DONNA ERICKSON'S BEST BITES

Prepare 24-Hour Refrigerator Pickles

On a recent afternoon when my son texted me to check in, I nimbly replied with sticky fingers, "I'm preoccupied with taking pics of pints of pickled ...." While laughing at the preponderance of P's, I accidentally pressed send. He immediately wrote back, "Pickled peppers? ... Ha!" Hmm, OK, so I may have left the peppers out of this recipe, but keeping with the "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled ..." verse that took us back to his childhood, I simply replied, "Perhaps."

Word play and food play are interchangeable with kids, no matter their age. Preparing pickled veggies this time of year is the perfect antidote for using and enjoying the abundance of fresh, tender and tasty produce in our gardens and markets. You and your kids can create full jars to stack in the refrigerator in less than an hour for a month of tasty sides.

Discover (like my family) that the vegetables will be sweet like bread and butter pickles but pack more flavor than the traditional grocery-store fare. Here's how to "pickle it" all:

24-HOUR PICKELS

- 5 cups distilled white vinegar
- 5 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons kosher salt
- 1/4 cup mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 1 tablespoon black peppercorns
- 6 bay leaves
- Fresh dill (optional)
- For the vegetables:
- 3 cucumbers, sliced in discs or quartered lengthwise
- 6 medium carrots, peeled and quartered lengthwise
- 2 big handfuls of green beans
- 1 medium cauliflower, broken into pieces
- 2 onions, halved and sliced

In a saucepan, combine the first six brine ingredients and bring to a boil, stirring until sugar is completely dissolved.

Place the vegetables in a large bowl. An adult should pour the hot brine mixture over the vegetables. Cool. Transfer equally to six clean jars, tucking a bay leaf and dill (if you choose) in each one. Screw lids on tightly and place in the refrigerator.

Refrigerate for 24 hours before serving. Keep refrigerated and use within one month.

Roast Skinny Sweet Potato Fries

There's skinny this and skinny that -- as in skinny jeans or a skinny latte -- so I couldn't resist calling my family's favorite new version of roasted sweet potatoes: "Skinny Sweet Potato Fries."

It happened at the kitchen counter recently when a basketful of the tuberous root inspired me. Instead of cutting the sweet potatoes in wedges like I've always done for roasting vegetables, I slimmed the slices and turned them into a new experience for a tasty side to ribs, burgers, sandwiches and fish. They make a tasty and unique appetizer or a healthy snack, too.

Sweet potatoes have a rich, nutty and sweet flavor, and they're full of good-for-you beta carotene, antioxidants and fiber. Transformed into these fries, the vegetable is mouthwatering, delicious, and fun for dipping with good ol' ketchup (a kid favorite) or a tasty low-fat mayonnaise/Sriracha combo.

SKINNY SWEET POTATO FRIES

Serves 4

- 4 medium sweet potatoes approximately 5-inches long, peeled
- 1 tablespoon olive or vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt or to taste
- Pepper

Preheat the oven to 400 F. Cut the sweet potatoes in half lengthwise. Place them with the flat side down and cut them into thin, long slices -- about a 1/4 inch thick. Place the thinly sliced pieces on their side and cut additional thin slices, making sure that they're all uniform in thickness.

Place the cut potatoes in a single layer on a non-stick or parchment-lined rimmed cookie sheet. Drizzle with olive oil, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Toss well. Bake for 15 minutes, rotate the sheet, and continue baking for another 10-15 minutes until golden brown and tender. Serve hot.

Extra Serving Ideas:

Spicy dipping sauce: Stir together 4 tablespoons of low-fat mayonnaise with 1 teaspoon of Sriracha hot chili sauce. Or substitute a squeeze of fresh lime juice for the sauce.

Garlic dipping sauce: Stir together 2 tablespoons of low-fat mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons of fat-free Greek yogurt and 1 clove of garlic, crushed and minced.

Season the fries before baking with any number of herbs and spices such as thyme, parsley, cumin, chili powder or smoked paprika.

Fauvism Art

Maurice de Vlaminck (1876-1958), born in Paris, was one of the painters who exhibited at the 1905 Salon d'Automne, considered the beginning of the Fauvism art movement. The name "Fauvism" came from a critic's negative reaction to the exhibition, insulting the paintings on display as the work of "wild beasts" ("fauves" in French).

Fauvism was characterized by the use of highly saturated color, abstracted shapes, and loose brushwork, a marked departure from the naturalistic, representational styles that dominated the art world at the time. Although de Vlaminck's fame never quite reached the heights of fellow Fauvists like Henri Matisse, he had considerable success at exhibitions. Art dealer Ambroise Vollard, known for taking risks on avant-garde artists, bought his entire stock of paintings in 1906 and introduced him to ceramist Andre Metthey.

De Vlaminck and Metthey enjoyed a fruitful collaboration for several years, producing about 300 pieces together. De Vlaminck painted the decorations on the ceramics. While the subject matter is different -- most of de Vlaminck's best-known paintings are scenic, but his ceramics often feature flowers, like the vase pictured here -- the vibrant colors and simple shapes that characterize his work are clearly visible. This vase sold for $1,905 at Fairfield Auction. Considering that oil on canvas paintings by de Vlaminck can sell for about $20,000, it's arguably a bargain.

