fish pass above Lower Granite, so it might be time to brush up on your walleye identification skills. Generally speaking, walleye have a dark green back, that transitions into a gold side, and a light white belly. The walleye is closely related to the yellow perch, but lacks the dark vertical bars that you would see on the side of a perch. Walleye have a long and slender shape with a tapered head, somewhat similar to the overall shape of a northern pikeminnow. However, these two species can easily be differentiated by remembering just a couple of key characteristics. Walleye have two distinct dorsal fins (the first fin has spiny rays and the second has soft rays), while northern pikeminnow only have a single, soft-rayed dorsal fin. Additionally, walleye have sharp and obvious teeth, while northern pikeminnow have no teeth (don't try to grab a walleye by the lip!). If you have any questions about identifying walleye and other species in Idaho, consult pages 58-61 of the 2022-2024 IDFG fishing regulations.

Walleye harvest regulations

Within Idaho's anadromous waters (Clearwater River, Salmon River, and the Snake River below Hells Canyon) there are no restrictions on the daily bag, size, or possession limit of walleye. The average walleye that we've sampled from the ladder at Lower Granite over the last few years has been almost 18 inches and just under two pounds, with the largest fish coming in at 23 inches and four and a half pounds. As many folks know, these fish make tremendous table fare! So, if you happen to find one at the end of your line, we encourage you to keep it and enjoy your meal.

FREE TO THE RIGHT home, Lucy is a 7 year old half English, half American Field Lab, who desires to be the only 4-legged kid in the house. She has had 3 litters of wonderful fox red and yellow pups in the past, and spayed 18 months ago. She has spunk but is very low key, housebroken, and has terrific manners. Great with kids, and an excellent hunter! I adore Lucy and normally do not rehome a girl at this age, but she really wants to be the only kid and I have a bunch here with raising and training Labradors. She is in Heppner, OR, for now, but the dogs and I are leaving end of December for winter training grounds in California, warmer weather and water for the dogs to swim and play in. 541-580-5159 or www.loveslabradors.net

"Sistine Chapel Ceiling"

One of mankind's most magnificent masterpieces is the barrel vaulted ceiling of the Sistine Chapel, painted in fresco by Michelangelo from 1508-1512. It is located in the Vatican City (Rome) and depicts incidents/people of the Old Testament. It was painted during the High Renaissance period and underwent a major restoration from 1980-1994.

Farro Risotto With Butternut Squash

The firm, chewy texture of farro resembles Arborio rice but boasts the nutritional characteristics of spelt. Italians have enjoyed this alternative grain since the days of the Roman Empire.

- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- Salt and ground black pepper*
- 1½ cups farro (emmer wheat)
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1¼ cups water
- 1 can (14 to 14 1/2 ounces) chicken broth, (1 3/4 cups)
- 1/8 teaspoon dried thyme
- 1/8 teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
- 1 (2-pound) butternut squash, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese, plus additional for serving
- 1/4 cup (loosely packed) fresh parsley leaves, chopped

1. In deep nonstick 12-inch skillet, heat oil over medium heat until hot. Add onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper, and cook 5 to 7 minutes or until onion is tender and lightly browned. Add farro and cook 2 to 3 minutes or until lightly browned, stirring constantly. Add wine and cook about 1 minute or until absorbed.

2. To farro mixture in skillet, add water, broth, thyme and rosemary; cover skillet and heat to boiling over high heat. Stir in squash; reduce heat to medium-low. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes longer or until farro is just tender (mixture will still be soupy). Uncover and cook 1 to 2 minutes longer over high heat, stirring constantly, until most of liquid is absorbed.

3. Remove skillet from heat and stir in Parmesan and parsley. Serve risotto with additional Parmesan if you like. Yields 6 1/2 cups. Serves 4.

Living With Black Bears

— Idaho Fish and Game —

Black Bears in Idaho

Black bears (Ursus americanus) are found throughout both the foothills and forests of Idaho. Between 20,000 and 30,000 black bears roam these wild lands. These bears share space with a human population that is expected to grow by more than 15 percent during the next 10 years. This means that human/bear encounters will continue and likely increase.

