Coeur d'Alene City Park Summer Concert Series

Sunday, August 20th
LakeTown Sound
— KOEP Concerts —

KOEP Concerts is honored to continue the 22 year legacy of Chris Guggemos's free concert series in North Idaho. Since the mid 1990s, Coeur d'Alene has celebrated its summer Sundays with a free concert at the City Park Bandshell from 1-4 p.m. Expect barefoot dancing to our area's local musicians and their wide range of styles. Every Sunday through September 3

The next show, on Sunday, August 20th, will feature LakeTown Sound, playing classic rock music. The following week will feature Tuxedo Junction.

The performance will take place at Coeur d'Alene City Park in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, rain or shine. Families are welcome. Seating is limited so be sure to bring your lawn chair. And there is a food concession, so leave your picnic at home. For information, contact KOEP Concerts at www.koep-concerts.com.

The Coeur d'Alene City Park Concert Series is presented by STCU and sponsored by The Nickel's Worth and many local businesses and families.

There are large parking lots at various public institutions (colleges and universities) in Eastern Washington. Those parking lots (and athletic fields) not in use could be repurposed by officials to allow people associated with the institution to set up clothes lines to dry their clothes in warm weather, saving the burning of fossil fuels to run clothes dryers and lowering their carbon footprint.

License Required For Training Bird Dogs Using Birds Not Raised In Captivity

— Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks —

Training season with wild birds on public lands begins Aug. 1 for residents

HELENA —Anyone training bird dogs using game birds not raised in captivity needs to hold a bird dog training license, whether on private or public land. If you are training dogs with captive-reared birds, a license is not required.

These licenses can be purchased online through the FWP Online License Service, any FWP regional office or any license provider. The license is $5 for residents ages 18 and over and $10 for nonresidents 18 and over. For residents and nonresidents ages 12 to 17, the license is free.

Bird dog training season with wild birds on public lands begins Aug. 1 for residents and Aug. 15 for nonresidents and ends March 31, 2024.

The license is a new requirement that came from the 2023 Legislature. While the license requirement is not included in the printed 2023 Upland Game Bird Regulations booklet, it is included in the online version. Please contact your nearest FWP office for questions about dog training relative to this new license requirement.

For those commercially training bird dogs on state trust land, a special recreational use license (SRUL) is required from the Department of Natural Resources and Conservation.

Final Hayden Summer Concert Series Show
Thursday, August 17th:
Zach Cooper Band
— KOEP Concerts —

KOEP Concerts is honored to continue the 22 year legacy of Chris Guggemos's free concert series in North Idaho. One of the highlights of summer in Hayden is the weekly concert in McIntire Family Park. A great band will be featured every Thursday through August 17.

The final show will be on Thursday, August 17th, will feature the Zach Cooper Band, playing R&R Blues.

The performance will take place from 6pm-8:30pm at McIntire Family Park, behind Hayden City Hall, located at 8930 N. Government Way in Downtown Hayden. Seating is casual and families are welcome. Be sure to bring a lawn chair. And there is a food concession, so leave your picnic at home. For information, contact KOEP Concerts at www.koepconcerts.com.

The Hayden Concert Series is presented by STCU and sponsored by The Nickel's Worth and many local businesses and families.

Snorkel Surveys Help Guide Habitat Improvement Projects In The Potlatch River Basin

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Steelhead parr density data collected during snorkel surveys help fisheries and other resource managers make informed decisions to enhance their survival with habitat improvement projects.

The Potlatch River is located in northwestern Idaho. Its seasonal flows can range from a trickle in some reaches during the summer to a raging torrent in the spring.

This river contains adult and juvenile steelhead trout. Adults enter the Potlatch to spawn during late winter and early spring. They will either die or move out soon after. Their young will remain to rear in the Potlatch and its tributaries.

Idaho Fish and Game, private land owners, and other cooperators are improving steelhead trout habitat. One method involves introducing large woody debris into the stream channel to increase habitat complexity. The wood provides cover for the fish. It also helps recharge the floodplain. These treatments should generate a fish response that can be detected with appropriate monitoring.

IDFG is especially interested in juvenile steelhead, known as parr. Snorkel surveys are one method to monitor the parrs' response to the treatments. Crews from across Idaho gather on the Potlatch each June to conduct surveys. The number of surveys each year is variable and depends upon the scale of the information needed. During 2023, crews will survey 160 sites scattered across the Potlatch River basin. They will record data about the fish and the stream environment.

Similar snorkel surveys will be conducted across Idaho this summer to benefit wild salmon and steelhead trout. They will help guide restoration actions such as identifying the need for large woody debris placement where cover is scarce or for managing water where stream channels go dry.

National Aviation Day August 19th

— National Day Calendar —

National Aviation Day on August 19th recognizes the pioneers of human flight.

For centuries, humans have been fascinated by flight. In ancient China, kites flew to investigate the weather. Inventors such as Leonardo da Vinci developed many ideas about flight, too. Gliders and balloons lifted humans into the sky, but none of the inventions gave a person control of where they flew.

Before Powered Flight

The physics of flight and propulsion play key roles in who became pioneers. George Cayley used aerodynamics while designing fixed-wing aircraft. His designs would later inspire Orville and Wilbur Wright.

Since propulsion is one of the primary requirements to lift a human into the sky for flight, it would make sense that an engine could provide that power. Samuel Langley, an astronomer from Boston, designed a steam-powered model called an aerodrome in 1891. It flew for 3/4ths of a mile.