Q: I found some old black-and-white photographs of famous musicians in my basement. The names of the musicians are printed underneath the picture. I have Louis Armstrong, Ray Charles, Stevie Wonder, and Muddy Waters. Can you help me find out how much they are worth?

A: Photographs of famous musicians like the ones you listed have been widely reproduced. You said the pictures have the musicians' names printed on them, so check for other information, like the photographer's name, copyright date, publisher, or edition number. These will help you determine the values of the photographs. If they are originals, they could be very valuable, and you may want to contact an auction house that sells photographs or celebrity memorabilia for more information. If they are copies, they are probably worth fairly little; about $10 to $20 each.

Fauvist artist Maurice de Vlaminck brought his use of bright colors, simple shapes, and free brush strokes to ceramics as well as canvases.

TIP: Don't put a runner or a vase on your wooden table if it is in sunlight. Eventually the finish will fade around the ornaments and leave a shadow of the items on the wood.

SATAN'S AGENDA IS TO keep you ignorant of the gospel message of Jesus Christ, and I can prove that fact! Since the Bible informs us that Satan is the god of this world (2 Corinthians 4:4), it should be obvious that he would control the educational systems of this world, also. As Abraham Lincoln once said, "But for the Bible, we would not know right from wrong." Satan has the ability to plant thoughts in your mind so that you think the thoughts you think are your own and you can't tell the difference. But actions speak louder than words, as you avoid Bible study at all costs, don't you? Do you ever think about the day of God's investigative Judgement? No, because Satan will not allow you to ever consider that thought, yet the Bible has almost 1000 verses on that subject alone. And the Bible alone reveals how to pass the investigative Judgement Day, to prove you not guilty. The Bible says, "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge, which Satan is determined to bring about in your life." Think about that. Tim, 208-217-8942, text

Ten Great Reasons to Adopt a Shelter Cat

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My partner wants to buy a purebred kitten over the internet. I think it's a terrible idea, and we would do just fine with a lovable cat from a local shelter. How can I change their mind? -- Janine L., Sherwood, Oregon

DEAR JANINE: I'll do my best!

- You'll worry less about genetic conditions. Purebred cats are prone to inherited diseases.
- You'll avoid scams. Internet-only purchases of "purebred" cats are notoriously shady. Reputable breeders often require potential owners to visit in person ... so they can evaluate you.
- Shelter adoptions are affordable in comparison, averaging $150 to $300 for cat adoptions in the U.S. and Canada.
- They'll throw discounts and swag at you. Annual exams with a participating vet clinic? Counseling and advice? Free tote bags? All this and more could be waiting for you with a shelter cat.
- Their medical needs are already taken care of. Spaying/neutering, deworming, tests, vaccinations and microchipping are done before a cat is made available to adopt, saving you $600 or more in retail vet fees.
- Health issues are more manageable. Crossbred cats have fewer genetic issues than purebred, and most "lifestyle" conditions like dental issues and skin conditions can be treated affordably.
- Shelters will help match a cat to you and your partner. They want adoptions to succeed, and a good match increases those odds.
- The breed your partner wants may be waiting at a shelter. All kinds of cats are accepted at local shelters, for many different reasons.
- You'll get a socialized cat. Shelters evaluate rescues before placing them for adoption.
- You'll love the heck out of a shelter cat. Whether you go home with a mixed-breed American shorthair or a yowling Siamese, your adopted cat will quickly become an inseparable part of your family.

Hunters: As Hunting Season Draws Near, Now Is The Perfect Time To Dial In Your Bow Or Firearm

Part 1 of 2

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

IDFG encourages hunters to dust off their firearms or bows and visit their local shooting or archery ranges to get dialed in for hunting season.

Hunting season will be here before we know it. If you haven't already, here's why now is the perfect time to dust off that firearm or bow in preparation for the 2026 season.

Only accurate rifles (and bows) are interesting

In a 1957 issue of American Rifleman Magazine, famed writer and marksman Col. Townsend Whelen quipped that "only accurate rifles are interesting." Townsend argued that only those who spent the time sighting in and taking pride in their firearm – we'll go ahead and assume he meant bows as well – produced rewarding outcomes as their skillset and marksmanship increased. Shooters who neglected their firearms, on the other hand, found the road to proficiency to be long and arduous, eventually losing interest in their hobby and soon disposing of it altogether.

As hunting season approaches, let Whelen's remark serve as a reminder that taking pride in your firearm or bow is merely the prologue to yet another edition of the hunting season. An obvious, yet important, reminder: Your hunt will not end successfully if you can't deliver a bullet or arrow on target when it matters most.

"Taking the time to prepare and become a better marksman is a hallmark of an ethical hunter," said Brenda Beckley, Hunter Education Administrator. "And the better marksman you become, the better your chances of successfully harvesting an animal."

Now that we've established the when to get started improving your aim, here's the how.

Get in range time

Fish and Game offers several options for shooting and/or archery ranges around the state. Blacks Creek, Farragut, Nampa and Garden Valley Shooting Range are all Fish and Game-owned, public shooting ranges designed for safe firearm/bow practice by shooters of all abilities.