Every year, Idaho Fish and Game Department staff respond to dozens of calls from citizens reporting bears that have become attracted to — and then accustomed to — human food sources such as garbage, bird seed, and pet food. Though the bears are just following their sensitive noses to high-calorie foods, being in constant contact with people can cause them to lose their natural wariness of humans. Bears intent on getting a good meal can cause harm to someone who gets in their way. For this reason, Fish and Game staff are regularly forced to euthanize some bears that have become too comfortable around people. That's treating the symptom, not the cause of the problem.

Mountain Towns are in Bear Habitat

Idaho's mountain towns are a great place for humans, but why do bears like them so much?

Bears spend approximately one-third of the year in their den, sleeping through winter. To prepare for this, they spend most of their time during summer and fall fattening up by consuming as many calories as possible.

Contrary to popular belief, more than 90 percent of most black bear diets consist of vegetation: berries, nuts and plants. A bear's keen nose can smell foods up to five miles away! Although towns have hazards such as dogs, cars, and people, they also have the benefits of calories. The table below compares the calorie contents of some natural and human sourced black bear foods:

FOOD TYPE	CALORIES
1 lb. Birdseed	2,585
1 32-oz Hummingbird Feeder	3,200
1 bushel of apples	6,720
3 cups of dry dog food	1,200
1 jelly doughnut	310
2 slices of pizza	750
1 lb. of huckleberries	166
1 lb. of termites	1,500

When two slices of pizza from a dumpster provides more calories than an hour spent raking huckleberry bushes, the benefits of town can quickly outweigh the risks. In addition to great noses, bears have great memories, and will revisit a home many times once they've found food there.

Human Foods + Bears = Trouble

When bears begin spending a lot of time in town, around people, cars and dogs, they begin to lose their natural fear of these things. Though bears are not typically aggressive towards people, they can become aggressive in their efforts to get food. A hungry bear can see the family pet that defends its food dish or a person toting a trash bag to the dumpster as a food competitor.

Bears that display threatening behaviors (such as stalking, or clacking their jaws) or that do not respond to efforts to scare them off cannot responsibly be relocated. Studies have shown that bears accustomed to human food commonly travel 30 miles or more to access that food. While Idaho has a lot of wild places, it's difficult to find a place that's more than 30 miles from a town or campground. Therefore, aggressive or excessively habituated bears must be destroyed to protect human safety. No one wants to be the reason a bear is destroyed.

Bear Country Living Comes With Responsibilities

The way to prevent this tragedy is to prevent the cycle from beginning in the first place. Taking the following precautions can prevent bears from accessing human foods, and stop the cycle of habituation, aggressiveness and removal:

- Keep trash in a bear-resistant container or in a secure enclosure, such as a garage
- Ensure that bear-resistant containers are properly closed and latched; never tamper with the latching mechanism
- Never leave trash outside overnight
- Do not feed birds, including hummingbirds, between March and November
- Keep pet foods inside at all times
- Pick fruit promptly when it begins to ripen, and clean up any fallen fruit
- Do not keep coolers, refrigerators, or freezers outside or on porches
- Keep barbeque grills clean after use

Here to Help

If a bear does access human food at your home or camp, biologists can provide information on how to prevent future incidents, and hopefully encourage the bear to move on. Regional offices are open Monday-Friday, 8am to 5pm.

Cranberry and Orange, the Delectable Holiday Duo

I jokingly call this time of year "pumpkin flavored everything time." Yet, in the shadow of the squash is the equally endearing cranberry. While cranberry on its own is tart and berry-licious, if you want to make cranberry sing, pair it with orange.

This jam is sweet, tart and unbelievably addictive. Besides giving a major upgrade to your turkey sandwich, you'll love it with cream cheese and crackers as an appetizer. It's also an excellent glaze for turkey, chicken, pork and salmon.

www.JasonCoblentz.com

Cranberry orange jam pairs deliciously with cranberry orange soda bread.

To take this over the top, serve it on fresh-from-the-oven cranberry orange bread. This nontraditional twist on Irish Soda Bread is crusty, buttery and bursting with holiday flavor.

The combo is outrageously delicious. It's also easy, fun and quite inexpensive.