After receiving a grant to build a full-sized aerodrome, Langley's first test crashed. He never made another attempt.

First Powered Flight

In a bicycle shop in Dayton, Ohio, two inventors eagerly began testing their ideas about flight. Brothers, Orville and Wilbur Wright, had studied Octave Chanute's 1894 Progress in Flying Machines. The brothers set to work testing their designs, first with gliders. Eventually, they sought to add an engine.

Two American inventors and aviation pioneers, the Wright brothers are credited with inventing and building the world's first successful airplane and making the first controlled powered and sustained heavier-than-air human flight on December 17, 1903.

In 1902, Charles Edward Taylor joined their team in pursuit of powered flight. Since automobile companies couldn't supply an engine light enough and powerful enough, they would have to build it. Taylor, a machinist, set to work building the 12-horsepower engine. It took Taylor 6 weeks to build the engine.

After completing the design in September of 1903, the Wrights returned to Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. Just months before, they had successfully tested their glider. However, setbacks and weather postponed the powered flight.

It wasn't until mid-December that the brothers finally felt all was in order. After flipping a coin to decide who would pilot the machine, Wilbur climbed aboard. The first attempt failed, only flying 3.5 seconds. However, the brothers learned what worked.

The next attempt on December 17, 1903, Orville took the controls. After launching, the machine flew for 120 feet. Man flew.

Since that day, aviation exploded into the skies. Its applications became immediately apparent to the military. The Wrights consulted with the Army for several years after their success.

Now that humans could fly, they set new challenges – flying across oceans, around the world, and into space.

HOW TO OBSERVE NATIONAL AVIATION DAY

Explore the world of aviation. There are so many ways to do it, too!

- Read about firsts in flight. Read the memoirs and other books about aviation's pioneers. Here are a few to start with: A Dream of Wings by Tom D. Crough, The Fun of It by Amelia Earhart, Lindbergh by A. Scott Berg, Fly Girls: How Five Daring Women Defied All Odds and Made Aviation History by Keith O'Brien, or Three-Eight Charlie: 1st Woman to Fly Solo by Jerrie Mock.

- Watch a documentary such as The Making of the Boeing 747 or Kitty Hawk: The Wright Brothers' Journey of Invention.

- Explore aviation museums.

- Take a flight.

- Learn to fly.

- Build a model plane.

Use #NationalAviationDay to post on social media and spread the word.

Educators and Families, be sure to check out the National Day Calendar Classroom for more ways to Celebrate Every Day!

NATIONAL AVIATION DAY HISTORY

In 1939, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt established National Aviation Day by presidential proclamation designating the anniversary of Orville Wright's birthday for the observance. Born August 19, 1871, Orville Wright was still living when President Roosevelt issued the proclamation. Orville Wright continued living for nine more years until his death in 1948.

Proclamation USC 36:I:A:1:118 allows the sitting United States President to proclaim August 19th as National Aviation Day each year. If desired, the President's proclamation may direct all federal buildings and installations to fly the U.S. flag on that day. The President may encourage citizens to observe the day with activities that promote interest in aviation.

Aviation FAQ

Q. What kind of jobs are in aviation?

A. Aviation is filled with opportunities and pilots aren't the only ones who can benefit. The field requires engineers, mechanics, safety specialists, air traffic controllers, airport managers, logistical engineers, and of course, pilots.

Q. Do pilots have to have 20/20 vision?

A. According to the Federal Aviation Administration, first-class and second-class pilots require 20/20 distance-vision with or without correction. A third-class private pilot requires 20/40 distance-vision or better with or without correction. All pilots require 20/40 near-vision or better with or without correction.

Q. Is there an age requirement to get a pilot's license?

A. Yes. Airplane pilots must be at least 16-years-old to begin flying lessons.

Statewide Trout Stocking Highlights For August 2023 Magic Valley, Southeast, Upper Snake and Salmon

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Approximately 90,000 catchable-sized rainbow trout will be stocked throughout the state this August

Many of Idaho's lakes and ponds are soon going to be bolstered with Idaho Fish and Game stocking roughly 90,000 catchable-sized rainbow trout this August. Wondering if the stocking trucks are going to be backing up to your favorite fishing hole? We asked our Fish and Game hatchery staff to boil down some of the most notable stocking highlights coming to your local fishery this month.

Many of these fisheries highlighted below are easy to access, family-friendly fishing destinations. All you need to get started is a fishing license and some basic tackle. Annual adult fishing licenses cost around $30, junior licenses (ages 14-17) cost $16, and youth (under 14) fish for free. Go to Fish and Game's online vendor to buy a license.

Fishing for stocked rainbow trout can be a great way to introduce budding anglers to the sport by using simple, inexpensive setups like worm/marshmallow combinations or commercial baits like PowerBait® or Crave, placed either near the bottom or below a bobber; and as anglers know, there's nothing quite like a trout fighting on the end of your line. The Learn to Fish webpage offers diagrams for basic bait rigs at <https://idfg.idaho.gov/fish/learn-to>

Most Idaho waters are open to fishing year-round, but some may have slightly different rules. Be sure to pick up a 2022-2024 Idaho Fishing Seasons and Rules Booklet – available at any Idaho Fish and Game office or most sporting goods stores statewide– or download online to look at season dates, special regulations and bag limits at <https://idfg.idaho.gov/rules/fish>

August 2023 Fish Stocking Highlights

Magic Valley Region

Big Trinity Lake – 1,200 rainbow trout: In addition to good fishing, there is a USFS campground available at this alpine getaway. While you're here, take a drive to the summit of Trinity Mountain (if the road is not blocked by snow).