In the southwest, Nampa's public facility features both an indoor and outdoor archery range, as well as an indoor air gun range. There is also the Boise River WMA archery range complete with 20 three-dimensional foam targets. In the Panhandle, there is Farragut Public Shooting Range, which also includes a one-mile, walk-through archery range. Several Idaho state parks, in cooperation with Fish and Game, have archery ranges with life-sized, three-dimensional targets that mimic big game animals.

There are several other shooting ranges located across the state, some of which are co-managed by Idaho Fish and Game and the Shooting Range Development Grant program. This program's mission is to provide funds to assist organizations or agencies to establish, upgrade, expand or otherwise improve public firearms and archery ranges in Idaho.

For a more comprehensive list of shooting ranges in Idaho, go check out the National Shooting Sports Foundation's Where to Shoot webpage (www.nssf.org/shooting/where-to-shoot). This state-by-state shooting range directory lists contact information, facilities available, maps and more for each range.

Calling before you go is highly recommended, as hours of operation, services or shooting opportunities may change. If you've never been to a public shooting range, we have a beginner's guide to get you started at idfg.idaho.gov/press/beginners-guide-public-shooting-ranges.

Pre-Season Prep Tips | Rifles

For rifle hunters, many shooting experts recommend setting your initial target at 25 yards to make sure you hit the paper if you have a new rifle, have replaced a scope or don't know where your rifle is hitting. After shooting at that distance, move your target out to 100 yards or more to finish the sighting-in process.

Consistent accuracy is the ultimate goal when practicing shooting skills, so it's important that hunters consider their effective shooting range and practice at all distances out to that maximum number.

It's also important to practice from a variety of shooting positions and not just from a bench. Think about it. When that 4-point buck or 6-point bull pauses along the hillside, you're not going to have the luxury of a bench rest and 5 minutes of slow breathing when you go to take that shot.

Shooters should try to replicate the conditions they are likely to encounter in the field as closely as possible, so after your rifle is sighted in, consider doing some exercise to get your heart rate elevated and your lungs working harder to mimic what shooting may feel like in the field.

"We stress in our hunter education courses that all hunters have an ethical obligation to know their personal limits and be prepared," Beckley said. "Practicing often, at a variety of distances and from a number of different shooting positions, will help hunters prepare for a variety of situations they may encounter."

Hot Tip: Hunters should always use the same ammunition for hunting as they did when sighting in their rifle.

Hunters: As Hunting Season Draws Near, Now Is The Perfect Time To Dial In Your Bow Or Firearm

Part 2 of 2

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Pre-Season Prep Tips | Shotguns

Don't let the Elmer Fudd cartoons fool you – there's a lot more to using a shotgun than just spraying a target with pellets. When it comes to preparation for wing shooting, hunters should focus on practicing different shots at different angles that may at first seem difficult.

Hot Tip: Be sure you use the choke and shell combination you plan to use for the hunting season. Modified chokes produce a moderately tight pattern, good for rabbits, quail and upland game birds. Full chokes have an even tighter pattern and are best suited for turkey, squirrels and other game at longer range.

Patterning a shotgun before the season is a fairly common practice with turkey hunters, but it's something upland and migratory bird hunters should consider, too. Knowing your pattern density at given distances can help you determine your effective range, and give you a good idea of how your shotgun performs with a particular choke and shell combination. Every shotgun is different, and your shotgun will likely perform differently if you change either of those variables.

Pre-Season Prep Tips | Bows

By this point in the game, most archery hunters using traditional and compound bows will already be dialed in as early-season and archery-only hunts kick off in late August.

But if you're new to the sport of bow hunting, you should start by visiting your local bow shop and get your bow tuned up, especially if you haven't shot much or at all since last fall.

After that, it's time to get your body back into shooting shape and practice at known and unknown distances. Archery ranges with life-sized, 3D targets are good place to practice your shooting and estimating distance in a field setting.

Hot Tip: Estimating distance is a lot more crucial in archery than in rifle hunting. To become proficient at gauging distances in the field, sharpen your eye by making estimates on various landmarks or 3D targets. Once you make an assessment, whip out your trusty rangefinder and confirm just how close or far off your naked eye was.

Fish and Game has ranges at its Boise River Wildlife Management Area and Farragut Shooting Range. You can also find archery ranges at some Idaho State Parks, including Hells Gate near Lewiston, Castle Rock near Albion and Dworshak near Orofino.

Remember that most ranges will not allow you to shoot broadheads, and they usually shoot differently than field tips, so you will need to resight in your bow when you make the switch.

So whether you're hauling a rifle or a recurve out into the field with you this hunting season, proper maintenance and preparation is a must. Be sure to brush up on your marksmanship and take care of your weapon to ensure a fun, safe (and "interesting") hunt.

IDFG Receives $1.65M Grant To Increase Hunting/Angling Public Access

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

The grant will help support and expand the Access Yes! program.

Thanks in part to a $1.65 million federal grant recently awarded to Idaho Fish and Game, hunters and anglers can look forward to more public access on private land through the Access Yes! program.

The grant will help support and expand Access Yes! — a program which improves hunting and fishing by compensating willing landowners who provide access to private land or allow access through it.