Here's the plan: We start by making the bread, and while it bakes, we make the jam. Then we enjoy the bread, still warm from the oven, slathered in flavorful jam. It's the perfect way to spend an autumn afternoon in the kitchen, but you may want to enlist a friend, because this is sticky business.

CRANBERRY ORANGE SODA BREAD

Yield: 1 loaf
Total Time: 1 hour 20 minutes
5 cups all-purpose flour, divided
1/3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoons kosher salt
1/2 cup (1 stick) cold butter
1 3/4 cups buttermilk
1 large egg
1 tablespoon orange zest, freshly grated
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup dried cranberries

Preheat oven to 375 F. Line a baking sheet with parchment or non-stick spray. In a large bowl, mix 4 cups flour, sugar, baking soda and salt. Use a cheese grater to grate the cold butter right into the flour mixture and stir to distribute. In a medium bowl, whisk together the buttermilk, egg, orange zest and vanilla. Pour the wet ingredients into the dry ingredients and stir until the dough comes together. Add the dried cranberries and stir. The dough will be very sticky.

Place the dough onto a floured flat surface. Sprinkle about 1/4 cup flour over the dough and begin kneading, adding flour as you go until the dough is no longer sticky and you can knead it easily. Form dough into a round loaf and place on the baking sheet. With a sharp knife, cut an "X" into the top. Bake for 45 - 55 minutes, until golden brown and the bread sounds hollow when you tap it. Let cool for 10 minutes before you devour it.

CRANBERRY ORANGE JAM

Yield: 2 cups
Total Time: 20 minutes
3 1/2 cups (12 ounces) fresh or frozen cranberries
Zest and juice from one orange
1/4 cup apple cider vinegar
1/2 cup water
3/4 cup sugar
Pinch salt
1 1/2 tablespoons low or no sugar pectin

In a large saucepan, combine cranberries, orange zest and juice, vinegar, water, sugar and salt. Bring to a gentle boil for 10 minutes as the cranberry skins burst. Take a potato masher and smooch it all together. Add the pectin and stir well to combine. Bring back to a boil for 3 minutes as the mixture thickens. Remove from heat and let cool. This makes 2 cups of jam and fills two 8-ounce glass jars. Refrigerate and use within three weeks.

If you want to add a little zing, add either 1 tablespoon of minced candied ginger or one jalapeno pepper, seeds removed and finely minced. (Wear gloves!)

In addition to being a lovely foodie gift, this duo would be very happy on your next charcuterie board. Pair with brie cheese, blue cheese, nuts, sliced pears, honey butter, crackers, and chicken pate.

Make Your Dream Vacation a Reality With These Cost-Cutting Tips

— StatePoint Media —

(StatePoint) After more than two years of the pandemic, you're probably eager to get out and explore the world. But as desire and demand for travel skyrockets, so do the prices to get there. Here are some great ways to maximize your savings, so you can make your dream vacation a reality:

1. Be flexible: If your travel dates are not set in stone, being flexible with timing can help you save substantially. Traveling at off-hours or mid-week can trim your plane or train fare, as can avoiding holiday weekends. This same flexibility mindset can even help you at the airport. If a flight is overbooked, airlines often ask for volunteers to give up their seat in exchange for vouchers, credits and other perks.

2. Bank smart: Consider new online banking solutions, which can help you keep more money in your wallet. For example, T-Mobile MONEY is an FDIC-insured account that offers its customers zero account fees, (no monthly account fees, no minimum balance fees, no overdraft fees and no transfer fees) as well as industry-lending interest rates that can help you invest in the things you want and need, like plane tickets, gas and dining. Plus, customers receive 1.00% Annual Percentage Yield (APY) on all balances, which means more money back in your pocket and more savings for your next vacation. Globetrotters will also appreciate access to over 55,000 Allpoint no-fee ATMs worldwide.

3. Book wisely: Look for exclusive travel deals available from T-Mobile MONEY to help you cut travel costs. Customers who use their T-Mobile MONEY card via the T-Mobile Travel site can get up to 50% off hotels and up to 45% off car rentals.

4. Do as the locals do: The areas of a town or region where tourists congregate tend to have the most expensive restaurants and stores. For higher-quality shopping and dining and more authentic experiences, do as the locals do. After seeing the must-see sights, be sure to get recommendations and insights from your hotel concierge, rental host, restaurant servers and other locals for the best ways to get off the beaten path.