Gavers Lagoon – 1,425 rainbow trout: This pond near the Hayspur Campground is a high-yield fishery. We encourage harvest, but please harvest what you need and consider leaving a few for your fellow anglers.

Hagerman WMA Oster Lake #1 – 900 rainbow trout

Hagerman WMA Riley Creek Pond – 900 rainbow trout

Hagerman Wildlife Management Area provides a variety of fishing opportunities and open space to explore.

Lake Cleveland – 3,000 rainbow trout: This is a very popular summer recreation area. The lake sits at over 8,000 feet in elevation below Mount Harrison. There are numerous campsites located around the lake.

Little Trinity Lake – 475 rainbow trout: Located north of Big Trinity Lake, there is a USFS picnic area available for use. Trailer traffic is not recommended.

South Fork Boise River – 2,900 rainbow trout

Fish will be stocked as follows:

- Featherville to Shake Creek – 950
- Shake Creek to Skeleton Creek – 1,000
- Pine to Grouse Creek – 950

Southeast Region

Cub River – 500 rainbow trout: Fish are stocked in and around the Willow Flat Campground (50+ sites available), so make a fishing trip here an overnight adventure.

Montpelier Creek – 1,000 rainbow trout: Enjoy good creek fishing and a variety of camping options.

Montpelier Rearing Pond – 500 rainbow trout: This little fishing spot is tucked into a scenic, high-desert canyon at 6,500 feet in the hills east of Montpelier.

Montpelier Reservoir – 470 Tiger Trout: This reservoir offers angling opportunity for a variety of fish species in a peaceful rural setting.

Upper Snake Region

Birch Creek – 1,350 rainbow trout: A productive spring creek in a high-desert basin, this small stream is ideal for kids and less-experienced anglers. Rainbow trout are stocked heavily around access areas.

Henrys Fork – 6,250 rainbow trout: World famous for trout fishing! The river is suitable for wade fishing, bank fishing and fishing from a boat.

Horseshoe Lake – 1,000 rainbow trout: This is a great place to take newer anglers to catch rainbow trout.

Mill Pond (Stoddard Mill Pond) – 500 rainbow trout: Located in Island Park, this small pond offers exciting fishing opportunity for all ages.

Snake River – 2,400 rainbow trout: Fish will be stocked at Johns Hole and South Tourist Park.

Trail Creek Pond – 800 rainbow trout: Also known as Victor Kids Pond, this small pond is located in the Teton Basin. One of the most consistent kid's fisheries in the area, it is easily fished from the bank, with trails and picnic tables around the perimeter.

Teton River – 1,000 rainbow trout: Fish will be stocked at the Dam Site. The Teton River drains the westslope of the Teton Range and provides excellent fly fishing opportunities for all skill levels.

Salmon Region

Alturas Lake – 1,740 rainbow trout: This alpine lake is located in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. The lake is approximately 21 miles south of Stanley and 30 miles northwest of Ketchum.

Bayhorse Lake – 2,000 rainbow trout: Anglers will find good catch rates at this drive-in mountain lake. Primitive campsites are available. While you're in the area, check out Little Bayhorse Lake (1,000 rainbow trout). The two lakes are connected by a mile long hiking trail.

Meadow Lake – 2,000 rainbow trout: At over 9,100 feet in elevation, this is the highest mountain lake you can drive to in this region. The snow-melt lake is a beautiful setting for a fishing and camping weekend with unique wildlife viewing opportunities. A Forest Service campground next to the lake offers a stunning view of the surrounding Lemhi Mountains.

Salmon River – Sections #6-8 will be stocked with a total of 6,850 rainbow trout.

- Section #6 – Lower Stanley to Sunbeam Hot Springs – 2,850
- Section #7 – Sunny Gulch Campground to Stanley – 1,600
- Section #8 – Decker Flats to Buckhorn Bridge – 2,400

Stanley Lake – 1,100 rainbow trout: Here is a large mountain lake you can drive to. This is a popular spot known for its breathtaking views of the Sawtooth Mountains. It offers great camping, fishing and places for kids to explore nature.