Installing a gate on an Access Yes! property

As of August 2026, about 328,000 acres of private property are enrolled in Access Yes! With the new funding, Fish and Game plans to offer more competitive lease rates to current participants and increase the number of acres over the next three years.

The department received the $1.65 million grant through the 2026 Voluntary Public Access and Habitat Incentive Program (VPA-HIP), funded by the Working Families Tax Cuts Act, and administered by the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). The VPA-HIP competitive grant program provides funding to help state and tribal governments encourage landowners to allow public access to their land for hunting, fishing, and other wildlife-dependent recreation.

"This grant funding goes directly toward strengthening and securing access agreements with landowners, which increases the amount of private land containing quality wildlife habitat that are open to public access in Idaho," said Katie Oelrich, Access Program Coordinator.

A portion of the grant will also support a wildlife viewing project in the Teton Valley, providing improved habitat and viewing opportunities for sandhill cranes and waterfowl.

"Hunters and Idaho Fish and Game are dealing with less private land to hunt on these days, driven by economic pressures, other hunting access markets, and changing land use. The good news is that with solid state and federal incentive programs working together, we can keep hunting access growing, support landowners and rural communities, and help conserve habitat," Oelrich said.

Access Yes! is one of a handful of partnerships and programs designed to improve access for hunters and anglers in Idaho, alongside State Endowment Access and the Large Tracts Program. More information is available on the Hunting and Fishing Access webpage at idfg.idaho.gov/visit.

Preventing Animal Cruelty: You can make a difference

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: It seems like every day I see another news story about animals being rescued from terrible situations: hoarding, breeding mills and so on. I want to help, but I can't keep animals due to my apartment building's rules. What can I do? I'm tired of feeling helpless. -- Macy G., Smyrna, Georgia

DEAR MACY: You are awesome. Thank you for wanting to step in and take action to stop animal abuse. That's the first, most important step.

Now, here's the next step: You can make a difference right in your community, primarily by being watchful and noticing the pets and other animals in the neighborhood. Does a neighbor's dog look emaciated or cower around their owner? Take notes.

On your daily drive, notice the animals that you pass. Is there a house with a lot of animals living outside? If you pass a farm or barn that has livestock or horses, how do the animals look? Are their ribs showing? Do they seem neglected?

From here, take steps:

- Talk to your neighbors. Learn whether they've noticed the same things.
- Create a WhatsApp or Signal group where members can privately share information.
- Get the phone number and email address of the local authority where you can make reports about possible animal cruelty. This may be animal control or the police department.
- When you make a report, include as many details as possible.

Another way to get involved is to support your local animal shelter. Donate funds, food or bedding. Ask about volunteering a few hours a month. Shelters are often the first place that rescued animals are taken to -- and the more resources they have, the better they can respond to the needs of these victims.

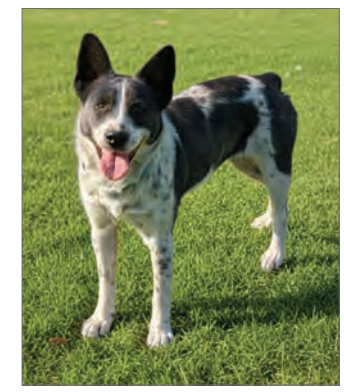
I will require regular professional grooming. This can be expensive, please look into the costs by talking to your favorite local groomer! I get along great with other dogs, I'm fine with cats and chickens! I'm completely housebroken and would prefer a home with a slower paced lifestyle. Could you be the right match for me? Apply today!



Hello everybody! My name is Zara! I am a 2-year-old spayed female Australian Cattle Dog, maybe mixed with a touch of Border Collie for coloration? I get along with other dogs, but I prefer my human friends. I would do best in a home as an only dog. Unless you have good experience managing a spicy girl! I am completely housebroken and extremely obedient. I'm loyal, athletic, an up for anything. I get along fine with all farm animals including chickens and cats. I love to go for rides in the car, I call shotgun! Are you an active, adventurous outdoorsy type person that could use a partner? Apply today!

Look us up on Facebook, Petfinder.com or email idahocoondog@yahoo.com for more information and an adoption application.

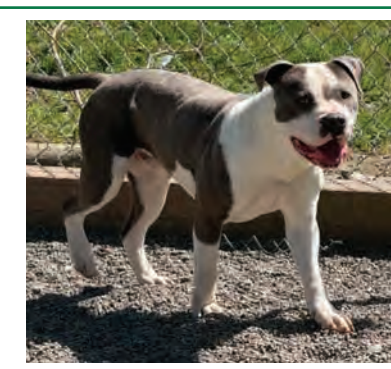
Pets of the Week: Mama K and Buddy

— Hope's Haven Animal Shelter —

Meet Mama K! This sweet old girl is an 8 year old dilute tortoiseshell shorthair. She is a super calm cat that would love a quiet, peaceful home. She does have hyperthyroidism, and is on a daily low-dose medication.



Meet Buddy he is 3 1/2 year old pit-bull. He is super sweet and loves all the attention he can get. He is not fond of cats thinks it's fun to chase them. Buddy is working on his leash skills as he loves to try to pull you everywhere. He is also working on rules, boundaries and limitations. He is looking for his new forever home with lots of love to give. He loves car rides and going everywhere with you.