5. Eat in: Depending on the type of travel you're doing, it may make sense to eat some of your meals in to save some money. If there is a small kitchen or grill where you're staying, make use of it. Visiting a nearby grocery store can actually be an interesting way to take in the local flair of your destination and sample some of the best food the area has to offer.

Don't let money matters wreck your travel plans. With a few smart strategies, you can take the summer vacation you imagined, affordably.

How to Make the Best Latkes for Hanukkah

Beginning at sunset Sunday, Dec. 18, the Festival of Lights begins. The eight-day Jewish Festival of Lights, also known as Hanukkah, is celebrated by lighting the menorah, playing the game of dreidel and eating special holiday foods. Hanukkah celebrates the rededication of the Temple in Jerusalem after it was defiled by the Seleucids in 164 B.C. During the rededication, a miracle happened. A small quantity of oil that was sufficient only for one day continued to burn for eight days. Therefore, Hanukkah is one of the happiest Jewish holidays of the year. The roots of this holiday include liberation from oppression, religious freedom, divine miracles, and courage.

Of all the traditional foods eaten on Hanukkah, the potato latke is always a favorite. This is a potato pancake fried in oil, which references the miracle of the oil in the temple. Even if you don't celebrate Hanukkah, you'll love having this delicious and inexpensive recipe in your rotation. Latkes are crispy on the outside, light, soft and tender on the inside, and full of flavor. There are lots of ways to make latkes, and each family loves the ones their "bubbe" makes. I don't want to step on any bubbe's toes, but this recipe is a classic. Traditional toppings are applesauce and sour cream, but you can top them with many other delectable goodies. To stay somewhat traditional, try smoked salmon with sour cream and chives, or pastrami with brown mustard.

CLASSIC POTATO LATKES

Yield: about 20 latkes
Total Time: 1 hour

5 large russet potatoes, peeled
1 large onion
1/3 cup matzah meal, cracker meal or dry breadcrumbs
1 teaspoon kosher salt
Freshly ground black pepper
2 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil + more as needed

www.JasonCoblentz.com

Celebrate the Festival of Lights with these traditional latkes.

Using a good old-fashioned box grater, grate the potatoes and onion together. The onion juice slows the potatoes from oxidizing and turning brown. You could use a food processor with a grating blade, but you won't get that beautiful rustic look of hand grating. Transfer the mixture to a clean dish towel and squeeze, then squeeze some more to wring out as much of the liquid as possible. This is the secret to crispy latkes. Place the mixture into a large bowl. Add the matzah or breadcrumbs, salt and pepper, and distribute through the potato mixture. Add the eggs and mix well. After this is mixed, transfer the mixture to a colander and place it back in the bowl. This is to keep the mixture from sitting in liquid, making sure there are no soggy latkes at the end of cooking. Pour about 1/2 inch of the oil in a medium heavy-bottomed pan and place over medium-high heat. Once the oil is at 350 F (a drop of mixture placed in the pan should sizzle), drop heaping tablespoons of the mixture into the hot oil, flattening with a spatula and cooking in batches. When the edges of the latkes are brown and crispy, flip. Cook until the second side is golden brown. Transfer the latkes to a paper towel-lined plate to drain, and sprinkle with salt while still warm. Add oil as needed. Repeat, then eat!

Current trends show people adding all kinds of ingredients into the latke, like sweet potato, zucchini, cilantro, cheese, apple and such. Also, some air-fry them. Although we usually like to use less oil, the symbolism of the oil is really the point of latkes for Hanukkah. Variety is fun, but for Hanukkah, it's best to be a purist. In this holiday season, let's say thanks a lot, for lots and lots of latkes.

Donna's Day

Creative family fun

by Donna Erickson

Make Yummy Brownies in a Waffle Iron

Looking for an easy, last-minute, chocolate-y dessert idea that doesn't require heating up the oven on a hot September day? Here's a clever idea you and your kids will enjoy: Make yummy homemade brownies in a waffle iron. Then, top them with fresh seasonal fruit like raspberries or scoop some vanilla ice cream on top. Yum!