Valley Creek – 1,500 rainbow trout: Take a break from the Salmon River and try out your casting skills fishing this creek that offers astonishing views in every direction.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On Aug. 28, 1789, William Herschel, court astronomer under England's King George III, discovered Enceladus, one of Saturn's innermost moons, while using his new 40-foot telescope for the first time. Enceladus reflects almost 100% of the sunlight that strikes it and has at least five different types of terrain.
- On Aug. 29, 1998, a strike by 6,200 Northwest Airlines pilots seeking a 15% pay raise left 70,000 frustrated passengers high and dry around the U.S. The pilots had been in contract negotiations for more than two years, and an agreement was finally reached on Sept. 10 after the strike had cost the airline $26 million per day.
- On Aug. 30, 1951, Sgt. John R. Rice, a decorated World War II veteran and part-Native American soldier killed in the Korean War, was refused burial in Sioux City, Iowa's Memorial Park Cemetery on the grounds of his ethnicity. After hearing the news at a press conference, President Harry Truman authorized a telegram to Rice's widow, Evelyn, offering her a plot in Arlington National Cemetery, which she accepted.
- On Aug. 31, 1888, 43-year-old Mary Ann "Poly" Nichols, a prostitute from London's East End and married but separated mother of five, was found brutally murdered near Whitechapel Road, becoming the first known victim of serial killer Jack the Ripper.
- On Sept. 1, 2013, new internet restrictions imposed by the Vietnamese government prohibited the country's users from discussing current affairs, with social media and other sites, including blogs, limited to sharing personal information but not news stories. The law was criticized by both internet companies and a number of human rights groups.
- On Sept. 2, 1969, the original "Star Trek" TV series aired its final episode after running for just three years. While it never rose higher than No. 52 in the ratings, it remains a beloved cult classic, eventually generating movies and other series.
- On Sept. 3, 1908, J.M. Barrie's play "What Every Woman Knows" debuted at London's Duke of York's Theatre. Written prior to the women's suffrage movement, the show's theme suggested that "every woman knows" she's really the invisible power behind the success of the men in her life.

• Glitter cleanup can be a hassle. Here's my tip for getting it up quickly with no mess left behind: Use play dough. Just press it into the stray glitter and it will pick it right up. Then you've created glitter dough! Oh, your kids will be impressed. Here are some more kid tips. – JoAnn

• Can't seem to part with those baby blankets now that the kids are not babies anymore? Don't! Sew them into floor pillow covers and watch the kids get a few more years out of them.

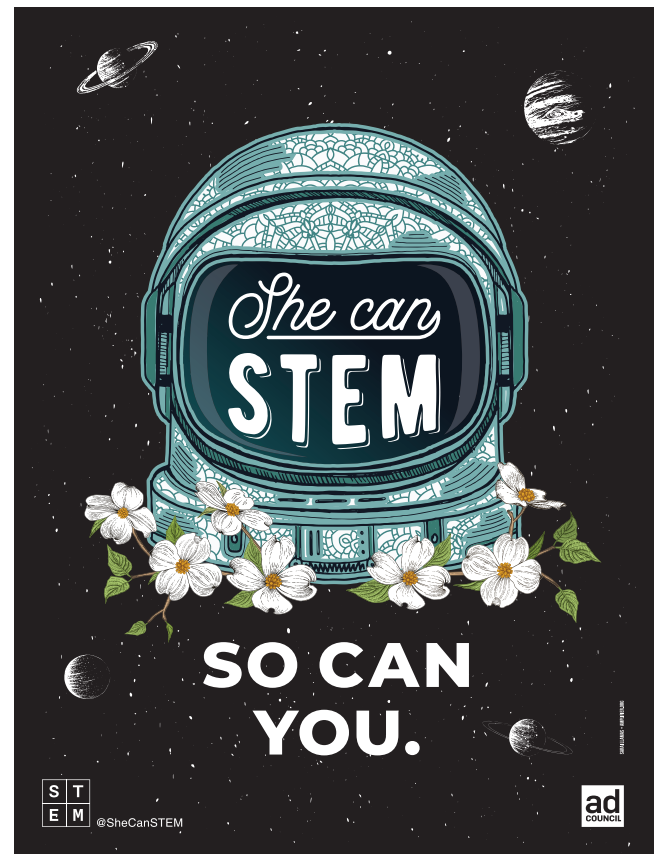

• My daughter is old enough to play on our street with her friends, but not necessarily old enough for a cellphone. Instead, we repurposed a set of walkie talkies. Her boundary is in walkie talkie range, and we can communicate. Plus, it's just fun! – T.F. in Maryland

• Our friends who live in an apartment have a great storable sandbox solution. They use a plastic under-the-bed storage bin filled with sand and toys. It has a lid and can be stored easily on their balcony. The kids still get to play in the sand even on rainy days. – W. in Kentucky

• I saw this idea in a magazine somewhere, and now I make them for other moms and dads, as they are cute and functional: Make a cell number beaded bracelet your kids can wear when you go out. Little kids may not remember Mommy's cellphone number, but they can bring the bracelet to a store employee and ask him or her to call the number on the bracelet. Use elastic thread and colorful number beads. – P.S. in Oregon

• If you use a 1/4-inch hole punch, which you can get at a hardware store for cheap, you easily can make a straw hole in the plastic tops of kids' single serving drinks, like milk and water bottles. Less chance of a spill.

Stovetop Chili

A quick weeknight chili that's packed with buttery black soybeans, tender-crisp green beans and melt-in-your-mouth sweet potatoes. Serve with a chunk of warm cornbread.

- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1 teaspoon ground coriander
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed with garlic press
- 1 jalapeno chile, seeded and minced
- 1 can (28 ounces) whole tomatoes in juice
- 1/2 pound green beans, trimmed and each cut crosswise in half
- 3 (about 1 1/2 pounds) medium sweet potatoes, peeled and cut into 1 1/2-inch chunks
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 salt
- 2 cans (15 ounces) black soy beans, rinsed and drained, substitute black beans
- Sour cream (optional)

1. In nonstick 5-quart to 6-quart Dutch oven, heat oil over medium heat until hot. Add onion and cook 10 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally.