All adoptions include vaccinations, worming, flea and ear mite treatment, spay/neuter and any medical treatment needed while staying with us, and they also come with a full check up from a veterinarian.

Hope's Haven Animal Shelter (Benewah Humane Society) is open Monday-Saturday, noon-4pm. Come into Hope's Haven to visit and view our animals or check them out first on our website. Give us a call for more information today!

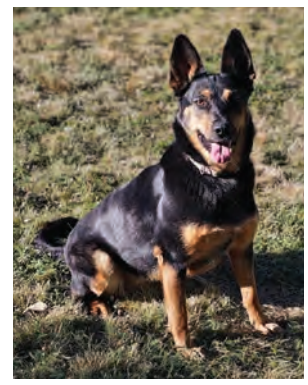
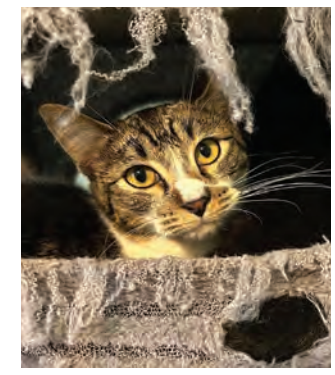
Pets of the Week: Lola and Sid

— Priest River Animal Rescue —



Meet Lola, an energetic and affectionate adult dog seeking her forever home. She loves countryside adventures, open spaces, toys, and endless games of fetch. Loyal and housetrained, Lola forms deep bonds and thrives as the only pet in a calm, structured home with a dog-experienced owner. A fenced yard is required, as she is protective of her home and prefers slow introductions to new people. Lola's adoption fees are fully sponsored, and she is available to meet by appointment only after an application. Earning her trust may take time, but Lola offers a rare, rewarding bond filled with love and companionship.



Sid is a playful spayed female kitty full of energy and curiosity. She loves staying active, exploring her surroundings, and bringing excitement wherever she goes. One of her favorite pastimes is watching "cat TV" from the window, though she also enjoys lively play sessions with other kittens in the playroom. Sid's affectionate and fun-loving personality makes her a wonderful companion for anyone seeking an interactive feline friend. She is sure to fill her future home with joy, laughter, and endless entertainment. If you're looking for a kitty with charm and spirit, Sid is ready to become a cherished member of your family.

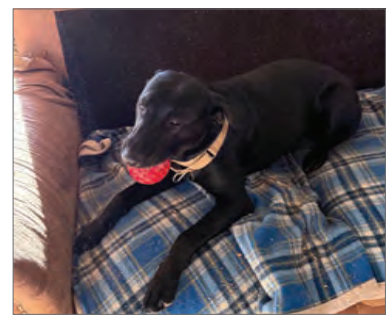
Pets of the Week: Poppy and Boeing

— Luke's Legacy —



Poppy is a 2-3 year old black lab mix. She came to us after earning the title of the longest resident in the shelter. She had been there since January 2026. I'm not sure why as she's such a wonderful girl. Poppy is playful, funny and very sweet natured. Poppy adores people and has eyes just stare into your soul. Her idea of a good day is to play fetch and be in the great outdoors enjoying all it has to offer. Poppy has been a friend to every foster here and gets along with everyone. She loves people of all sizes. Poppy would do well with an active couple or a family with kids and other dogs. I am assuming Poppy is house trained and she keeps a clean pen during the day. This wonderful girl has been waiting so long for a home to call her own. Could you be it? Poppy is spayed, current on vaccinations, dewormed, microchipped and flea and tick treated.

Boeing is a handsome 3 to 4 year-old German Shepherd/ Akita / Boxer mix with the cutest oversized ears honestly, it looks like he can pick up radio and TV stations with them! One of his favorite things? Being sung to. This sweet boy absolutely melts when people sing to him. Boeing is the perfect car companion, happily sitting quietly while taking in the sights out the window. He's wonderful with other dogs, loves people, and has the kindest, most soulful eyes. He enjoys playing with the other dogs in rescue and is already house trained, making him an easy addition to a home. It's clear someone loved Boeing at one time and spent time working with him. Why he ended up unclaimed in a shelter after arriving there on January 13 is truly a mystery. Despite everything, he remains loving, gentle, and eager to bond with his people. This special boy would thrive with an active or semi-active person or family who can include him in everyday life and adventures. His compatibility with cats or chickens is currently unknown.

Call or text Erin for an application 208-755-7127 or email emwllrd@gmail.com with a letter of introduction.

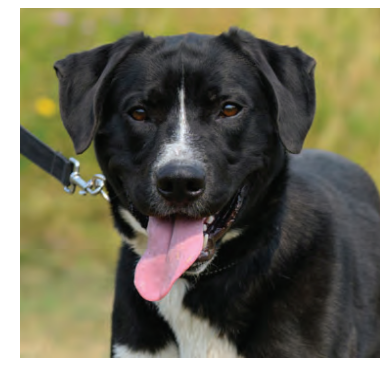
Pets of the Week: Bo and Buddy

— Better Together Animal Alliance—

Meet Bo! He's a 5 year old dapper grey tabby with big golden eyes and a quiet, confident presence. Bo is fixed and microchipped, and he's been an indoor cat for most of his life. He enjoys having a bit of space to relax-and when he wants alone time, he'll happily settle in somewhere cozy. When Bo is in the mood to play, he's fully engaged. His favorites include a laser pointer and small toys he can bat around with his paws. He's also clean, curious, and tends to be very independent. If you're looking for a calm, self-assured companion who's comfortable with a routine and knows how to enjoy himself, Bo just might be your guy.