Here's how to make the kid-pleasing, all-American chocolate treat in this off-kilter way:

BROWNIES IN A WAFFLE IRON

(Makes four 7-inch round waffles)

- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa powder

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- Dash of salt
- 1 stick (1/2 cup) unsalted butter, melted
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter and cool. In a mixing bowl, let your kids measure and combine the flour, cocoa powder, sugar, baking powder and salt. In another bowl, combine the butter, eggs and vanilla.

Add the wet ingredients to the dry ingredients and stir with a big spoon until combined, being careful not to overmix, as it will be a thick consistency.

Generously spray or brush a waffle iron with oil, and set on medium heat. When ready, an adult may spoon some of the brownie mixture onto the waffle iron. I use an ice cream scoop. Vary the amount according to the size of your waffle iron so that it doesn't spill over the sides when closed.

When the batter is baked (our family likes them crispy on the outside), carefully remove the "waffle brownie" out of the waffle iron with a spatula, and cool slightly on a rack or plate.

To serve: Sprinkle serving portions of a warm waffle brownie with sifted confectioner's sugar, raspberries, a scoop of vanilla ice cream or fudge sauce.

Store leftover brownies in an airtight container or in your freezer.

Shortcut idea: Use your favorite commercial brownie mix. I used the family-size Pillsbury chocolate fudge brownie mix for delicious results.

What's the Secret to Great Turkey Meatballs?

Sometimes ground turkey gets a bad rap. Years ago, turkey was significantly less expensive than hamburger meat, so frugal-minded folks started using it in recipes calling for ground beef with poor results.

The biggest mistakes people make when cooking with ground turkey is expecting it to taste like ground beef. Naturally, there's going to be a difference. If I gave you a piece of steak and a slice of turkey breast, you could tell the difference, right? It's literally a different animal. So, the secret is, don't fight the turkey, embrace it.

Turkey is leaner and milder tasting than beef, which makes it incredibly versatile. Like a chameleon, the delicate flavor takes on the surrounding ingredients and allows other subtle flavors to shine.

Here are two wonderful recipes for turkey meatballs. One is very simple, the other Italian inspired, both delectable.

TURKEY MEATBALLS

Total Time: 35
Yield: 80 meatballs
2 large eggs
1/2 cup grated Parmesan
1/2 cup panko breadcrumbs
2 pounds ground turkey
1/2 cup onion, finely minced
1/2 cup flat leaf parsley, finely minced
1/2 teaspoon each garlic powder, salt and pepper Preheat oven to 400 F. Line a rimmed baking sheet with foil or parchment paper.

In a large bowl combine eggs, Parmesan and breadcrumbs. Add turkey, onion, parsley, garlic, salt and pepper. Mix gently with your hands until you don't see any dry patches of Parmesan and everything is evenly distributed. Use a spoon to measure heaping tablespoons of the mixture and roll into balls. Place on prepared baking sheet and bake for 18-20 minutes or until they reach 165 F.
Optional: Add 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning for that "Thanksgiving Turkey" flavor, perfect for serving with cream-based sauce or cranberry sauce.

These turkey meatballs take on the flavor of surrounding ingredients.

ITALIAN TURKEY MEATBALLS

Total Time: 35
Yield: 80 meatballs
2 large eggs
1 cup grated Parmesan, or half cheese, half breadcrumbs
1 pound ground turkey
1 pound Italian-style turkey sausage (if linked, removed from casings)
1/2 cup onion, finely minced — about half a medium onion
4 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon each salt and pepper
1 (10 ounce) box chopped frozen spinach, defrosted and squeezed dry Preheat oven to 400 F. Line a rimmed baking sheet with foil or parchment.

In a large bowl combine eggs, Parmesan and breadcrumbs, if using; add turkey, turkey sausage, onion, garlic, salt and pepper. Break the squeezed spinach into small pieces and sprinkle over meat mixture. Mix gently with your hands to combine. Don't overmix — just until you don't see any dry patches of Parmesan. Use a spoon or small scoop to measure heaping tablespoons of the mixture and roll into balls. Place on prepared baking pan and bake for 18-20 minutes or until heated through.