2. Add chili powder, cumin, coriander, garlic and jalapeno, and cook 1 minute, stirring. Add tomatoes with their juice, green beans, sweet potatoes, sugar, salt and 2 cups water; heat to boiling over medium-high heat, breaking up tomatoes with side of spoon.

3. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 25 minutes or until sweet potatoes are tender, stirring occasionally. Add soybeans and cook 2 minutes longer to heat through. Serve with sour cream, if you like.

What Is A Redd? Salmon Keep Cleaning Out A 'Nest' For Spawning

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Chinook reshape river bottoms to better harbor their eggs

That's right- redd with two Ds. Another funny word that fish biologists use. In this blog post, I am talking about the nest where salmon, trout and steelhead lay their eggs in the gravel of a stream.

Every August and September in central Idaho's high country, the returning salmon start cleaning their spawning streams. The word "redd" comes from the Scottish dialect, meaning "to put in order, to tidy, or to clear." Female salmon do exactly that to prepare a good place to put their eggs.

When it comes time to spawn, female salmon will look for a spot with good gravel. "Good" gravel is free of mud and silt that can smother eggs and has the right sizes and shapes to incubate eggs and keep them safe, plus the right water speed to supply oxygen and keep eggs cool. Salmon will first dig a test pit with a few strokes of their tails, then slightly back over it. The theory is they are feeling the flow of water through the gravel with their fins because eggs need a good supply of clean, aerated water to develop properly. If the female likes the spot, they will dig further, excavating a deeper pit.

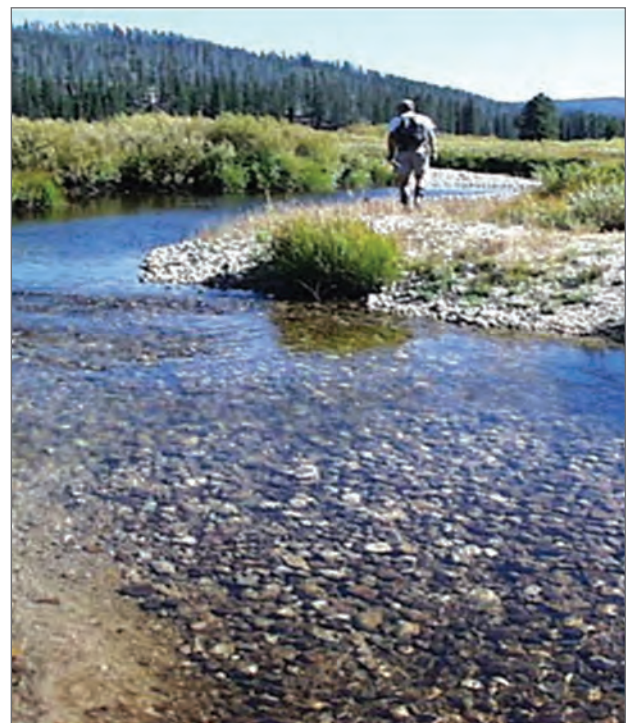

A salmon redd with the female in front of the cleaned and sorted gravel. Two males are competing behind her.

Male salmon don't do any digging, but compete amongst each other, with the largest trying to drive off the other males. The salmon then spawn as the female expels her eggs into the pit. A properly dug pit holds the eggs and milt together, ensuring good fertilization. The female salmon moves just upstream and digs again, covering the eggs and starting the next egg pocket. As she digs, the current flushes dirt, debris, and smaller gravels downstream. After all the digging and sweeping, the redd looks like a clean spot in the stream with neatly sorted gravel. This keeps the egg pocket clean and creates a hump in the water, which flows through the gravel and into the egg pocket.

The female salmon will keep digging and cleaning the gravel until she has spawned all her eggs. Then she moves to the sides, digging trenches to focus the stream flow toward the redd and pushing more gravel on top of the egg pockets to protect their precious content. A female salmon will stay with her redd to put on the finishing touches and protect it from other females who might want to use the same spot. Eventually, she will drift downstream and die, while her eggs develop and hatch during the fall and winter, snug within their redd. In the spring, the young emerge through gaps in the gravel to start their life cycle again.

Check out this closeup underwater view (www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ta6JLdUr7qk) of salmon spawning in Red River, Idaho!

Watch the video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=5M9-dDV0Wk8&t=137s to see how Idaho Fish and Game trains people to count redds – an important way biologists keep track of salmon populations.

Can I Pet That K-9?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My parents and I were marching in a demonstration, and we passed two police officers who each had a police dog. I love German Shepherds and I wanted to pet one of their dogs, but my parents wouldn't let me. Why was it wrong to pet them? — David, via email

DEAR DAVID: K-9 police dogs, just like service animals, are working dogs that are trained to accomplish complicated tasks. When they're at work, they should not be disturbed, even with a well-meaning pat.

A K-9 may be trained to help apprehend suspects, or to detect illegal substances, or to perform search and rescue. They are large, energetic dogs, and though they're well-trained, they can be aggressive.

When a neighbor and their dog approach on the sidewalk, the polite way to interact is to ask permission to pet the dog. When K-9s and service animals are working, the best way to help them is to leave them be. Petting a service dog can confuse it or cause it to lose focus on the task it's supposed to be doing. Petting a K-9 trained in apprehension can get your fingers nipped, or worse.

If, and only if, a service dog's owner or a K-9's handler invites you to approach, should you do so.