Meet Buddy! At about 4 years old and 60 pounds, Buddy is a happy, playful guy with a bright smile and a heart full of love. He's been friendly with everyone he meets and is always excited to make new friends. Buddy loves spending time with his people, whether that means going for a walk, tossing around a favorite toy, or simply soaking up some attention. If you're looking for a fetch buddy, he's your guy! He knows a few commands, too, and is always eager to show off his smarts. With his cheerful personality, wagging tail and zest for life, Buddy is sure to bring plenty of joy to his new family.

Pets of the Week: Big Guy and Pearl

— Companions Animal Center —

Big Guy is a 7-year-old mouser! He is looking for a barn home where he can show off his expertise! Provide him with food, water, and care, and he will repay you by taking care of those pesky rodents.

Pearl, Coonhound mix, approximately 5 years old Pearl is a sweet girl who is ready to find her forever home! She is looking for an active family who will include her in their adventures and give her plenty of love and attention. Pearl would make a wonderful best friend and cuddle bug. Whether she's out enjoying an adventure or curled up beside her person, she just wants to be part of the family. If you're looking for a loving, loyal companion who will be by your side through it all, Pearl could be the perfect match!

2026 Fall Chinook Season Opener: What Anglers Need to Know

— Idaho Fish & Game —

Idaho's 2026 fall Chinook Salmon season opens Tuesday, Aug. 18th, and anglers heading to the Clearwater, Snake and Salmon rivers should be aware of an important change to the daily bag and possession limits for this year's fishery.

2026 Fall Chinook Season

Season dates: Aug. 18th—Nov. 1st, 2026

Fishing days: Seven days per week

Daily limit: Three adult fall Chinook per day, only one of which may be adipose-intact (unclipped). There is no daily limit on jack fall Chinook.

Possession limit: Nine adult fall Chinook, only three of which may be adipose-intact (unclipped).

Season limit: There is no season limit for fall Chinook Salmon.

Anglers should review the current fall Chinook regulations for specific fishing boundaries and other rules before heading to the water. idfg.idaho.gov/fish/chinook/rules/fall-runNote: North Fork Clearwater opens September 1st.

2026 Season Forecast

Anglers can expect the 2026 fall Chinook return to be below recent averages.

Approximately 26,000 adult fall Chinook are currently projected to return to Lower Granite Dam, including about 20,885 hatchery-origin and 5,370 natural-origin adults.

The hatchery component of the run should provide meaningful harvest opportunity this fall. However, the forecasted return of natural origin fall Chinook is lower than what Idaho has experienced in recent years and will be an important consideration as Idaho Fish and Game monitors the fishery.

Why does the number of wild fish matter to anglers?

Idaho's fall Chinook fishery is primarily limited by allowable impacts to natural-origin fish. Simply put, the fewer natural-origin fish that return, the fewer natural-origin fish anglers can harvest before allowable harvest limits are reached.

That is the reason for this year's change allowing only one unclipped adult in the daily bag limit. The regulation is intended to reduce harvest of natural-origin adults while directing more harvest toward adipose-clipped hatchery fish. This should help provide fishing opportunities while protecting the smaller natural-origin return.

Conversion to Lower Granite will be important

The preseason forecast at Lower Granite Dam assumes a relatively normal survival rate of 70% as fish migrate through the Columbia and lower Snake rivers. This rate is referred to as the "Conversion" rate from Bonneville Dam to Lower Granite Dam.

Last year demonstrated how quickly that outlook can change when conversion rates dropped under 60%. If conversion rates during 2026 are similar to the poorer rates observed last year, the return to Lower Granite could fall short of the run projection. If conversion is near average, the return should be much closer to the preseason forecast.

For that reason, anglers shouldn't put too much emphasis on early August dam counts. The next several weeks will provide much better information about the actual strength of Idaho's return.

What should anglers expect for the Opener?

Fall Chinook typically arrive in Idaho in increasing numbers during the latter half of August, with fishing improving as more fish enter the Snake and Clearwater rivers, typically making early September the ideal time to fish. That said, Salmon fishing has been closed on the lower rivers in Idaho for a while and Fall Chinook often begin stacking up in Idaho before the August 18th opener. Since August 10th, about 1,000 adult Fall Chinook have passed Lower Granite. This is comparable to past seasons, so those who always chase the opening bite should expect similar results.

IDFG will continue monitoring the run

Idaho Fish and Game biologists will closely monitor dam passage, PIT-tag information, harvest and angler effort throughout the fall season. This data will provide a clearer picture of the run as additional fish enter the Columbia and Snake river systems.

The next two to four weeks will be particularly informative. As the run develops, managers will have a much better understanding of whether the return is tracking near the preseason forecast and whether fish are successfully converting upstream to Lower Granite Dam.

Fishing Boundary Waters

For anglers fishing boundary waters, an important thing to remember is that you may exercise the privileges of only one state's license at a time.