You can adjust these recipes to your diet preferences. If you're gluten-free, omit breadcrumbs and replace with Parmesan cheese or almond meal. Dairy-free? Omit the Parmesan and use breadcrumbs or almond meal. Low-carb? No breadcrumbs and more cheese.

What to do with all these meatballs? Serve as a snack or appetizer with dip (like Greek yogurt, barbecue, salsa, sweet chili sauce). Add to soup or pizza. Serve over pasta or zoodles with marinara or Alfredo sauce. Make meatball sub sandwiches with marinara and melted mozzarella. Stuff pita with meatballs and hummus.

These recipes are perfect for freezing. Bake only until half cooked, about 10 minutes, so they don't dry out when reheated. It's a wonderful feeling when you need a quick meal and remember you have a bag o' meatballs in the freezer! Hallelujah!

This Easy Recipe Will Make You Mental for Lentils

We must congratulate the humble lentil. They have officially moved beyond soup and have been made into pasta, breads, chips and other snack foods, even plant-based meat replacements.

For home cooks, there are multitudes of reasons to love lentils. They're versatile, healthy, economical and very easy to prepare. They pack a wallop of bona fide nutrition and are one of the easiest legumes to digest.

It's no wonder we're going mental for lentils!

As the world's oldest cultivated legume, this superfood comes in colors that range from green and brown to red, orange and yellow. Additionally, 1 cup of cooked lentils contains 18 grams protein, 16 grams fiber, 38 grams calcium, 6.6 milligrams of iron, plus magnesium, polyphenols and folate. All that for only 230 calories!

The best part, unlike most legumes, lentils don't require soaking before cooking. They cook in about 20 minutes, making them perfect for busy weekday meals.

With their mild flavor and chewy texture, you can use them to replace or stretch the meat in your favorite recipes, like burgers, soups and casseroles. One cup of uncooked lentils becomes roughly 2 cups when cooked. You can substitute 2 cups of cooked lentils for 1 pound of hamburger; of course it depends on the recipe and other ingredients.

Here is a recipe your whole family will love. Grab a fork and a bunch of napkins, because we're getting delightfully sloppy! Introducing Sweet and Spicy Lentil Sloppy Joes. While these sandwiches are crave-worthy, it's the toppings that take this over-the-top. I highly recommend copious amounts of bread and butter pickles and onion rings.

Should you choose, you could make this recipe with 2 pounds of ground beef, omitting the lentils. Or you could halve the lentils and add 1 pound of ground beef for a blend. You also could add more veggies, like chopped carrot, mushroom and celery. This is a wonderful vehicle for hiding veggies.

SWEET & SPICY LENTIL SLOPPY JOES

Total Time: 40 minutes
Servings: 6-8

- 1 1/2 cups lentils, the common brown variety
 - 1 teaspoon kosher salt, divided
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 1 package (16 ounce) frozen onion and pepper blend, thawed
 - 2 cloves of garlic, minced
 - 2 tablespoons chili powder
 - 1 teaspoon smoky paprika
 - 3 tablespoons tomato paste
 - 2 cups (16 ounces) tomato sauce
 - 2 tablespoons pickle juice
 - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 - 2 tablespoons yellow mustard
 - 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- Serving suggestions: hamburger buns, bread and butter pickles, onion rings, pickled jalapenos, mustard, and coleslaw

Into a small saucepan over medium-high heat, place 4 cups water, the lentils, and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to low.

Simmer 20 to 22 minutes, or until tender. Drain and set aside.

If you're serving this meal with onion rings, put them in the oven according to package directions now.

While the lentils are cooking, into a large skillet on medium heat, heat the oil then add the onion and pepper, blend and cook with 1/4 teaspoon salt, stirring until they are softened. Add the garlic, chili powder, paprika and 1/2 teaspoon salt, stirring well to coat the veggies. Add the tomato paste and stir well. Next, add the tomato sauce, pickle juice, Worcestershire, mustard, and brown sugar. Stir well to incorporate. Add the cooked lentils and stir again, cooking on low for 5-10 minutes to warm through and to thicken. Serve on buns with condiments.

Lastly, this recipe is perfect for meal planning. You can store the sloppy Joe mixture in the fridge for up to seven days or freeze for six months.

Lentils make a great meat substitute in this sloppy Joes recipe.