Police departments sometimes put on demonstrations or other events with their K-9s to meet the public. If you want to meet the dogs and ask questions of the police officers about what their workday is like, these are good opportunities to do so. When fairs and other public events start up again, find out if and where any such demonstrations are taking place.

1. Name the movie that included "Secret Surfin' Spot" and "Swingin' and Surfin'" in the musical lineup.
2. Who wrote the melody behind "Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh"?
3. What do The Great Society, Jefferson Airplane, Jefferson Starship and Starship have in common?
4. Who wrote and released "Peppermint Twist"?
5. Name the song that contains these lyrics: "When she mentioned how her aunt bit off the spoon, She completely done me in."

Answers:

1. "Beach Party," in 1963, starring Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello. There were seven beach films over the years.
2. Allan Sherman's 1963 parody about a boy writing a letter home from camp was put to the music of Ponchielli's "Dance of the Hours," written in 1876. Several other works have also borrowed from that music, including Disney cartoons.
3. Grace Slick sang lead in all the groups.
4. Joey Dee and the Starliners in 1961. The early '60s saw dozens of "twist" songs, but this one topped the charts.
5. "On the Street Where You Live," by Jeremy Brett in the 1964 film "My Fair Lady," based on George Bernard Shaw's 1913 stage play "Pygmalion." Jeremy Brett's song was actually dubbed by Bill Shirley, as Brett couldn't sing.

POSITION AVAILABLE for a Facility Operator in Training. We are looking for a motivated, career oriented individual interested in becoming a Water and Wastewater Operator to come meet us to discover your potential and join our team. We are local, we grew up here, and our team is like family. We are willing to provide on the job training and provide support with available apprenticeship programs. Get in on a groundbreaking opportunity to train and learn at our new wastewater treatment facility being built and fully operational by 2026. The operator will share in responsibility for successful operation of our multi-faceted, wastewater facility and our public drinking water system. The operator will fill a dynamic role with assigned duties to include sample collection, data management, compliance documentation, preventative maintenance, equipment repair, process control, troubleshooting, biological processes, and various other related tasks. Compensation and benefits negotiable, depending on applicant. Please send your resume and cover letter to Kingston-Cataldo Sewer District at PO Box 31, Kingston, ID 83839 or drop off at 42784 Silver Valley Rd., Kingston, ID 83839 (drop box located under our front window)

Full or part-time position is now open for an experienced mental health therapist.

We are a small, well-established local clinic. We are very involved in all aspects of our community as healing agents and advocates for clients. Our setting offers a flexible, collegial, and fun environment. We desire someone with at least 3-5 years' experience but welcome well-seasoned clinicians as well. Must have current license as LPT, LMHC, or LCSW.

We serve a mixed population of all gender expressions, age groups, and trauma backgrounds. We serve Medicaid and Medicare clients and accept most insurance carriers.

Our practice is in a vintage, historic, downtown location at 11th and Mullan with lush landscaping and tall, beautiful pine trees. We have good parking with easy access from Coeur d'Alene and freeway exits.

Competitive salary range from $35-$47 an hour with medical, dental, and vision coverages and professional development allowance. Other benefits negotiable.

If interested or for full job descriptions or questions, contact Dan English, Healing Hearts Mental Health Therapy, 208.667.1275, dan.healingheartsmht@gmail.com.

Closing date: September 14th.

Patient With Osteoarthritis Develops Hives After Taking Ibuprofen

DEAR DR. ROACH: I took ibuprofen for my osteoarthritis, but developed hives. Does this mean I'm allergic to all NSAIDs? What other therapeutic options do I have? – J.B.

ANSWER: Anti-inflammatory drugs can have many allergic and allergic-type reactions, and ibuprofen is probably the most likely of all to do so.

For people with mild reactions (such as hives that go away) without swelling or shortness of breath, I recommend avoiding ibuprofen and similar medicines, such as naproxen (Aleve and Naprosyn, among others), as well as any other medication ending in “-profen,” such as ketoprofen or flurbiprofen.

Aspirin is safe for most people as far as allergies go, although it is a little more likely to cause side effects at higher doses. The prescription medicines meloxicam (Mobic), nabumetone (Relafen) and celecoxib (Celebrex) are among the least likely to have any cross reaction with ibuprofen. Anti-inflammatory gels like diclofenac cream (Voltaren) should also be safe for topical use.

People with more serious reactions need a referral to an allergist, who may consider desensitization.

DEAR DR. ROACH: We had to get a router attached to our computer to get Wi-Fi for our house. Is there any health risk by sitting or sleeping near the router from the radio waves it puts out? – B.R.

ANSWER: The energy output from a typical

Wi-Fi router is about 10 watts, and the energy is the low-frequency, non-ionizing type. Very powerful radio sources, such as AM radio towers, can actually cause injury by heating tissues, but these have a power output in the thousands, or even tens of thousands, of watts. There has never been evidence of health effects on humans by low-output radio waves, such as the waves from Wi-Fi or cellphones.

DEAR DR. ROACH: One time, I drove a friend to the airport for an international flight. We were running late, and she feared missing the flight. My friend did not yell or even say much, but she got so stressed that her lips turned blue. And I mean both lips turned a deep, dark blue – nearly black.

That scared me then and still does now. I don't think that's normal. What could that have been, and could she possibly be in danger if she gets stressed like that again? – A.F.