For example, if you are fishing with two rods under an Idaho two-pole permit while in boundary waters, you are fishing under Idaho privileges and must follow Idaho's associated regulations, including tagging requirements.

Likewise, possessing licenses from both states does not allow an angler to combine the possession limits from each state while fishing boundary waters. Anglers are entitled to the limit allowed under the license they are using.

Anglers planning to move between boundary waters and Washington-only waters should pay particular attention to Washington's regulations.

Washington regulations state:

"Before utilizing a Washington fishing license or fishing Washington only waters, any fish retained while using another state's license must be returned to shore before continuing to angle."

In practical terms, an angler should not harvest a fall Chinook in boundary waters using an Idaho permit and then continue fishing in Washington-only waters with that fish still in the boat.

Anglers who plan to fish both boundary waters and Washington-only waters during the same trip are encouraged to review Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife regulations (wdfw.wa.gov/fishing/regulations/emergency-rules/fall-chinook-harvest-open-snake-river-2026-08). or contact WDFW before fishing to make sure they understand how the regulations apply to their specific situation.

The Bottom Line

The 2026 fall Chinook return is expected to be below average, particularly for natural-origin fish, but anglers should still have meaningful fishing and harvest opportunity this fall.

Remember the major regulation change for 2026: three adults may be harvested daily, but only one may be unclipped.

There are already fall Chinook entering Idaho and for those brave enough to battle the crowds, remember this: stay patient, respect thy fellow angler, and never take a good netter for granted.

Fauvism Art

Maurice de Vlaminck (1876-1958), born in Paris, was one of the painters who exhibited at the 1905 Salon d'Automne, considered the beginning of the Fauvism art movement. The name "Fauvism" came from a critic's negative reaction to the exhibition, insulting the paintings on display as the work of "wild beasts" ("fauves" in French).

Fauvism was characterized by the use of highly saturated color, abstracted shapes, and loose brushwork, a marked departure from the naturalistic, representational styles that dominated the art world at the time. Although de Vlaminck's fame never quite reached the heights of fellow Fauvists like Henri Matisse, he had considerable success at exhibitions. Art dealer Ambroise Vollard, known for taking risks on avant-garde artists, bought his entire stock of paintings in 1906 and introduced him to ceramist Andre Metthey.

De Vlaminck and Metthey enjoyed a fruitful collaboration for several years, producing about 300 pieces together. De Vlaminck painted the decorations on the ceramics. While the subject matter is different -- most of de Vlaminck's best-known paintings are scenic, but his ceramics often feature flowers, like the vase pictured here -- the vibrant colors and simple shapes that characterize his work are clearly visible. This vase sold for $1,905 at Fairfield Auction. Considering that oil on canvas paintings by de Vlaminck can sell for about $20,000, it's arguably a bargain.

Q: I found some old black-and-white photographs of famous musicians in my basement. The names of the musicians are printed underneath the picture. I have Louis Armstrong, Ray Charles, Stevie Wonder, and Muddy Waters. Can you help me find out how much they are worth?

A: Photographs of famous musicians like the ones you listed have been widely reproduced. You said the pictures have the musicians' names printed on them, so check for other information, like the photographer's name, copyright date, publisher, or edition number. These will help you determine the values of the photographs. If they are originals, they could be very valuable, and you may want to contact an auction house that sells photographs or celebrity memorabilia for more information. If they are copies, they are probably worth fairly little; about $10 to $20 each.

Fauvist artist Maurice de Vlaminck brought his use of bright colors, simple shapes, and free brush strokes to ceramics as well as canvases.

TIP: Don't put a runner or a vase on your wooden table if it is in sunlight. Eventually the finish will fade around the ornaments and leave a shadow of the items on the wood.

Range Grant Application Period Is Open; Deadline Is Nov. 2

— Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game —

Competitive grants are available to upgrade gun and archery ranges.

Idaho Fish and Game enhances recreational shooting ranges through its Shooting Range Development Grant program to assist organizations or agencies to establish, upgrade, expand, or otherwise improve public firearms and archery ranges in Idaho.

"This is a great opportunity for public range operators — either clubs or government agencies — to improve and enhance their facilities to better serve public shooters and archers," said Sarah VanAcker, Fish and Game's Statewide Range Manager.

Applications for grants are due Nov. 2, and can be found on the Shooting Range Development Grant Application webpage at idfg.idaho.gov/shoot/range-grants.

Organizations eligible to submit a grant application include:

- Nonprofit shooting organizations having as their purpose the promotion of firearm and archery safe handling and proper care, and improving shooting technique and marksmanship (e.g., rod and gun clubs, fish and game associations, sportsmen's clubs, and firearm and archery ranges).
- State or local governments that own and manage shooting ranges that are open to the public.

All applications will be evaluated by Fish and Game staff and the Fish and Game Citizen Shooting Range Advisory Committee to determine their potential to expand and enhance safe shooting opportunities for the general public and Idaho's hunter education program. Other considerations include the federal funding is available by reimbursement, not a cash advance, and requires the grantee to contribute 25% of the project cost through donated labor or materials.

Application process includes:

- Complete the application, which are also available at regional offices.
- Submit application to regional office by Nov. 2.
- Grant awards will be determined in spring and successful applicants notified.