ANSWER: Blue discoloration of skin or mucous membranes is called cyanosis. When the lips are affected, it's considered “central” cyanosis. The leading cause of this is low oxygen levels. Why a person would get low oxygen levels due to stress, without any physical activity, is a tough question – and not normal or common.

The first thing that comes to mind is congenital heart disease, the type that allows unoxygenated blood to mix with oxygenated blood. However, having an adult with undiagnosed congenital heart disease is almost unheard of, and it would be likely that she would have many more symptoms. So, it's hard for me to believe it. Many of the other causes are potential emergencies, such as a blood clot in the lung.

Some people, when they get very nervous, breathe very shallowly. It is possible to have oxygen levels drop from this. If she had some mild heart, lung or hemoglobin disease, it could cause the oxygen level to go very low. That's probably my best guess, but I would be happy to hear from readers with other explanations.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

FWP To Use Drought Restriction Criteria As In Years Past

— Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks —

HELENA – Last year, the Fish and Wildlife Commission approved an amendment to the “hoot owl” rule that directs fishing restrictions during drought. The amendment allowed Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks to implement restrictions in designated reaches of Montana streams according to the Statewide Fisheries Management Plan.

The Statewide Fisheries Management Plan is scheduled to be finalized later this fall after public review and comment this summer. Given this timeline, hoot owl restrictions this summer will continue to be implemented as they were in past years. Hoot owl restrictions prohibit fishing between 2 p.m. and midnight on drought-impacted streams until conditions improve. There are four criteria FWP biologists consider for setting hoot owl restrictions:

- species of interest are present in significant number
- temperature criteria have been met
- fishing pressure is high
- stream flow conditions

These restrictions are designed to protect fish that become more susceptible to stress, disease and mortality when low and warm water conditions exist.

Anglers can help reduce stress for fish by following these practices when catching and releasing fish, though fish mortality may still occur:

- fish during the coolest times of day, where permitted
- land the fish quickly
- keep the fish in water as much as possible
- remove the hook gently; using artificial lures with single and barbless hooks can make hook removal faster and easier
- let the fish recover before gently releasing it

KOVELS

Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Antique Tools

Early 20th-century farms and households had many unusual appliances with identities and purposes that have been lost to time. Look at this device with toothed wheels and a hand crank that sold for $266 at Conestoga Auction Company in Pennsylvania. Is it a kitchen gadget – perhaps a fruit or vegetable peeler? Some kind of grinder or chopper? In fact, it's a mechanical rope twister.

In the early 1900s, farmers made their own rope. Most people buy it ready-made today. The buyer probably intended to keep this rope twister as an antique instead of using it as a tool. But someone crafty, curious or very dedicated to “do-it-yourself” can buy modern, usable rope twisters or kits online.

I bought a vase shaped like a goose at a garage sale 20 years ago for 25 cents. It's about 12 inches tall and the back is open like a vase. It's marked "HB Quimper." It looks hand painted. What can you tell me about it and what, if anything, is it worth?

It's worth more than 25 cents. Pottery was made by three different factories in Quimper, France, beginning in the late 17th century. Pierre Bousquet founded the first factory in 1708. It became the HB Factory (Hubaudiere-Bousquet) in 1782, after Antoine de la Hubaudiere became the factory manager. HB merged with two other factories in 1968. After more changes in ownership, the factory became Henriot-Quimper in 2011. Variations of the HB Quimper mark were used from 1895 to 1984. Your goose vase with an open back is a planter. One sold recently for $40, although some sellers are asking higher prices.

TIP: Don't use rubber gloves when washing figurines with protruding arms and legs. The gloves may snag and cause damage.

CURRENT PRICES

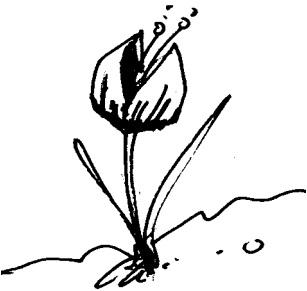

Steuben, centerpiece bowl, Pomona green, blown glass, flared lip, applied black rim, round foot, ground pontil base, early 20th century, 5-1/2 x 12 inches, $60.

Dragonflies

In their larval stage dragonflies are aquatic. They eat tadpoles, mosquitoes, tiny fish, other insect larvae and even each other.

In their adult form, they hunt flying insects for food, and can catch and eat hundreds in a day. In one Harvard University study, dragonflies were observed to catch 90-95% of the prey released into their enclosure. — Brenda Weaver

Tips for Avoiding Bug Bites This Summer

— StatePoint —

(StatePoint) Bug bites are not just a nuisance, they can cause discomfort and even pose health risks for some.

“Mosquitoes that may carry Zika, Chikungunya, Dengue fever and West Nile virus are always out in full force during the summer months and new evidence suggests that tick populations are growing, expanding their geographic ranges and carrying additional pathogens,” says Daniel Perry, entomologist at Zevo, a maker of pest control products that are made to bother bugs, not people.

From beach barbecues to walks in the woods, here’s how to safeguard yourself against ticks and mosquitoes, so you can stay bug-free this summer for whatever takes you outside.

- Beat backyard bugs: Eliminate standing water to prevent mosquitoes from using your backyard as a breeding ground in areas where you entertain and dine. Keeping your lawn and weeds in check is a useful step for managing ticks.
- Take safer walks: Whether you’re picnicking in the park, walking the dog, working in the garden or hiking in the woods, it’s important to be mindful of ticks, which can transmit Lyme and other diseases. When possible, avoid contact with tall grass and brush, which is where ticks reside. Always be sure to launder your outdoor gear shortly after use. Take a shower soon after getting home, being sure to inspect your body (and your dog’s!) for ticks. If you do spot a tick, follow proper protocol for removal, using clean tweezers and removing fully, without squeezing or twisting the tick.

- Protect your skin: “No matter what your outdoor plans entail, bug spray products applied beforehand are your best bet for complete protection against mosquitoes and ticks, and of course, the diseases they harbor and transmit,” says Perry.

The new line-up of Zevo On-Body Mosquito + Tick Repellents are odorless and non-greasy, unlike traditional insect repellents, and provide complete, feel-good protection for the entire family for up to 8 hours. Whether you’re at a garden-style wedding or hiking a mountain trail, you can be comfortable and protected from bugs with this innovative formula. The active ingredient in these products is inspired from a naturally-occurring amino acid and doesn’t leave your skin feeling sticky, which is a big bonus when you’re spending all day outside or even just 30 minutes! It’s available as an aerosol spray, a pump spray, and a lotion, which allows for easy, mess-free application before you go outside.

- Camp smart: Before departing for a camping trip, check your tent for small holes and repair or replace as needed. Select a campsite away from standing water, and zip up your tent whenever you’re not actively entering or exiting it. These measures will help you feel comfortable and protected from bugs on your next trip.

Don’t let the bugs bug you this summer. From sporting events to evenings on the patio, a few precautions can help ensure your comfort and protection from those pesky pests.

Black Cat Appreciation Day August 17th

— National Day Calendar —

Black Cat Appreciation Day on August 17th aims to dispel all myths surrounding black cats. Additionally, the day shouldn't be confused with National Black Cat Day.

Superstitions aside, cats are simply adorable, even black ones. These feline creatures in their sleek, black coats may carry an air of mystery. However, most cats do. Along with that, their ability to find mischief or to avoid you equals that of tabbys, cinnamons, ginger, calicos, whites or grays.

However, one black cat fact that holds true is they are less likely to be adopted. Just like black dogs, this variety of cat gets shunned at shelters. Despite this, black cats still respond to love and attention no differently than other felines.

So, let a black cat cross your path. They aren't witches. More than likely, adopting a black cat will help keep the mouse population down around the place. Expect the number of cuddles in your life to increase, too!

How To Observe Black Cat Appreciation Day

Consider adopting a black cat. Take photos of your black cat, too! Support your local shelters and volunteer. You can groom a black cat (or any cat for that matter), give him cuddles, and maybe even take one home. Overcome your fears and use #BlackCatAppreciationDay while sharing your new-found love for those black cats on social media.

Black Cat Appreciation Day History

In 2011, Wayne H. Morris created Black Cat Appreciation Day in honor of his sister and her 20-year-old black cat, Sinbad. His sister and Sinbad both passed away that year. Morris created the day with the hope of dispelling myths associated with black cats. Since 2011, the observance has grown annually.

Black Cat Appreciation FAQ

Q. Are there other cat holidays on the calendar?
A. Yes! There are several including, National Kitten Day, International Cat Day, Hug Your Cat Day, and World Lion Day.

Q. Do cats require a lot of attention?
A. All pets require a certain amount of investment of time and money. Their food, veterinary care, grooming, and social needs vary from cat to cat, but they all need basic care to remain healthy and happy.

Q. Do cats and dogs get along?
A. They can, but not all do. Depending on the age of the animals, temperament, and whether they have spent any time with the other species will all factor into whether they get along.

Q. What are the myths regarding black cats?
A. There are several. Once, black cats were considered companions of witches. If the black cat crossed your path it would bring bad luck. However, other cultures saw black cats in a more favorable light and saw them as a good omen.

Waste Bowls

I saw a beautiful antique Chinese porcelain bowl at an auction. It was blue and white with painted dragons, and it had an unusual shape -- rounded with a flared rim. The description called it a "zhadou," but did not say what that meant.

A zhadou is a bowl for discarding used tea leaves and other table scraps. They usually have a globular body, shoulders, a flared rim and a short foot. The shape resembles a squat vase. They are often porcelain, but some are made from pottery or cloisonne. Some auctions may list them as spittoons. In the early 20th century, the word "zhadou" was translated into English as "leys jar" from a Dutch term. Now, it is usually translated as "waste bowl" or "slop jar," but these are not the same thing.

European and American waste bowls, often part of 19th century silver or porcelain tea sets, are shaped like conventional bowls with straight sides and a round base. Some may be more elaborate, with features like a pedestal base, flared rim or side handles. Slop jars are not part of a table setting. They usually have handles and often have lids. They are used in a bathroom.

Q Advertising for beer and other alcoholic drinks is everywhere. I have a lighted (it still works) Budweiser King of Beers sign with pheasants eating corn on the cob. It has a curved plastic cover. Is it valuable?

A Breweriana is very popular these days, especially signs. While neon signs are the most popular and getting very high prices, yours is a popular brand, Budweiser, and is in working condition. It is worth between $190 and $225.

TIP: Use an old nylon stocking bunched into a ball to clean a rough-surfaced mirror frame, carved wooden piece, or other irregular surface.

A zhadou is a bowl for discarding table scraps. This one sold for $7,680 at Nadeau's Auction Gallery.