Public shooting range grants are funded through the federal Pittman–Robertson Wildlife Restoration Act, which collects excise taxes from manufacturers of firearms, ammunition, and archery equipment. Each year, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service distributes these funds to state wildlife agencies based on a formula that accounts for the state's land area and number of licensed hunters. The funding supports wildlife conservation, hunter education, and the development and management of shooting ranges. Some grants also use Idaho Fish & Game's Fine and Forfeiture funds, generated from IDFG violation fees.

National Eat Outside Day

August 31st

— National Day Calendar —

Friends, fresh air, and good food are the focus of National Eat Outside Day every year on August 31. Whether at home, a park, a favorite restaurant or food truck, or the beach, food just tastes better when we eat it under the open sky.

Many foods lend themselves to eating outdoors but sometimes it's as simple as taking your prepared plate out to the balcony, porch, or patio. Also known as al fresco dining, many restaurants offer patio seating so their patrons can enjoy their meals while taking in the city, beach, countryside or just people watch. Even more temperate climates offer seasonal outdoor dining.

Eat Outside Day encourages you to taste the sunshine (or the moonlight) while eating your meal. It's like a mini stay-cation where you get to recharge while enjoying a delicious feast outdoors.

How To Observe National Eat Outside Day

National Eat Outside Day offers limitless possibilities to celebrate! Try these ideas:

- Host an outdoor brunch or just take your bacon and eggs outside to enjoy.
- Take your sack lunch outside to eat during your break.
- Pack a picnic basket and head to the park.
- Visit your favorite restaurant and sit on the patio this time.
- Invite friends over for a BBQ.
- Take a dinner river cruise.
- Pack some sandwiches and trail mix and go for a hike.
- Stay up late, pop some popcorn, make cheese and crackers or grab the leftovers. Spread a blanket under the stars and look for constellations while snacking.
- Organize an outdoor potluck.
- Host your book club outdoors with all your favorite foods and beverages.
- Go camping. You're nearly guaranteed to eat outdoors when you're in the Great Outdoors.
- Take a cue from your garden. Wash off those ripening vegetables and fruits with a spritz from the hose and savor your bounty.

And don't forget to check out the National Day Calendar Recipes pages for many delicious ideas. Use #NationalEatOutdoorsDay to share your celebration on social media.

National Eat Outside Day History

National Eat Outdoors Day has been observed since at least 2006. However, we were unable to identify the source of the observance.

Eat Outside FAQ

Q. What does "al fresco" mean?

A. It means "in the air" and typically is used to reference outdoor dining.

Q. Is outdoor dining a new fad?

A. Not really. Humans have been eating outdoors for centuries. Sometimes out of necessity (caves, huts, teepees, covered wagons don't always have a lot of space for indoor eating).

Q. What are some of the best foods to eat outdoors?

A. Just about anything can be eaten outdoors depending on the setting. However, some foods are better than others when it comes to portability and convenience. Sandwiches, finger foods, fresh fruits and vegetables all fit the picnic profile. When we're cooking at home, nearly anything can be on the menu – including soup.

Murder Mystery Dinner Brings the Fun to Priest River

— Out of the Box Entertainment —

Out of the Box Entertainment presents a night of mystery and fun. Put on your tux or evening gown (or your favorite jeans and cowboy boots) and strut your stuff on the red carpet. This audience-participation murder mystery is directed by Donna Maki, written by Tony Schwartz and Marylou Ambrose, and is produced by special arrangement with The Lakeside Players, Tafton, PA, with special thanks to Assistant Director Shannon Holifield, Web Designer Yvonne Clark, and Marketing Assistant Audrey Reichert.

Maître d' Butch Lee welcomes guests to the TonyLou Awards Show, while celebrity gossip columnist Conrad Gabbles [Josiah VanMeer] greets (and insults) his fellow celebrity attendees. The show is turned over to beloved host T.J. Hardcastle [Daniel Cook], heir of the famous singing, dancing, and flying Hardcastles. T.J. sings the famous TonyLou theme song, and the ceremony is officially underway!

But wait, is there trouble in paradise? Has-been movie star Louie Lush [Joshua Herder] is toting more booze than the Budweiser Clydesdales. Monty Carlo [Chris Coote] might be a star in his own country, but his English is almost unintelligible. Celia B. DeMilo [Beth Ann Sturgeon] has a weakness for young men, and her newest boy-toy, Claude-Jean Van Dumbe, [Chris Reichert] will do anything to become a star. M.J. Hardcastle [Linda Cassella] carries a grudge against her brother and his wife, Angelina Canoli [Erin Zinke], who "wins" an award every year. Is Funky Brewster [Shannon Holifield] as adorable as she appears, or is there a nasty secret lurking under that innocent exterior? The fact is, everyone has a nasty secret, so keep your eyes and ears open and gather clues because someone is about to be ruthlessly murdered, and it's up to you to guess whodunit and why! Prizes will be awarded to the first three people to correctly guess both the murderer and the motive.

The curtain rises on the first show on Friday, Sept. 18th, at Positively 4th Street Wellness in Priest River. For more information on show dates and reservations, visit outoftheboxentertainment.org, find us on Facebook, or call Donna Maki at 509-671-1442.
